The Governor's 3 Children.
He Would Prefer Heaven.
You Gave Us Beer.
Nervously Shifting Gold.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MRS. ANNA ANTONIO, mother of three children, convicted of murdering her husband, must die in the electric chair, within 24 hours. A new trial is refused; there is no hope for her, except in Governor Lehman.

That, fortunately for human decency, is a big EXCEPT. To kill a woman, or to let a woman die when you have the power to prevent it, cannot be pleasant. It must be particularly unpleasant for such a man as Governor Lehman, whose heart must be touched as he thinks of Mrs. Antonio's three innocent children, guilty of nothing, who must go through life hearing, "their mother died in the electric chair."

PERHAPS IT IS true that "there is nothing to be said for the condemned mother."

But there is much to be said for her three unhappy children, and what those children's tearful faces say, without any words, will be heard by Governor Lehman, who looks every day upon the faces of his own three children.

Every day in the United States murderers are turned loose, dangerous criminals are paroled, that they may return to robbery and murder after they are set free. To commute to life imprisonment the sentence of this miserable woman would not undermine justice.

For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

HAVING CONSIGNED brave old von Hindenburg to Valhalla in an eloquent speech, Chancellor Hitler is back in Berlin, absolute ruler of Germany, and the world waits to see what will happen now. In the coming plebiscite, people will be voting on Chancellor Hitler's taking of von Hindenburg's seat. The voice of von Hindenburg himself will be heard; records of his speech in praise of Hitler broadcast all over Germany, a great campaign force.

It is as though, in our coming elections, the voice of Lincoln should be heard advising Americans to vote for Republicans.

GENERAL VON HINDENBURG might not like Chancellor Hitler's sending him to Valhalla, instead of the good, comfortable, customary old-fashioned Lutheran heaven.

"Valhalla," from an old Norse word, Valhoell, meaning "hall of the slain," was reserved for men killed on the field of battle, and carried all bloody through the air by beautiful Valkyries, ladies with long hair.

They spent their time, in Valhalla, drinking and bragging, probably about victories. Von Hindenburg, a great general, was no hard drinker, and bragging was foreign to him.

A peaceful heaven, with nice white wings, a harp, conversations with Martin Luther, and Emperor William, his old Prussian master of the 1870 war, to talk with, would suit him better.

ON HIS TRIP through the arid regions of North Dakota, President Roosevelt saw signs, "You gave us beer, now give us water." The President, deeply moved and most sympathetic, addressing suffering farmers asking for water:

"I can tell you, from the bottom of my heart, truthfully: If it is possible for us to solve the problem, we are going to do it."

President Roosevelt might get from the heirs of the late William Boyce Thompson suggestions for transferring surplus waters of the Missouri and Mississippi to lands farther west. Mr. Thompson, a brilliant, successful American, made a study of that problem, and often mentioned it.

The sign, "You gave us beer, now give us water," might have reminded the President of the king, told by one of his noblemen that he made more fuss over a great artist than he did over any duke in his kingdom. The king is supposed to have replied:

"I myself can create any one of those dukes, but only God can create a great artist."

It was easy, the President said, for him to give the people beer, when they showed that they wanted it, but only God can give them water, suddenly, although engineers with money to spend might do it gradually.

THIS NEWS will make you thoughtful. All the gold in the San Francisco mint, amounting to fifteen hundred Million dollars, has been moved from San Francisco to Denver, very quiet-

CITY SWEPT BY HEAVY STORM

Homes Flooded, Autos Stalled as Rainfall Sets Year's Mark

—And Did It Pour!

Rainfall during today's storm totaled 1.26 inches, the greatest any day this year.

The downpour reduced Pittsburgh's deficiency to 5.31 inches below a normal of 23.55 inches for this date.

Pittsburgh's worst rainstorm of the year broke today, flooding many sections of the city and county, causing the collapse of a hillside near the Seventeenth Street Incline, and demoralizing traffic during the morning rush hour. The Greenfield and Turtle Creek districts were hardest hit.

In the Forward avenue district, Greenfield, flood waters backed up from clogged sewers and covered an area of five square blocks, reaching up to the first floor windows in numerous homes and buildings.

TRACKS COVERED

The heavy landslide bore down upon a switch engine and day coach in the Pennsylvania yards, pushing them off the tracks and burying the coach to its windows.

A dozen homes on Boundary street, in Panther Hollow, were virtually marooned as a raging torrent swept down the hollow.

Sewers at Boundary and Joncaire streets were quickly clogged, and in a few minutes the backwater reached a depth of more than six feet, flooding basements, lawns and sidewalks.

The store of Mrs. Dominico Dematto, 9 Boundary street, was flooded up to the first floor.

FURNITURE DAMAGED

Basement furnishings were washed out in several of the homes before excited residents could carry their belongings to safety.

In East Pittsburgh, at Braddock and Electric avenues, a storm sewer burst from the torrent of water and three blocks adjoining the new office building of the Westinghouse Electric and

Diners in Panic As Car Crashes Cafe

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—An automobile skidded from the street car tracks and plunged through a plate glass window into a downtown restaurant today. Diners were thrown into panic. No one was injured.

PLANT SWEPT BY FLAMES

While thunder roared and lightning flashed about them, firemen today battled flames that shot high in the air from a North Side five-story mattress factory.

Ten fire companies sped to the National Mattress Company brick plant at Madison avenue and Vista street in answer to four alarms.

From nearby hills, even as far away as Bigelow boulevard, hundreds of pedestrians and motorists stopped to watch the flames in spectacular flight.

The fire was blamed on lightning.

Two firemen were hurt.

Electric light wires were cut down.

Deputy Fire Chief Daniel Jones estimated the damage at $75,000.

Boy Jailed For Stealing Ear of Corn

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A 19-year-old boy who admitted he stole one ear of corn was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $25 today.

The youth, Joe Lackoski, pleaded guilty before Alderman Morgan McClelland, who gave this warning:

"Anybody else caught stealing from farmers' fields in this territory will receive even stiffer sentences."

The boy was charged with taking the ear from the cornfield of J. P. Jorn. State police said the farm had been frequently raided by thieves. They were watching it and arrested Lackoski after the alleged theft.

Middie Races Death In Fast Navy Plane

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Midshipman Wilson G. Reifenrath landed at the Naval Academy today in one of the Navy's fast seaplanes in a race to the bedside of his father, Charles H. Reifenrath, who is critically ill at Helena, Mont.

After a speedy flight from the battleship Wyoming, at Lynhaven Roads, the midshipman left at once for his home in Montana.

Dollar Goes Down On London Market

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's silver action today sent the United States dollar down 1 15-16 cents to the pound on the foreign exchange market after its official close.

Not long after the official close, at 5.05 1-16, the financial news ticker caused a buzz among the brokers and the dollar fell off to 5.07.

Flee to Attics in Flood Here, Witness Says

Describing the flood that covered a section of Panther Hollow, near Boundary and Joncaire streets, Oakland, an eyewitness, Andy Beri, resident of the district, said:

"Water rushing down the hillside surrounding the district soon filled the lower floors of about 24 houses in that neighborhood.

"The houses were below the street level. Residents rushed to the upper floors of their homes, after vain attempts to save their furniture.

"Some six automobiles parked in the district were covered above the running boards with the brown flood waters. The place looks like a lake."

Butler County Board Acts After State Orders 'Torture' Quiz

By MARGARET GARRAHAN
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 9.—In the wake of charges of cruelty to aged inmates of the Butler County Home, Supt. Fred G. Herold today stood ousted from his post following surprise action by Butler County Commissioners late yesterday.

In a single move, the Commissioners suspended Herold and named J. C. Barr, county auditor, now serving his second term, active superintendent of the institution, effective immediately.

Whether Herold will be reinstated later depends on results of a pending investigation of alleged tortures and cruelties by the State Department of Welfare, officials said.

VOTE OUSTER

Motion for a vote on the action was called for by E. R. Turner, chairman of the board and sponsor of Herold's appointment to the post. Turner's Republican conferee, T. Payne Nixon, made the motion, which was seconded by R. O. Wood, Democratic Commissioner. All three members of the board voted affirmatively.

Their action followed several days of discussion, it was revealed, and came as a complete surprise. The ouster was understood to be the culmination of Wood's "plan," the unexplained reason for the request Tuesday that District At-

COURT UPHOLDS NICOLA APPEAL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today set aside the conviction of F. F. Nicola, Pittsburgh capitalist, who had been sentenced to a year and a day and fined $2,500 on charges of attempted income tax evasion.

The Circuit Court in its decision today by Judge J. Warren Davis held the government had failed to make a case against him.

Since the law does not permit the court to order the acquittal of Nicola, Judge Davis ordered a new trial.

This is not likely, it was said, as the government's case has been collapsed by Judge Davis' ruling that a single sheet of typewriting, purported to be ordered from Nicola to his bookkeeper to "shift" figures in the books, was not legal evidence against Nicola.

Nicola was indicted in Pittsburgh in November, 1931, on charges of evading payment of more than $32,000 in his income tax statements for 1928 and 1929. He was brought to trial in March of last year and found guilty on charges of evading $26,394 1928 income tax.

Defense attorneys immediately asked for a new trial and sentence was suspended here on condition that he pay a $2,500 fine and the tax levy agreed upon by the government officials.

'Other Man' Slain, Dentist Arrested

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. O. T. Lyon today shot to death Lou Totten, a walking contest judge, when he found Totten and Mrs. Lyon together on the mezzanine floor of a hotel.

Lyon, a dentist, was arrested.

MOTHER OF 3 MUST DIE TONIGHT

Last Minute Pardon Now Only Hope for Mrs. Antonio

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Tonight, save only for the power and pity of his excellency the Governor, Anna Antonio must keep her thrice-broken rendezvous with death.

The courts agaih have shaken their heads in negation to this self-widowed mother's pleas for life. Her counsel has pounded frantically at every legal door, only to find each of them closed. Gov. Herbert Lehman, himself—like the condemned woman—a parent of three children, is the only remaining hope.

The death chamber, thrice cheated, is ready again. Not since 1927, when Ruth Snyder—a husband killer, too—sat down to the dynamo's humming death, has a woman died there.

Three times before Anna Antonio, only 29, has seen her number go up, and three times come down. Each time it was the Governor who saved her by the mere lifting of a telephone receiver, the mere scratching of a pen. As simple as that.

But today? The Governor only said:

"I have taken no action."

Did he mean:

"I will take no action"?

Anna Antonio, watching in her tortured mind's eye the hands of

'BAGDAD' FLIERS DOWN IN LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The Trail of the Caribou landed here today after a flight of 31 hours and 43 minutes from Wasaga Beach, Ont.

The fliers, James Ayling and Leonard Reid, had set out to establish a new long distance record with Baghdad, Iraq, as their goal.

Their landing means that they only covered a little more than half of the 6,300 miles they had set as their objective.

The Canadian airmen covered approximately 3,700 miles. Their time in the air was estimated at 30 hours and 43 minutes.

Their rapidly diminishing supply of gasoline forced the fliers to change their plans and to decide to land in England, Reid said.

They brought their plane down on a private flying field in Middlesex a short time after they circled over the Hendon Airdrome on the northern outskirts of London.

SILVER EDICT BOOMS STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A wave of inflationary buying swept over the stock market today, as foreign currencies rose sharply against the dollar, following announcement of President Roosevelt's nationalization of silver.

In the last hour active buying swept through the list, and the ticker fell in arrears as shorts rushed to cover. There were many advances of $1 to $3 or more over yesterday's close, or $2 to $5 over the low levels reached this morning.

In the bond market, United States government issues had been heavy in the early dealings, but much of the loss was recovered later, despite the drop of the dollar in foreign exchange dealings.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—New high prices for the year for all grains were written on the Chicago market's huge blackboards today, the fourth consecutive trading session in which broad speculative buying has hoisted quotations above previous peaks.

Floundering below yesterday's close, the market near midsession was electrified by announcement of president's nationalization of silver, and wheat prices bounded up 2½ cents almost instantly.

U. S. ORDERS SURRENDER OF METAL

President Here Tomorrow

President Roosevelt will pass through Pittsburgh early tomorrow.

The train bearing him back to Washington will stop at Laughlin Junction, Hazelwood, at 5:18 a. m.

The Presidential Special on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad also will stop at New Castle Junction at 3:50 a. m. and Connellsville at 6:28 a. m.

President Roosevelt, speeding back to Washington by train today pressed forward his New Deal drive with these developments.

1—He nationalized silver at 50.01 cents an ounce, by executive order announced in Washington. A wave of buying swept the stock market and grain prices soared to new highs.

2—He gave notice, in an address at Green Bay (Wis.), that the New Deal is here to stay because "neither the demand nor the actionu has reached the end of the road." (Story on Page Four.)

(Text of silver proclamation on Page 30.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today nationalized the nation's store of silver and called for its delivery to the United States Mints within 90 days at a price of 50.01 cents an ounce.

The action was taken by executive order under authority granted by Congress in the silver purchase act passed last session. Secreary of the Treasury Morgenthau made public the order and an accompanying Presidential proclamation at a press conference.

In taking over the silver, Morgenthau told reporters the government was exercising the right of eminent domain. His only comment was:

"I am very much relieved that it's over."

'NEW DEAL' TO STAY

At almost the same hour, at Green Bay, Wis., President Roosevelt, in an aggressive speech, was declaring:

"The New Deal is going on and neither the demand or the action has reached the end of the road."

The nationalization of silver followed by a little more than a year somewhat similar action with

Raft and 'Beauty Ear' Absent; Fight Fans Boo

International News Service.

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 9.—Because George Raft, slick-haired movie star, failed to maze an appearance at the Oakland Auditorium last night as the chief second of Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, a capacity crowd was infuriated.

Boos and catcalls and stamping of feet came from 9,000 spectators, 65 per cent of them being women who had paid 40 cents for admission instead of the usual courtesy entrance fee of 10 cents to feminine prize fight fans.

The women had flocked to the Auditorium to get a peek at Raft's new "beauty culture" ear.

The crowd's anger was not appeased by the 10-round battle between Rosenbloom and Pietro Georgi, of San Francisco. Rosenbloom slapped Georgi around for the entire 10 rounds to win an easy decision.

The boos and catcalls started when the matchmaker sorrowfully read a telegram from Raft in Hollywood.

A few days ago, Rosenbloom's manager announced that Raft had purchased a half interest in the light-heavyweight champion for $10,000 and would act as chief second for Rosenbloom in last night's fight.

M'NAIR'S AX HOVERING OVER AIDES IN SCULLY'S OFFICE

SINGLE TAXER ONE OF 8 TO HANG ON

Ouster of Solicitor Hints New Raid on Party Backers

They were putting on their hats and coats in the City Solicitor's office today and bidding each other goodbye.

For Mayor McNair was expected to follow up his firing of Solicitor Cornelius B. Scully by seeing to it that eight of Scully's nine assistants either quit or are discharged.

One of the eight, John J. Kennedy, handed in his resignation yesterday.

Only assistant who is expected to escape the pink slip is Conrad H. Checco, who has been making single-tax speeches for the Mayor.

The group of assistants conferred with Scully during the afternoon and adjourned without an announcement. But it was understood there may be one tomorrow in the form of a mass resignation in protest against Scully's ouster.

BONSALL FAVORED

The Mayor is expected to name Scully's successor tomorrow. Attorney Ward Bonsall probably will get the job. He has been handling the Mayor's private battle with Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board.

Scully has been making a fight to save the job of Assistant Solicitor Thomas M. Brenner, who could soon go on pension. But this is likely to fail.

Besides Brenner and Kennedy, those who are slated to go are James L. O'Toole, Jr., A. L. Wolk, Austin L. Staley, Emanuel Krause, William Alvah Stewart, Jr., and Wilbur C. Douglass.

Scully said today that he had not received the letter of "regret" which the Mayor announced he had written. This "regret" was expressed by His Honor after he had demanded Scully's resignation.

KENNEDY'S OFFER

Scully has been considered by the Mayor as the representative of David L. Lawrence, Democratic State Chairman. In addition, Scully has been guilty of disagreeing with the Mayor on a number of matters.

The Mayor's feud with Lawrence also has resulted in the dismissal of Charles J. Lawrence, brother of David L. Lawrence and business agent of the Plumbers' Union, who held a position on the Plumbers' Examining Board.

Theodore L. Moritz, secretary to the Mayor, was considered for a time as a temporary appointment to succeed Scully, but Moritz says he will not be named.

GARLAND INDIGNANT

President of Council Robert Garland became indignant at the forced resignation of Scully and the rumored appointment of Moritz. In a prepared statement he said:

"I am shocked and sincerely sorry to learn of the Mayor's action.

"Mr. Scully is an exceptionally good lawyer and the advice he has given Council during the past several months, in written opinions and in many consultations on various subjects, always has been sound. He was a real ornament in the Mayor's cabinet.

"If it is true that Mr. Moritz is to succeed him, it will, in my opinion, be a step from the sublime to the ridiculous.

"I am strongly of the opinion, however, that such an appointment will not receive the support of Council; in fact, I cannot conceive how any councilman would vote to approve his name.

"The city's important legal affairs should be intrusted to an experienced lawyer—one who stands high in the profession."

MORITZ'S RETORT

Moritz, informed of Councilman Garland's statement, said:

"Mr. Garland need not be alarmed. I will not get the job."

Magistrate Charles F. Papale, who attempted to fire Harry Eigenrauch, clerk at Traffic Court, is among the latest to risk the Mayor's displeasure.

Papale has consented to let Eigenrauch return to work, it is reported, and for the time appears to have avoided trouble. According to reports at the Mayor's office, Magistrate Papale threatened to quit yesterday.

One of the things that put Solicitor Scully on the Mayor's black book was a volunteered opinion that two assessors fired by the Mayor, O. B. Hannon and John Murphy, should be returned to the payroll.

Daily 'Necking' Hampers Justice

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 9.—The disturbing influence of a couple who bill and coo in an automobile parked in front of the court house each morning is hampering the efficiency of court house workers and officials are perturbed.

They arrive each morning at 7 and depart three hours later. Burton Lamb, assistant district attorney deduces:

"It's simple. The young man has a night job and takes his girl to work. She doesn't start until 10 and as neither has a watch they park in front of the court house to keep tab on the clock."

Court Returns La Swanson's Diamonds

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A stipulation of lawyers whereby a diamond and pearl bracelet seized from Gloria Swanson, movie actress, in connection with a $37,500 judgment obtained against her by Maurice Cleary, booking agent, will be returned to her, was approved yesterday by Superior Judge Marshall F. McComb.

The judgment recently was reported settled, but terms were not disclosed.

Miss Swanson was wearing the bracelet about a year ago when she was haled before Court Commissioner Kurtz Kauffman to explain why she had not satisfied the judgment.

The commissioner ordered the bracelet seized but Miss Swanson contended it was exempt from execution and filed an appeal. Since then the bracelet has been held by the county clerk.

At the time of seizure, Miss Swanson testified the bracelet was fashioned from jewelry she owned and jewels given her by her husband, Michael Farmer, from whom she is now estranged.

COURT UPHOLDS KINGFISH'S FOE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ruling for the city and against the state, District Judge Nat W. Bond today issued an injunction to Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, preventing a proposed new police board from taking the police power out of his hands.

Judge Bond held unconstitutional the legislative act, creating the new board, which Senator Huey P. Long, political adversary of the Walmsley forces, caused to be passed through the recent state Assembly.

The police board issue was one of several issues between the Walmsley and Long factions, which have resulted in both sides arraying armed camps of opposing policemen and National Guardsmen in the city.

The court held "the act is unconstitutional because it would take away from the electors the right to control their local government, by placing control in the hands of private corporations and associations."

STRIKE TROOPS BEFORE COURT

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Contending that "we have not reached the point of dictatorship," M. H. Boutelle, counsel for employers seeking an injunction against military rule in the truck drivers' strike, attacked Gov. Floyd B. Olson as exceeding his authority and violating the United States Constitution before a three-judge Federal Court today.

So large was the crowd that E. H. Dunnigan, federal conciliator who has been seeking a path to peace with Father Francis J. Haas, co-mediator, in the 24-day struggle, encountered difficulty in gaining admittance.

The state, prepared to fight charges of abridgement of constitutional rights, was represented by the state Attorney General's office. Gov. Olson, accused of using unfair "dictatorial" powers in his efforts to force a settlement, was an interested observer.

The firms demand an injunction lifting military rule, by which National Guardsmen have patrolled the city since July 26, and permitting them to move trucks without the necessity of obtaining military permits.

Mlle. Boucher holds the world's altitude record for women at 5,900 meters.

NEW MASSACRE BY ARABS FEARED

Bury Jewish Victims As Army Planes Guard Wide Area

CONSTANTINE, Algeria, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Seven military airplanes circled constantly over a wide area about Constantine today following reports trouble between Arabs and Jews was brewing at several points.

Thirty-six Arabs, armed with shotguns, were arrested as they sought to enter Constantine in automobiles.

The city grew quieter, following days of bloodshed in religious rioting between the two races. Military forces are under the personal direction of Jules Carde, governor general, who returned hurriedly from Paris yesterday.

Violence was reported to have broken out in outlying districts of the state have large Jewish quarters, including Ain Beida and Tebessa. Authorities refused to confirm or deny the reports.

The throats of 13 of the 27 known killed here were slashed, while others were beaten to death with clubs. Three little girls, their ages ranging from 4 to 10, were among the victims. They were virtually decapitated with native knives.

Authorities said they believed the death toll was much higher, for Arabs apparently hid the bodies of many Jewish victims. Some 300 Arabs are now under arrest in Constantine.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency said a number of troops had been dispatched to the interior, where new fighting is under way.

The Jewish quarter here appears deserted. Shops and houses are shut tight. Hospitals are filled to overflowing.

VARE FUNERAL RITES TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—William Scott Vare, veteran of countless political battles, winds up his last campaign today. The body of the Republican chieftain—victim of a heart attack Tuesday—will be laid to rest in the family mausoleum in Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Thousands of men and women who knew Vare as a friend in life filed past his bier last night to bid him farewell in death. Fifteen police kept the crowds in line at the undertaking parlors where his body lay.

Honorary pallbearers were not named for the funeral because of the difficulty of choosing a list of reasonable length. The service will be conducted by the Rev. Charles M. Boswell, Episcopal clergyman.

City and state Republican leaders, among them Attorney General William A. Schnader, backed by Vare for Governor in the Philadelphian's last political campaign, will attend the funeral.

DOUG ON SHIP, RIFT HINTED IN ROMANCE

Farewell to Sylvia Omitted; Reunion With Mary Linked

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—With Douglas Fairbanks on the high seas, supposedly bound for America, reports became current along the French Riviera today that his supposed romance with Lady Sylvia Ashley, former British actress, whose husband, Lord Ashley, is suing for divorce, may be on the rocks.

These reports were coupled with revived rumors that Fairbanks is hurrying home to effect a reconciliation with Mary Pickford and induce her to withdraw the divorce action she has begun against him.

DOUBTS U. S. IS GOAL

One story current on the Riviera today is that in his wild rush from Monte Carlo yesterday to catch the liner Rex the movie star didn't even take time to say goodby to Lady Ashley, who is still staying at a beach hotel at Roquebrune.

She told International News Service today she didn't believe Douglas was going to America and suggested that he might disembark at Gibraltar when the Rex arrives there tonight.

Answering the telephone in a sleepy voice at her hotel, Lady Ashley said:

"I wish you wouldn't wake me so early."

Asked about Doug's departure, she said:

"How do you know he's going to America?"

SEES GIBRALTAR LANDING

Told that an International News Service correspondent had seen him board the Rex at Villefranche and that Joseph Schenck, film producer, had said they both were going to Hollywood, she said:

"Well, what about Gibraltar?"

She was asked:

"So you think he's getting off at Gibraltar?"

She answered:

"Nothing to stop him. No reason he shouldn't land there and resume his regular plans. He's just taking a little excursion with Schenck."

OWN PLANS INDEFINITE

Lady Ashley said her own plans were uncertain and that she had no immediate intentoin of going to America, although it is understood she is considering a Hollywood film offer.

Asked whether Fairbanks' sudden trip with Schenck either to America or to Gibraltar meant cancellation of his plans for an air trip to China, Lady Ashley said:

"Oh, you can't tell. He might do that and he might do something else. Everything is uncertain."

Traffic Blockade On Lincoln Highway

A traffic blockade will be erected on the Lincoln highway west of Bedford during construction of a one and a half-mile stretch of roadway, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced. Traffic will be maintained, although delays may be expected, club officials announced. A detour will be removed this week from Route 58, between Mercer and Greensburg, and another will be taken off Route 268, between Foxburg and Emlenton, in Venango County. State workers also will begin oiling nine stretches of roads in Western Pennsylvania this week.

115 SETS NEW HEAT RECORD

Associated Press.

The Central West, heart of the drought and heat-ridden area of the nation, counted on a cool wave from Alaska and Northwestern Canada today to break the present hot spell.

Temperatures soared yesterday in the Central West. All known heat records were smashed when the mercury skyrocketed to 115 degrees at Ottumwa, Ia.

The heat was so intense at Rochester, Minn., where President Roosevelt stopped yesterday, that Gov. A. G. Schmedeman, of Wisconsin, was forced to leave the official platform.

Deaths from the heat were reported in several central states.

Temperatures were falling in the Dakotas and Minnesota, where substantial rains brought relief to parched farm lands. In other sections of the parched areas, however, further damage was done to crops.

Weather Conditions

There is now a high pressure area centered off the Atlantic coast and another over the Northwest, separated by a trough of low pressure that extends from Eastern Ontario southwestward over the lake region, the central plains to Arizona, with centers over Lake Michigan and over Kansas. The showers and thunderstorms over the Allegheny and the Upper Ohio basins were limited to this area. There was no rain in Ohio, West Virginia nor east of the mountains. There were light showers, however, in Indiana, and at scattered places in the Upper Mississippi Valley. Temperature conditions have not changed much, except that it is cooler over the Dakotas. High maximum temperatures occurred again yesterday over Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas. The highest reported is 110 degrees at Omaha and Des Moines.

River Conditions

Heavy showers were general over the Allegheny and the Upper Ohio rivers, but very light over the Monongahela. Stage at Franklin is 2-10ths foot below zero; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 10.5; Pittsburgh, 10.1; Dam No. 4, 9.1; No. 6, 9.8; No. 10, 9.9, and No. 12, 9.8. The dams are up. The Allegheny and the Ohio rivers will rise slightly. Rainfall at Meadville was 3.65 inches. This should cause some rise in French Creek.

STORM FLOODS HOMES, TIES TRAFFIC

Worst Rain of Year Sweeps Over District

Manufacturing Company were under water.

TROLLEYS REROUTED

Street car service was halted and the railways company was forced to reroute its service.

The Valley Dairy Company, opposite the Westinghouse building, reported three of its truck and four delivery wagons under water.

Residents along Corey avenue, in Braddock, said the storm was the worst they had ever seen.

Water swept up over a five-foot wall in the 600 block and poured into the first floor of a double house occupied by the families of Michael DePanti and Leo Donley, at 625 Corey avenue.

FAMILIES MAROONED

These families were marooned on the second floor of the dwelling until the water receded.

All basements along the street were inundated.

Along Naylor street in Greenfield the water reached up to the windows of a score of houses. Residents resorted to makeshift rafts until the water subsided.

Mrs. Mary Husar, 225 Four Mile Run road, was made homeless when the water flooded her basement apartment.

A truck was covered by the high water at the intersection of Alexis street and Saline street.

STOVE UNDER WATER

Walls of water gushed down from Schenley Park in Naylor street.

Mrs. Mary Weltner, 739 Naylor street, reported four feet of water in her kitchen, covering her stove.

Next door, Mrs. Mary Steranchak said the water covered her ice box.

The flood deposited mud in all these homes and filled streets with debris.

Throughout the county, reports of storm damage mounted.

In Center Township, Beaver County, lightning struck a barn on the farm of Spencer Powell, near Monaca. Fire destroyed the barn, a wagon shed and granary and killed one cow. The barn was struck by lightning two years ago, but had been saved then.

BOLT HITS HOME

Lightning also damaged the home of William J. Graver at 7135 Whipple street, Swissvale, tearing loose woodwork and tearing bricks from the chimney.

A concrete retaining wall, 30 feet long, 12 high, slid down onto the Lincoln highway under the weight of water pouring down a hillside. Valued at $700, the wall was on the property of John Shields, 710 Grandview avenue, East Pittsburgh.

In Homestead, the Eighth avenue business district was hard hit, clogged sewers backing up water into basements along the avenue. On Amity street between Eighth and Ninth avenues, the pavement was torn up by high water.

Traffic was paralyzed.

M'KEESPORT DAMAGED

McKeesport also reported severe storm damage, high water flooding scores of basements. Lightning struck one home and a school.

High water flooded cellars in West Fifth avenue and Rebecca street, Auberlie and Lime streets, and most of the East End section of McKeesport.

The chimney atop the Archer Street School was shattered by lightning and the J. Hirshberg Furniture Company on Jerome street also reported its chimney struck by lightning.

In Aspinwall many streets were flooded, with traffic at a standstill. Cellars of Brentwood residents were flooded when the flood clogged sewers and backed up over the streets.

FLOOD IN BRADDOCK

Residents of eight houses in the immediate vicinity of Braddock avenue and Sixth street, Braddock, were driven to their second floors when the flood poured into the first.

High wind blew over the steeple of the Coraopolis Methodist Church, Ridge and State avenues. The steeple, 50 feet high, crashed to the roof of the church building. Damage was estimated at $50.

Taxi Drivers Must Wash Their Necks

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—So many omplaints have been made by young ladies against the unkempt condition of Boston's taxi drivers that a drive has been started to clean them up.

Today between 40 and 50 drivers were summoned to police headquarters charged with dirty necks, unshaved faces, absene of neckties and with unclean appearanes in general.

The group was given a lecture on cleanliness and, after a warning hinting at revocation of license, released.

MAY-DECEMBER LOVE NOT STRANGE TO PREACHER, 58; GIRL, 21

Life Begins at 58: Fiancee's 21

THE REV. ELDRED E. IUNGERICH, 58, AND HIS BRIDE-TO-BE: MISS FLORENCE KINTNER, 21

The Rev. Dr. Iungerich, Homewood pastor, pictured at her vine-covered Johnstown home with his fiancee, attorney's daughter just the age of his youngest son. Their romance started six years ago and it's all planned that Miss Kintner, an artist, is to illustrate his next book. Resigning his pulpit, the Rev. Dr. Iungerich's plans aren't made. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

PASTOR WRITES OF 'SOULS' AS RITES NEAR

She Is Woman, He Says Of Fiancee Some Call 'A Sweet Child'

By GEORGE ENGELHARDT
Staff Correspondent.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—For the Rev. Eldred E. Iungerich life begins at 58 with his contemplated marriage to 21-year-old Florence Kintner, who is exactly the age of his youngest child.

Sitting in the quiet, vine-covered home of his bride-to-be in Westmont, a suburb, Dr. Iungerich told of his romance with Miss Kintner which began six years ago.

He explained that announcements of their engagement had been sent out from Johnstown on July 6. He confirmed the fact that three days later dissatisfaction with his work was discussed at a meeting of the pastor's council of the Swedenborgian Church in Homewood, Pittsburgh.

He admitted that he decided it would be wise to lay his resignation before the society and did so, after communicating with Bishop N. D. Pendleton, at Bryn Athyn.

A STUDIOUS MAN

But he denied that his resignation had been the direct result of announcement of his forthcoming marriage. The resignation was accepted by the congregation on July 30, and will become effective as soon as another pastor accepts, he said.

A deeply studious man, author of four books and able to converse in 12 languages, Dr. Iungerich explained that he was dean of the Bryn Athyn Swedenborgian College at Bryn Athyn, 15 miles from Philadelphia, from 1918 to 1928.

Then he said:

"I had been contemplating returing to professorial work and this year, when I became engaged to Miss Kintner, I felt that was another indication that I was beginning a new period in my life.

HONORABLE LIFE

"Engagement notices were sent out to practically all members of my congregation, and they were much surprised.

"Everyone seemed to take the attitude that my private affairs were separate from my public life since I was living only a conscientious and honorable life. So neither fact—my resignation or engagement — is the cause of the other."

Dr. Iungerich has known Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kintner, parents of his bride-elect, for 20 years, he said, but it was six years ago when he visited their home on one of "his circular travels among isolated members" that he first met the quiet, dark-eyed girl.

She was interested in painting and plans were laid for the day when she would illustrate one of his books. Dr. Iungerich, now on vacation from the Homewood church, is spending part of that vacation at Miss Kintner's home writing the new book, "The Soul and Its Representations." And his future wife is preparing illustrations for it.

MAY AND DECEMBER

Miss Kintner, a slight girl dressed simply in a white summer dress, listened attentively, but scarcely spoke until the subject of the book came up, when she explained:

"I've already illustrated a book for a French woman, which will be published this fall."

Dr. Iungerich seemed to think the May-December romance was not at all strange. When someone mentioned that Miss Kinter was "a sweet child," he corrected:

"She is a woman."

Plans for their wedding and his future have not been made.

Dr. Iungerich, a widower for nearly six years, is the father of four children, Stevan, 21, who works at the Duquesne Steel Company in Neville Island; Alexander, 23, who is in the Navy; Madezhda, 24, who graduated from University of Pittsburgh this summer, and Zoe, 26, supervisor at St. Margaret's Hospital.

YOUTH'S STORY OF LAKE DEATH UNDER FIRE

Village Belle Believed Dead Before Reaching 'Tragedy Scene'

Universal Service.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 9.—Belief that Freda McKechnie, "American Tragedy" victim, was killed before she reached Harvey's Lake with her lover was expressed today as neighbors recalled that the lake region was chilled by a biting wind, scarcely conducive to swimming, on the night the young expectant mother met her death.

Robert Edwards, 21-year-old mining surveyor charged with her murder, is said by police to have told them he struck the girl over the head with a blackjack as they were swimming in the lake on the night of July 31.

Though police say they have accepted this version, friends of the dead girl today expressed doubt that Freda entered the water voluntarily on that cold, stormy night.

A prominent physician who asked that his name be withheld expressed the opinion that it would have been suicidal for the girl, who was to give birth to a child in five months, to enter the water in such weather. He expressed the belief that Freda was killed at some other spot, and that her body was thrown into the lake.

Police say that young Edwards made three statements, and quote him as saying in two of them that Freda plunged from a springboard and failed to reappear, and in the third as giving the account of striking her with a blackjack while both were in the water.

Persons who saw the girl's body recovered from the lake say that her bathing suit was on backwards, and that a bathing cap concealed the wound on her head, indicating that her clothing had been changed after death.

WOMAN ABLAZE CAST FROM CAR

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—With her clothing in flames, Mrs. Bertha Deutsch, 43, was hurled, bound and gagged, from a motor car early today after two men had kidnaped her some time before.

She was found by John White, who saw what he thought was a bundle of burning trash in the street in front of his home. He went to extinguish it and found Mrs. Deutsch moaning with pain. She was taken to a hospital where her condition was reported to be not serious.

It was the third time Mrs. Deutsch had been kidnaped within the last five months. Last March she was found tied up in a cemetery and in June was left in Prospect Park after being pulled into an automobile.

The police are seeking a former acquaintance of her and her husband. Police said Mrs. Deutsch told them she had received several threatening letters recently.

Window Flight To Escape Pests Vain

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ask Myrna Loy about autograph hounds.

For the last week Miss Loy has been working overtime with Warner Baxter on the Columbia lot. More often than not she left the studio late at night, tired out.

Miss Loy

Last night, rather than run the gauntlet of autograph seekers who have assembled each night to await her departure, she instructed her maid to have the car taken to a back street.

Miss Loy proceeded to the wardrobe office, at the rear of the lot, but the wardrobe man, sticking to studio rules, refused to let her out the back door.

The actress tried the casting office, with the same result.

At that moment Miss Loy espied an open window. Out she went.

'MOVIE CHILD' RACKET BARED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Nineteen parents, who envisioned their offspring as another Shirley Temple or another Baby Le Roy, went to court today to tell about an alleged "baby screen test racket." They said the experience cost them sums ranging from $2 to $15.

Jack and Betty Pierce were the defendants.

Let Mrs. Cecil Patterson, whose account varied little from that of other witnesses, tell the story. She testified:

"I was in a dime store with my son, Edward, 4, when Mrs. Pierce, who introduced herself as Betty Eppley, accosted me and went into raptures."

She quoted Mrs. Pierce as saying:

"Look, I got this $75 check from the RKO Circuit for my child's work last week. Really you ought to see my child's agent, Jack Pierce. You'd like to see him? I'll put him in touch with you."

Mrs. Patterson said Pierce called at her home and she paid him $4 but she never saw Pierce again, nor the $4.

Daniel O'Shea, executive of the RKO Studios, testified there "is no RKO Circuit."

20 CHILDREN IN THEFT NET

Two 16-year-old boys were held for arraignment in Morals Court today and 18 other children, six of them girls between 8 and 9 years of age, turned over to Juvenile Court authorities as a result of a drive by police to recover $365 stolen last Thursday from a West End home, police said.

The children, residing in Attica, Steuben and Gibson streets and Wabash avenue, were corraled yesterday by Patrolmen Leo Fitzgerald and Robert Sherer. On the children, charged with larceny, police found not a penny.

The round-up began after Charles Freedring, of 623 Attica street, reported to police that the cash, which included two $100 bills, hidden under his bread box had vanished Thursday. A small boy and a girl were seen in his home that day.

Police said they discovered that a number of the children were visiting confectionery stores in the neighborhood, but could find no one who had been asked to change either of the $100 bills.

KARN, BRIDGE STAR, TO WED

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Willard Karn, former member of the "four horsemen" championship bridge team, and Lili Dawydoff, whose family is weighted down with Russian titles, will be married today in Elkton, Md., Karn's friends revealed.

The bride-to-be doesn't play bridge and Karn doesn't care. He says that bridge playing couples have too many arguments anyhow.

Miss Dawydoff's mother is Princess Marie Obolensky and her father was a member of the wealthy Dawydoff family in Kiev in the days when the imperial flag flew over Russia. Her brother is Prince Alexis P. Obolensky, noted aviator, and her cousin, Prince Serge Obolensky, is a brother-in-law of Vincent Astor.

Karn said he was giving up bridge as a career and would go into business.

A. W. Mellon on Way To Visit Daughter

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Andrew W. Mellon, former American Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived in London last night and left today for Scotland on a visit to his daughter.

Aide in Lindy Hunt, Long Ailing, Dies

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Edwin B. Bruce, 47, one of the figures in the famous search at sea for the phantom ship and kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, died at his home yesterday after a long illness.

Bruce, then a guest at the Lindbergh home, accompanied the aviator on the heart-breaking hunt in May, 1932, which John Curtis Hughes, Norfolk (Va.) shipbuilder, later confessed was a "hoax."

DIVORCE ENDS PITT ROMANCE

Mildred Corbett, 23, of South Aiken avenue, testified at a master's divorce hearing that she hadn't seen her husband, Herman Corbett, of Aylesboro avenue, since 1930, that he had never supported her. She charges desertion.

They were married at Fredericksburg, Md., in November, 1929, while she was a student at Pitt and he was attending Gettysburg Academy. Six months later, she testified, he told her he was "through."

City Council Purge Threat by Workers

FORD CITY, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Leaders of the Flat Glass Workers of America in Ford City disclosed today they would consider demanding that five City Councilmen resign unless they vote to permit a Labor Day rally.

A permit for the celebration was granted several weeks ago by the Ford City Burgess, but later rescinded by a councilmanic vote.

CO-ED HUNTED MONTHS BACK HOME

Victim of Sorority Feud Found As Tutor in N. Y.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Miss Eunice Pollock, 20-year-old University of Wisconsin co-ed who disappeared from Madison last March 17 when dismissed from her sorority house for an undisclosed reason, was back home in Manitowoc today.

She was brought to her home here late last night by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pollock, who went to New York City by automobile last Sunday after receiving a letter from her.

Pollock declined to make any statement as to how long Eunice would remain here, where she lived in New York, why she left the university or whether she would resume her studies.

Eunice revealed her whereabouts in a letter received last Friday by her father.

Eunice wrote that she was

teaching French to the children of a wealthy New York family and asked that her parents forward credentials needed in obtaining a better position. She explained that fear of being forced to come home caused her to conceal her whereabouts.

Letter to Parents Clears Mystery Of Runaway

The girl's disappearance caused a stir on the university campus. Her Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters admitted they asked her to leave the house, but refused to state their reason. They described it "our personal matter" and said she was warned repeatedly. Later, the sorority explained that no serious charges had been brought against her and exonerated her.

Eunice moved to a rooming house, but, crushed, disappeared from there a few days later. She left a letter to her parents saying circumstantial evidence was against her and she was going away to forget it all. She wrote:

"I am sure I can stand on my own feet as I have a healthy body, a pleasing smile and I am not afraid of hard work."

But it was this postscript that alarmed her parents and the authorities:

"I'll see you some day in heaven, and then we can be together always."

Dog's Barks Lead To Master's Body

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Whimperings of a pet dog at the body of his master had led to the discovery today of the death of Tom Dolan, 60, in a rooming house.

Coroner W. G. Stroble said the man was stricken with a heart attack and died in his sleep, two days and a half ago.

OCEAN INSPIRES BERLIN TUNES

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—After a fortnight at sea during which the salt air blew a lot of ideas into his head, Irving Berlin, the composer, returned to New York today on the liner Saturnia.

With him was Moss Hart, writer of sketches and dialogues. The two are working on a new musical show to follow their joint success "As Thousands Cheer."

Berlin said he guessed he'd hit upon 50 or more tunes during the voyage. Ocean breezes always fan the creative fires, he said, remarking:

"That salt air came in and filled my head with ideas."

Berlin has his old upright piano with him; the one on whose keyboard he has picked out so many song hits. It is the the instrument on which he composed "Alexander's Ragtime Band;" it's that old.

NEW DEAL HERE TO STAY, SAYS ROOSEVELT

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today in Wisconsin gave notice to the nation that the "New Deal" is going on and "neither the demand nor the action has reached the end of the road."

In a state talking about a new party the President pronounced his major declaration of this first campaign year since 1932 and he spoke of his ideas in detail. He declared:

"We who support this New Deal do so because it is a square deal and because it is essential to the preservation of security and happiness of a free society."

As for party alignments he remarked significantly:

"Your two Senators, both old friends of mine, and many others have worked with me in maintaining excellent co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government."

MENTIONS SENATORS

President Roosevelt digressed from his prepared address to mention by name "Bob" La Follette and Ryan Duffy. With Senator La Follette, Republican Independent and candidate for re-election on a new party ticket, and Senator Duffy, Democrat chosen with him in 1932, sitting by his side, the President spoke of them by name in that part of his speech thanking them for co-operation and referring to them as "both old friends of mine."

The President emphasized that:

"These high purposes must be accompanied by co-operation among those charged by the people with the duties of government. I am glad to be in a state from which I have greatly drawn in setting up the permanent and temporary agencies of government."

As he spoke of the friends of the "New Deal", the President talked out also about the opponents. He said:

"In one year and five months the people of the United States have received at least a partial answer to their demands for action.

"But action may be delayed by two types of individuals.

"First there is the man whose objectives are wholly progressive but who declined to co-operate or even to discuss methods of arriving at the objectives because he insists on his own methods and nobody else's.

ASSAILS OPPONENTS

"The other type to which I refer is the individual who demands some message of the people of the United States that will restore what he calls 'confidence.' When I hear this I cannot help but remember the pleas made by the government and certain types of so-called 'big business' all through the years 1930, 1931 and 1932 that the only thing lacking in the United States was confidence."

And thus, Mr. Roosevelt declared out here in "a state destined for extraordinary achievements" his principles for the future. He said:

"In the great national movement that culminated in 1932, people joined with enthusiasm. They lent hand and voice to the common cause, irrespective of many older political traditions. They saw the dawn of a new day. They were on the march; they were coming back into the possession of their own home land."

It sounded to some like the call for a new political alignment. It was delivered in a state where such is going on.

CROWD CHEERS

The tremendous crowd, stretching far back in the bright sun at Bay Beach, applauded enthusiastically as the President declared that "action" has not "reached the end of the road."

Dressed in a light summer suit Mr. Roosevelt carefully emphasized his words as he spoke in the shade of a large tree. Despite the shade he occasionally swept a hand over his face to wipe off the perspiration.

The crowd joined in the spirit of the presidential address, laughing as the President told of the failure of a man asking a message of "confidence" to reply to an inquiry as what would be said.

Speaking in Wisconsin after a tour of inspection of the Northwest, the President gave careful consideration to this address. It probably will be the last in this campaign.

In concluding Mr. Roosevelt put the greatest emphasis in his words:

"It can; it will be attained."

The President departed on his special train for Washington at 10:35 a. m. (12:35 p. m., Pittsburgh time), today on the last leg of his lengthy inspection tour of the nation.

U. S. TO SEIZE ALL SILVER

regard to gold, although in the case of silver the government will not withdraw coins from circulation.

Newly-mined silver, which is regularly being purchased at 64½ cents an ounce under the President's proclamation of December 21, 1933, is exempted from the order, and will be bought as heretofore.

Also exempted in addition to United States coins are foreign coins, ore, silver owned by foreign governments and foreign central banks, and silver in fabricated articles.

First hints of nationalization were given last night when Morgenthau ordered each $100 worth of silver, or more, imported from abroad must be accompanied by a consular invoice. Exempted from this order were bullion already in transit, that imported for re-export and the crude metal.

The Treasury has been buying silver in the markets of the world under authority of the silver purchase act over a period of months, but the amount acquired has been kept an official secret. Various estimates have placed it around 100,000,000 ounces.

The Treasury holds approximately 62,000,000 ounces of silver acquired from other sources, and the new order will bring in, officials said, at least 45,000,000 ounces now held in depositories recognized by the exchange on which the metal is traded.

From now on manufacturers using silver for fabricated articles will have to obtain the metal on license from the government, although Morgenthau emphasized that no interference would be placed in the way of legitimate industrial use.

Senator Thomas said that from the standpoint of inflation or as a step toward establishing a 25 to 75 ratio between silver and gold as a monetary stock, the nationalization move was not important. He said the government still would need to purchase a billion ounces of silver to meet the ratio which has been set by Congress.

He contended the importance of the move was "a declaration of policq that we need silver to add to our gold as money. He added:

"It is a declaration there is not enough gold in the world to satisfy the demands for money. It is a return to silver."

Dime Still Dime And You Can Keep It!

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Hold on to your silver spoons, watches and dimes—the government doesn't want them.

And don't expect your quarters and half dollars to turn into any different kind of money tomorrow from what they are today.

These things were not changed by the Presidential order today nationalizing silver stocks.

What Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau are doing is calling into the Treasury stocks of bullion silver which are traded in on the commercial markets. These stocks may range anywhere from 45,000,000 to 250,000,000 ounces.

Buying in this silver at the rate of 50.01 cents an ounce is what is meant by "nationalizing" silver. It is taking government ownership of commercial stocks not being used in industry and commerce.

When gold was nationalized the government simultaneously adopted a policy of taking that metal out of circulation as money and storing it in huge Treasury and mint vaults as a permanently-guarded support for United States money.

But silver is not being taken out of circulation. You will still jingle dimes and quarters— if you have them—in your pocket.

SILVER BUYING SPREE SEEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Nationalization of silver, ordered by President Roosevelt today, was interpreted in financial circles as indicating more vigorous pursuit of the silver policy outlined in the Silver Purchase Act of 1934.

This for a moment, it was believed, meant accelerated buying of the metal by the Treasury, and rising world prices for silver.

How soon the Treasury might reach its ultimate objective of 25 per cent silver for the nation's metallic monetary reserves was regarded as problematical.

3-Wheeled Car Goes 80 Miles per Hour

BOSTON — (INS.)—A three-wheeled racing car, capable of a speed of 80 miles an hour, and which consumes only one gallon of gas in 40 miles, was made from spare parts of other automobiles by Kenneth W. Carll, 21, of Brighton. The machine is very light, weighing only 300 pounds.

NRA VIOLATIONS SETTLED HERE

According to a report issued by the Compliance Division of the National Recovery Administration, 84 complaints alleging violations of NRA minimum wage or maximum hour provisions in Pittsburgh resulted in the restitution of $14,050 to employes here during the second two weeks of July.

The settlements were made by the State NRA Director's office, with no reference to Washington. Cases adjusted here contributed to the 990 settled throughout the country during the same period, resulting in a total restitution to workers of $106,732.

The report stated that many alleged code violators are frequently found to be caused by employers' misunderstanding of their obligations. Many complaints are also made to NRA authorities by cranks and persons with no facts to substantiate their charges.

'LEAK' CHARGED IN SILVER MOVE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The nationalization of silver was hailed today by Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, a Senate silver bloc leader, as "the overthrow of the world-wide gold bloc."

He forecast it would bring an international agreement on money "which will be the beginning of a new era of prosperity."

While he applauded the monetary move, Thomas said there had been a leak on it, pointing to the sharp rise in the price of silver during the past week. He said:

"Somebody on the outside got a tip. The fact that it went up from 46.40 on August 3 to a high of 48 last night shows that somebody got a leak."

The silvery-haired Oklahoman was sitting in his office in shirt sleeves when informed of the government's act. He long has been fighting to remonetize the metal. He commented:

"It means the elevation of silver to an importance approaching, if not equaling, gold."

Fithian Announces 2 Speaking Dates

GROVE CITY, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. E. J. Fithian, prohibition party nominee for United States senator, announced he will speak at Harrisburg on August 29 and at York on August 30 during a state-wide tour.

Republican Ruins Pleasant Sights To Jim Farley

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Jim Farley is much pleased with his tour. But Jim wasn't looking at the same things as Mr. Roosevelt.

Jim was exploring the ruins of cliff, valley and mesa Republicans.

While the President was gazing at drought our James was poking among the deserted Pueblos, which had once been G. O. P. community palaces.

He found some splendid examples of early 1932 pottery and woven baskets, and says they were once used as loving cups and ballot boxes.

But it grieves James to announce that descendants of these tribes still use a weapon that he describes as a boomerang.

This boomerang is tossed at the administration from political ambush and returns to knock the thrower's hat off. Jimmsy boy, if that's funny in the Sunday comic papers it should be funny anywhere.

DAVIS LINES UP AGAINST NRA

READING, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—United States Senator James J. Davis, Pennsylvania Republican, has switched from support of to opposition to the NRA because, he says, of changes "confusing and detrimental to business." At a University Club banquet last night he said:

"The sooner business is back in the hands of businessmen the sooner will business begin to function."

He explained he voted for the Roosevelt recovery program only because "as originally planned it would have put an end to cut-throat competition."

U. S. GAIN SEEN BY FIRST LADY

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived by train today from Chicago, and commented:

"Outside of the drought areas the people look better fed, better clothed; their automobiles are more and newer, and they look a great deal happier."

She said this after deploring the intense suffering in the drought-afflicted sections. She added that to get a fair picture of the condition of the country it was necessary to consider the drought sections separately.

The Priceless Element of Advertising is TRUTHFULNESS

Do not be misled on Calf Liver. Many people eat calf liver on the advice of their physician, and when a physician prescribes calf liver he means first grade calf liver from freshly slaughtered prime healthy young calves and not so-called calf liver which has been in cold storage six months or more. When you see Calf Liver advertised at a ridiculously low price you may be sure that it either came from third grade common thin or heavy overgrown calves, and which, if they had lived a few months longer, would have been called beef or it is some "forgotten" cold storage product other than genuine fresh calf liver.

Hoover's Birthday Cake Boasts 60 Candles

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 9.—There's a big cake being baked today in the spacious red-tiled Hoover home on the Stanford University campus.

It will adorn a festive board tomorrow as former President Herbert Hoover celebrates the sixtieth anniversary of his birth.

The delicacy will be decorated with a candle for every year of his life and it will be cut by the former President at a party arranged for him by Mrs. Hoover.

The birthday observance will be a quiet affair, attended only by Mr. Hoover's close friends on the campus and one of his two sons, Allan from Southern California. Herbert, Jr., and his wife and children will be unable to come from their Sierra Madre (Cal) home.

Among those who will get a slice of the birthday cake is Mr. Hoover's brother, Theodore, dean of the Stanford School of Engineering.

They will greet a guest of honor from whose shoulders the years are miraculously slipping; a man who looks 10 years younger than that day a little more than a year ago when he returned to his campus home on San Juan Hill from Washington after the inauguration of his successor in the White House.

And, according to Mr. Hoover's friends, the trend to youth is not only physical, but mental and spiritual.

WIFE IN RENO! IT'S O. K. WITH FIERMONTE

Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—If his socially-prominent wife is planning a divorce, Enzo Fiermonte, handsome Italian pugilist, will not offer any objections.

In fact, he is willing to do anything or go anywhere, even to the ends of the earth, to accommodate any divorce plans that Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick Fiermonte may have in mind.

Such was the answer of Fiermonte last night to press dispatches that told of his wife's abrupt departure yesterday from her Long Island mansion, presumably bound for Paris or Reno. He said:

"I intend to live my life in my own way, and it is Mrs. Fiermonte's privilege to do as she pleases about our matrimonial status.

SEEKS FILM CAREER

Fiermonte arrived in Hollywood a few days ago in quest of a film career.

Mrs. Fiermonte married Enzo in New York last November, a few months after she had divorced William K. Dick in Reno. She was the wife of John Jacob Astor II until the latter was drowned many years ago in the Titanic disaster.

The first rifts in the Fiermonte happiness became apparent last June, when Mrs. Fiermonte objected to her husband's forthcoming ring battle with Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion.

The Italian said he has been pleased and surprised by his reception in Hollywood.

'SOCIETY DULL'

He said:

"I thought perhaps that Hollywood's celebrities would be 'high hat.' Instead I have found them very charming, very cordial and awfully nice."

Film folk, he said, are in direct contrast to the bluebloods who revolved around his wife. The latter group were a "trifle dull," he added.

It was Damon Runyan, famous sports writer and recently the author of several film plays, who conceived the idea that Fiermonte should forsake the ring for the silver screen.

CHINESE TONGS AVERT WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Fears of a tong war faded from Chinatowns of San Francisco and Oakland today as the Chinese General Peace Association announced it would arbitrate the dispute involving control of Chinese lotteries.

Chinese had fled from settlements of Oakland and San Francisco, while others had come in from other Northern California towns while the Suey Sing and Sen Suey Ying tongs argued over who should control the business.

Tom Lowe, secretary of the Chinese Six Company, and a member of the Suey Sings, claims $250,000 from the estate of his father, reported to have been heavily interested in lottery companies of the region. This would give him virtual control of the companies. Yip Lock, Oakland, member of the Sen Suey Yings, claims his large interest in the companies should give him control.

CAVE-IN KILLS BOOTLEG MINER

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The perils of so-called "bootleg" mining have brought sudden death to one man as another, freed from a 30-hour entombment, awaits discharge from a hospital.

The victim of the "bootleg" operations—carried on in shafts dug by jobless miners on coal company property—is Andrew Lawcuyk, 49, of Shenandoah. He died soon after fellow workers dug him from a rock fall which buried him up to his neck and broke his back and pelvis.

William Jones, 35, plans to return to his Minersville home today. Workmen risked their lives to free him from an earth slide in a 60-foot pit.

North Side Girl Swallows Poison

Helen Calhoon, 23, of 1222 Reddour street, was in Allegheny General Hospital today suffering from the effects of poison swallowed, police said, in the rear of a restaurant at 208 Anderson street, where she was employed as a waitress, late yesterday.

Police, unable to learn a motive for the young woman's alleged act, were endeavoring to reach her relatives in Blairsville. At the hospital it was said her condition was not serious.

Pittsburghers Periled As Pole Wrecks Car

Their automobile cut in two by a falling power line pole, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Page and their 13-year-old son, Charles Richard Page, all of 4600 Carson street, narrowly escaped death near Erie yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The Pages' automobile was forced from the highway and crashed into the pole.

7 Deny Guilt in Plot on Chaney's Employe

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9. — (AP.)—Five men and two women indicted in connection with the asserted kidnaping of John Jeske, former companion and chauffeur of the late Lon Chaney, screen actor, and Jeske's bride, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron and were ordered to trial September 11.

Former Newsie Returns Home As Actor

JOSEPH SCHWARTZ

Joe Schwartz' Film Roles Too Many to Be Remembered

Joseph Schwartz, movie actor, circus man, carnival man and former newsboy, has returned to McKeesport, his home town, after 24 years of wandering.

Of his experiences in Hollywood, Schwartz said he had worked in so many movies that he couldn't remember them. As for Greta Garbo:

"She's nothing extra."

Schwartz said he was an English soldier in Greta's "Queen Christina."

Twenty years ago Schwartz, now 40, sold newspapers at Fifth avenue and Market street.

He came back from Hollywood to join the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Show, now showing in Glassport.

ICE BOX TOMB OF 'OTHER MAN'

MADRID, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A butcher in suburban Gracia returned to his home at night and, planning to retire, locked the freezing room in his adjacent shop.

The next morning he opened the big ice box to get his meat, then hastened to tell police what he found inside. It was a man, a friend of his wife, frozen to death.

RELIEF WORKS DUE TO DROP 7,000

Plans for the new Relief Works Division program, which goes into effect September 1, were to be made today at a conference between relief officials of Allegheny County and Relief Administrator Eric H. Biddle at the latter's office in Harrisburg. Those attending from here were to be County Administrator James L. Stuart and Deputy Administrator Philip H. Lantz.

Seven thousand men working on 300 projects in the county were to be laid off today. This is more than half the 11,900 men on the relief payroll August 6. The remaining men will be dismissed next week, officials said.

Under the RWD rules, only men from relief rolls were eligible for work on relief projects. The new setup will aim to provide a job for one member of each unemployed family.

When the new program goes into effect September 1, the 7,000 men laid off today will be reemployed as rapidly as possible, George P. Mills, director of the Allegheny County Emergency Fund, said.

DOLORES DIES; FAMED DANCER

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Dolores, once a famous English dancer and later a model for noted sculptors, died yesterday in a London hospital after a long illness.

Her real name was Laurine Lattimore. She married George William Lattimore, an American Negro theatrical producer, in 1926. He had been her business manager.

Long prominent in various roles and often on the front pages of newspapers, Dolores of recent years had been out of the limelight.

She was divorced from Richard Harry Saddler in London in 1924. She had once been known as Dolores Schofield.

'Big Day' for Hundreds At 'Pretty Baby' Contest

Free Amusement Tickets Offered For Children

Still more entries continued to come today in the Sun-Telegraph's "pretty baby" contest, slated for August 14 at Olympia Park, near McKeesport.

Hundreds of babies between the ages of 2 and 5—and twins between 1 and 5—will compete, judging from entries so far received.

One big day, lasting far into the evening, will be enjoyed by the mothers, fathers, and children who attend the outing at Olympia Park on that day. Today you will find the first of the coupons good for free strips of amusement tickets.

All you have to do is to clip out two coupons and take them to the nearest exchange station listed in this paper, to receive a free strip of eight amusement tickets.

The tickets are for such amusements as the merry-go-round, the "whip," the miniature railroad, the frolic, the seaplanes or the "skooter." You'll want to get enough of these strips of tickets for all your children if they are as insatiable as most when it comes to park amusements.

While the "pretty baby" contest, which will start at 2 p. m. at the bandstand, is for children between 2 and 5 years old and for twins between 1 and 5 years old the day will afford varied amusements for the entire family.

The contest for "pretty babies" offers eight major prizes. These will be given to the winning boy and girl between 2 and 3 years of age; between 3 and 4 years, and between 4 and 5 years. A separate competition for twin boys and twin girls will draw the remaining two prizes, these ages being between 1 and 5 years old.

If you have a baby you would like to enter, clip the entry blank and send it in at once.

RADIO WARNED ON UNFAIR ADS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Radio stations which fail to submit their programs to the Federal Trade Commission for inspection as to false advertising have received a warning.

Ewin L. Davis, trade commissioner, said:

"Most stations have co-operated to the fullest, but those who have not and do not may expect that we shall keep especially close watch on them and that the Communications Commission will likewise be kept fully informed of the situation."

Several weeks ago the commission asked for copies of advertising "continuities" to be put on the air. Since then a number of advertisers and broadcasters have been informed that they were advertising falsely so as to compete unfairly.

Davis says the commission is undertaking no punitive expedition. He explained:

"It is only that we wish to apply the same yardstick to radio advertising that we have long applied to newspapers, and there is no reason to expect radio will not comply as fully as the newspapers."

GIRL MISSING HERE FEARED KIDNAPED

Wrote Father in Chicago She Had Arrived Safe

A city-wide search was being made today for attractive Velma Baer, 19, former Pittsburgher and graduate of Schenley High School, who vanished mysteriously after leaving her Chicago home to visit her mother and friends here.

The mother, Mrs. Edna Hayden, of 627 Clyde street, Shadyside, reported her daughter's disappearance to police and expressed fear that she may have been kidnaped. No trace had been found here of Miss Baer since she left her Chicago home July 26, Mrs. Hayden said.

The girl's father, Walter Baer, a hauling contractor, with whom she had been living, is divorced from Mrs. Hayden. Mrs. Hayden said her daughter had written to her father, saying she had arrived here safely. The letter was mailed in Pittsburgh July 30.

Puzzled by her daughter's failure to call at her home, Mrs. Hayden notified police and inclined to the belief that she was being held captive.

After finishing at Schenley High School, the girl was graduated from a business college in Chicago.

MISS VELMA BAER

Mrs. Hayden described her as 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighing about 103 pounds, light complexioned, brown hair and dark eyes.

Two other women and a man also were sought by police and the Missing Persons Bureau.

Concetta Pierro, 17, of 548 West Railroad street, Verona, disappeared from their home August 3. She is 5 feet tall, weighs 105 pounds, has brown eyes and black hair. She wore an orchid dress, white shoes and no hat.

Mrs. Viola Flixner, 21, of 1802 Fox way, disappeared from her home Tuesday night, her mother, Mrs. Mary Kelly, told the bureau. Mrs. Kelly described her daughter as being 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 108 pounds, has hazel eyes, reddish hair and a light complexion. She was wearing a dark brown dress, black shoes and stockings.

No trace has been found of John Wagner, 23, of 612 Third avenue, New Kensington, father of two children, who failed to return after leaving the home of his sister, Miss Leona Wagner, 822 East Ohio street, Tuesday. Wagner, his wife and children came to visit his sister. He left house a short time later, police said.

Mother Alarmed, Fears She Is Held Captive

THIRD ATTEMPT TO SAVE BYRD

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—(Via Mackay radio.)—Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, senior scientist of the Byrd expedition, and two companions prepared last night to make a third attempt to reach Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's advance base by tractor.

The second trip, which started last Saturday, took the party only 23 miles and the tractor returned here at 3 a. m. yesterday after a hazardous journey. Mechanical difficulties forced abandonment of the attempt.

Earlier, weather conditions had stopped another journey, leaving the rear admiral still waiting for relief 123 miles south of here.

With Dr. Poulter on the trips were E. J. Demas, driver, and Armory H. Waite, radio operator.

STARS ON SPREE GIVE PEEPERS 'BREAK'

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—An unusually good chance to see the annual August meteors beginning tomorrow and Saturday night this week has been forecast by astronomers.

A request for the public to turn out and observe the meteors for the benefit of astronomy was issued by Dr. Charles P. Oliver, head of the American Meteor Society. He said:

"The perseid meteors which furnish the best annual meteoric display are due to appear in their greatest numbers on the night of August 11-12. As the moon is new on August 10, conditions should be ideal for observing them this year.

AIDES ENLISTED

"The American Meteor Society with headquarters at Flower Observatory, Upper Darby, Pa., each year requests the assistance of all persons interested in astronomy in making observations on the perseids.

"Each person should report his place of observation, the condition of the sky, the exact hour and minute he began and ended his count, and the total number of meteors seen per half hour. The counts should be kept up at each station for from two to four hours.

"Such counts, made all over America, give an excellent picture of the richness of the meteor stream. As meteors are also very numerous on nights near the date of the maximum, observers are asked if possible to observe also on the nights of August 10-11 and August 12-13.

30 TO 50 PER HOUR

"On those nights if the sky is clear from 30 to 50 meteors should be seen an hour. On the maximum night, August 11-12, about 70 an hour should be seen."

The regular observers of the American Meteor Society will organize to observe in paired stations. From these simultaneous double observations the heights of the meteors can be calculated. Their altitudes are usually reckoned at about 70 miles and their speeds 50 miles a second.

They appear in the northeast sky. The best time to see them is after midnight.

BUTLER BOARD FIRES HOME OFFICIAL

torney Edgar H. Negley leave the poor farm and continue his questioning of inmates at a later time.

HEROLD SILENT

Asked if he had changed his plans to lay charges against Herold before the grand jury next month, in view of the ouster and looming state probe, Negley today said he was "awaiting development" of Herold's suspension. He said:

"I'm perfectly satisfied—that is, unless the Department of Welfare says Herold's administration was okay. Then you can bet I'll taket it to the grand jury."

County Commissioners declined to comment on their action and Herold continued to maintain the silence which has marked his conduct since filing of charges which within three weeks has met two investigations and his suspension.

HOME CLOSED

Augmenting Herold's silence was the reported closing of the home for "repairs" by order of the ousted superintendent only a few hours prior to the commissioners' vote. New wood floors are being laid and inmates' beds are being given a coat of paint.

Following announcement of his appointment to the County Home post, Barr said:

"All I can say is that I intend to make an earnest effort to run the home to the best interests of Butler County. No, I haven't any definite plans. Of course I feel good that they appointed me."

Barr is 56 years old, married and has served seven years as County Auditor, the only public office he has ever held. He has no children. The Barrs will move into the superintendent's headquarters from their Connoquenessing home as soon as possible. Until further action is taken on the superintendency pending results of the state probe, he will fill both positions.

It was July 21 that the first intimation of irregularities in the Herold administration was brought to the attention of Prosecutor Negley. On that date Peter Z. Ross, 63-year-old inmate, filed charges of assault and battery against Herold, acculing the latter of beating him and imprisoning him in the Herold-devised "jail room" at the home.

CHARGES PILE UP

Less than two weeks—on August 2—additional charges were filed against the superintendent. This time by A. W. Bortmess, 85, another inmate, who said Herold had held him in the jail two days without water to drink.

Herold waived hearing in both cases and posted $500 bond in each instance.

But complaints of the two inmates was only the beginning. Prosecutor Negley started an investigation of his own. Subsequent events threw Butler into a turmoil. Negley was repeatedly denied access to the institution records, and forced to take inmates for automobile rides in order to talk to them alone.

More than a score of allegations, ranging from infliction of physical injury to "jailing" and withdrawal of religious privileges, flashed into the spotlight. Public indignation rose to new heights. Petitions for removal of Herold were circulated among residents and street discussion hinted forcible removal days ago. The County Commissioners appealed to Mrs. Alice Liveright, secretary of the State Department of Welfare, for an investigation, and scarcely had word of her d cision to send representatives reached here yesterday when the board voted for Herold's suspension.

Turner today said state investigators were expected to arrive here early next week.

'JAIL' DESCRIBED

Meanwhile new stories of intimidation and cruelty were revealed in the report of Lewis L. Beatty, investigator for the District Attorney's office. Included are statements of Howard Graham, former superintendent, that Nemiah McCandless, 83, staunch Herold supporter, had voiced complaints to him, and that McCandless was said to have been given a new suit by Herold in exchange for his promise not to talk, statements of Pete Osterman, 61, that he worked from 10 to 12 hours daily, seven days a week and of Charles Whal, 14, who said he had been scolded by Mrs. Herold for talking to investigators.

John Dill, 63, husband of Katie Millholland Dill, discharged nurse, told Negley both treatment and food were good, then adding an aside that he'd like to talk with him some time.

Amos M'Carlin, 79, told of signing paper upholding Herold's action. The paper was circulated among inmates following initial complaint, according to the report.

Unsanitary kitchen conditions also were described. The "jail" was described as being equipped with a chair and a bed, with ¾-inch wire mesh net on the inside of the window and an ordinary screen outside.

Their Mother Walking 'Last Mile'

PHYLLIS, 9 MARIE, 7 FRANKIE, 3

Phyllis, Marie and Frankie—just three little waifs tonight when heir mother, Mrs. Anna Antonio, goes to the electric chair. Thrice she has been saved, but only gubernatorial clemency could save her tonight. Phyllis, Marie and Frankie have no daddy. He's dead. That's why mother must die.

FRANKIE ANTONIO . . . . HE DOESN'T UNDERSTAND IT ALL

CHAIR TO GET WIDOW TONIGHT

a clock racing—racing—, wondered and hoped.

Two men share her fate. They are the ones, Vincent Saetta and Samuel Faracci, who stabbed and shot her husband, Salvatore, dead the night before Easter, 1932.

She schemed the crime, greedy for Salvatore's $5,000 insurance. They did him in. Yet even today, as thrice before, they are but shadows who will shuffle one after the other to death, all but lost to notice as the spotlight burns bright on the woman.

Saetta, glum, uncommunicative, lethargic saved her once. At the very last minute, as the witnesses were gathered, the executioner ready, the condemned woman reconciled, he told a new story in which he took all the blame himself.

Faracci, too, is colorless. Four times he has faced the chair, each time without apparent concern. If he dies tonight, he most likely will walk to death dully, disinterestedly. It is fate.

But Anna Antonio?

"They'll have to carry me. I know it. I have stood the suspense as long as I could. Surely the Governor won't let them do this to me."

She was too unnerved to say a word when, late yesterday, a guard told her that Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brewster, at Elizabethtown, had refused her plea for a new trial.

57 Scholarships Awarded at Tech

Carnegie Institute of Technology today announced that 57 outstanding high school graduates of the Pittsburgh district had been awarded scholarships at Carnegie Tech for next year. The total value of the awards is $8,550.

The scolarships amount to one-half the tuition and continue through the four years if the students maintain satisfactory records.

Walking Along Road, Girl Killed by Auto

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—Walking along the road with three other girls, Verna Marcinko, 10, of near Windber, was struck by an automobile and fatally injured, last night. Her companions escaped injury.

Maihael Lasako, of Windbar, driver, who is held pending an inquest, told police the lights of another car blinded him.

Today

ly, Mr. Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, says he desires "to get the metal permanently out of an area sometimes visited by earthquakes."

You wonder whether Mr. Morgenthau felt authorized to give ALL of the reasons. Other areas are visited by earthquakes, any area may be thus visited. And anyhow, earthquakes do not steal gold, or melt or eat it.

THOUGHT-PROVOKING, for those whose thoughts can be "provoked" by anything, is the official denial "that any serious apprehension existed that there might be a war attack on our western coast by a foreign power."

THERE, PERHAPS, you have the "milk in the cocoanut." If any foreign nation with airplanes, submarines and poison gas came visiting across the Pacific, it would, naturally, like to take back a billion and a half of gold as a souvenir. And moving that gold a little to the east would not do any good. A foreign air fleet could strike San Francisco one day, strike, bomb and asphyxiate Washington, D. C., the next day, and, if not effectively resisted, could collect from us as a first indemnity instalment all the U. S. government's gold, amounting to something over seven thousand, nine hundred and forty-six millions.

YOU ARE reminded of Solon's remark to Croesus, richest king on earth, when Croesus showed Solon his treasure:

"Croesus, if any man should come having better iron than you, he would be master of all that gold."

Somebody should say to Uncle Sam, "If anybody should come having better submarines and flying machines than you, he would be master of all that gold that you are moving around so nervously."

FURTHER OUTBREAKS of Arabs against Jews are feared in Constantine, Algeria, where of 100,000 inhabitants 50,000 are Jews. General Kieffer, French commander, flying from Paris, adds to the number of soldiers, and doubles the police lines. He found, of twenty-three dead lying in a row in a hospital, twenty-two were Jews, and only one an Arab, indicating that the Jews had been taken by surprise.

OF THE DEAD JEWS, four were children, all with their throats cut, which shows the character of the pogrom. The Jewish Telegraph Agency correspondent says:

"Girls have been mutilated, graybearded Jews stabbed to death, little children put to death with knives."

Arabs are said to have murdered Jews from whom they had obtained loans, thus wiping out their debt. The two most conspicuous Jewish families in Constantine were wiped out completely.

Star Ill, Chorus Girl Gets Big Chance

FRANCES WILLIAMS . . . . FELL ILL, A "KID" GOT A CHANCE

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The dream of chorus girls came true to Adrienne Matzenauer, rocketed to a leading role in "Life Begins at 8:40," by the illness of Frances Williams, the star.

To make the success of the beautiful 20-year-old girl complete, her mother, Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, operatic star who had expected to see her daughter performing as a chorine, viewed the musical revue from the audience, her daughter unaware of her presence.

Mme. Matzenauer, who has been singing at Philadelphia in "Aida," reached the theater here last night shortly before curtain time to receive "the greatest and most beautiful surprise of my life."

Miss Williams collapsed after yesterday's matinee from the after effects of an appendicitis operation.

John Murray Anderson, the producer, told Adrienne the news. Until a few minutes before the curtain time she practiced her role. The applause was indication enough of her success.

MODERN WHISKY GOOD, ASSERTS WAGNER

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—W. Worrell Wagner, member of the Liquor Control Board and for nearly four decades before prohibition a Philadelphia liquor importer, today came strongly to the defense of the quality of post-prohibition whisky. Wagner said:

"People who talk about the 'good old days' or before prohibition, insofar as liquor is concerned, have forgotten a good deal in the time that has elapsed since then.

"Good whisky is available in our state stores today at prices which, if we throw higher federal and state taxes out of our calculations, are actually lower than before prohibition."

As to the quality of today's blended whisky, Wagner was emphatic that it is much better than before prohibition or during the bootleg-prohibition era. Federal restrictions now insist that all blends must have at least 20 per cent whisky base, he said, adding:

"In those earlier days I have seen a whole floorful of whisky in barrels marked XXX whisky, which didn't have any more real whisky in each barrel than is in a pint of one of our blends."

Persons who are buying today's straight whiskies because they think the blends are no good, and then find they do not like the straights, are not unusual but their reasoning is wrong when they infer from this experience that whiskies today lack the quality of pre-war times, Wagner said.

He explained:

"It's an educated taste that likes straight whiskies. The average person wants a blended liquor because it is easier to take. Straight whisky is like coffee without sugar and cream."

PENNA. LEADER IN RUM TAXES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Pennsylvania is paying the biggest share of the nation's liquor tax bill.

It poured $29,453,184 into the national treasury from December 1, 1933 and June 30, 1934—the first seven months of repeal—the Internal Revenue Bureau announced.

Next in line was New York state with $28,082,660.

The Keystone State, which witnessed a "whisky rebellion" against the liquor tax of the federal government in George Washington's day, paid an average tax of $3.05 for each of its men, women and children, in the seven-month period.

The tax came from these leading sources: $5 a barrel tax on fermented malk liquors, $12,276,201; domestic distilled brands, $14,085,454; imported liquor, $388,424; rectification taxes, $1,493,145; floor tax, 90 cents a barrel of spirits, $399,850; wholesale and retail dealers' levies, $223,255.

Divorce suits were filed by Richard Owen against Viola Owen, Ursalie Carroll against William C. Carroll, Lucia C. Mangguso against Joseph Mangguso, Paul J. Lippi against Sophia Lippi and by Florence Agnew against Donald A. Agnew.

BARTENDERS FAVOR BLENDED WHISKIES

Experienced "mixologists" say properly blended whiskies were always better mixers.

A survey recently completed to determine the whiskey preference of well-known bartenders in New York, discloses an overwhelming preference for blended whiskey, particularly since the arrival on the market of so fine a blended whiskey as SHENANDOAH.

Before Prohibition, bars almost universally made their mixed drinks with blended whiskey because such whiskies were smoother, mellower mixing drinks. "That is the kind the public demands of us," say leading bartenders, "but there are good blends and poor blends—and it's up to you to tell one from the other.

"Blending is an art, mixing is an art. The skill in blending and mixing—but the finished product is what counts."

NAZI'S BISHOP MADE SUPREME CHURCH HEAD

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—With a stroke of the pen Reichbishop Ludwig Mueller today made himself supreme head of the Protestant Church in Germany.

His sweeping act received the stamp of approval from the hastily-summoned national synod. The protests of 12 representatives of churches in South Germany received no attention as the church law reating to "the headship of the German Evangeical Church and the state churches" was adopted by an overwhelming majority of the 54 members of the German Christian synod.

The law abolishing the church flag was the only act, among three others, which was accorded unanimous approval.

In response to repeated protests Bishop Mueller several times recalled the late President Paul von Hindenburg's last message:

"See to it that Jesus Christ is preached in Germany."

Germany's Protestant pastors and church officials will be required to take an oath of fealty to Chancellor Hitler, just as Nazi Storm Troops and members of the regular army did last week.

This important step to secure Hitler uniform support following his assumption of the powers of president, was announced by Dr. August Jaeger, Nazi commissioner for Protestant churches.

The oath of fealty will call for recognition of "der fuehrer (Hitler) of Volkspum" (Nationalism) and of "the will to sacrifice."

HITLER TO MAKE RADIO PLEA

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler will make a radio address to the German people on Friday, August 17, explaining his act in making himself their absolute ruler, it was announced today.

Hitler's radio speech will culminate his campaign for overwhelming approval by the citizens of Germany of his combining the offices of President and Chancellor thus giving himself more power that any ruler in modern history. It will be broadcast two days before the plebiscite on his action scheduled for Sunday, August 19.

Hitler has departed for his chalet in the Bavarian Alps, leaving arrangements for the preplebiscite campaign in the hands of his energetic minister of propaganda and enlightenment, Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels.

Vice Chancellor Fight Now Bitter

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—A hot fight is developing over the appointment of an assistant to Reichsleader Hitler, International News Service learned today.

The Nazi party is urging Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier and Hitler's right hand man. The Reichswehr is backing Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of war, and he is believed to have the inside track.

Hitler's Life Guarded As No Ruler's Has Been Since Days of Czars

(Editor's Note—The following description of the most unusual precautions taken to safeguard Adolf Hitler's life—precautions perhaps unequalled even in the days when Nihilist terrorists sought to assassinate the Russian Czars—was cabled by a veteran correspondent of International News Service, who, until only a few weeks ago, was stationed in Berlin.)

By HUDSON HAWLEY
International News Service.

LONDON, England, Aug. 9.—Reichsleader Adolf Hitler, of Germany, since June 30 probably has been the most closely guarded personality in the world, with every member of the chancellery household virtually a detective, whether uniformed or plain-clothesed, the former predominating.

Besides the black-garbed S. S. (Special Hitler Guards) who are on duty 24 hours of the day in shifts, Hitler now has a Reichswehr guard stronger than that of the late President Hindenburg's.

Letters to "The Leader" are so thoroughly sifted at the Berlin central postoffice that no threatening crank missives or "pineapple" packages ever reach the Wilhelmstrasse. Strict supervision of the kitchens, plus vegetarian, teetotal living reduces the chances of poisoning to a minimum.

Hitler does not dine out, even in the embassies of friendly nations, as King George does. The only exception is the house of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister, and then Frau Goebbels has to dismiss her staff and cook the meal herself.

Hitler has consistently "ducked" the invitation of the Foreign Press Association to its monthly luncheons. The only public appearances he voluntarily makes are at recitals of his favorite pianist.

When "The Leader" leaves the chancellery for a ceremony such as that held Monday, when the Reichstag met to honor Hindenburg, the S. S. line the streets with their backs to the crowd, while a solid line of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering's "green police" eye the crowds with their backs to the street. Hitler's Mercedes, reputed to be the fastest car in Germany, whisks him through the double lane like a will o' the wisp.

Hitler no longer travels on trains. He shoots through the sky with a trusted pilot, and at each landing field he finds at least one platoon of S. S. lined up and armed to the teeth. Then the speediest car available scoots him to within four walls.

Only one near attempt on his life since he assumed the chancellorship is admitted. It was late in the spring when Frau Goerring's remains were returned from Sweden for burial on the outskirts of Berlin, Hitler being one of the chief mourners. A potshot was taken, and it narrowly missed Police Chief Himmler—anyway, that was the official version—but Hitler and Himmler rode in similar cars and the shot might well have been meant for "The Leader" himself.

MOVIES LINKED TO U. S. REDS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Hollywood's motion picture colony was drawn today into a Congressional investigation of Communist and Silver Shirt activities in Southern California. Police Capt. William Hynes said:

"Several prominent motion picture stars and directors are supporting an asserted Communist movement here."

Hynes' statement was made after he had left the Congressional sub-committee's rooms, where he described the growth of Communistic activities in Southern California, principally in Los Angeles. At the conclusion of the hearing yesterday, Representative Charles Kramer, committee chairman, said economy forced a discontinuance of further sessions.

Hynes, who is head of the Los Angeles Police Intelligence Squad, said he possessed the names of the contributors and would present them "at the proper time." He added:

"While there is no definite plan on foot to attempt to boycott pictures of those who have contributed to the Communistic cause, drastic action may be necessary."

TEACHER OATH VOTED IN N. Y.

International News Service.

ALBANY, Aug. 9.—By a vote of 39 to 3, the Senate today passed the Ives bill requiring every teacher in public and private schools to swear allegiance to the federal and state constitutions.

The bill previously had been passed by the Assembly and now goes to Gov. Lehman.

The Governor vetoed a similar bill last spring, after it had been passed at the regular session. He insisted the law was not needed because teachers are required to sign such an oath when they receive their certificates.

Otto Pays Visit To Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Archduke Otto, claimant to the Austrian throne, whose travels are keeping Europe alert, showed up today in Copenhagen.

With two secretaries he will proceed for an automobile tour of Sweden and Norway. Otto is traveling under the name of "Count Polavesing."

8 Seized in Plot On Roehm Successor

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Eight persons were arrested yesterday, reportedly in a conspiracy to assassinate Victor Lutze, Nazi Storm Troop commander, who succeeded Capt. Ernst Roehm, executed by Adolf Hitler's order.

HITLER FREES PRISONER

International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Between 6,000 and 10,000 prisoners in concentration camps throughout Germany will be granted their liberty by a sweeping amnesty decree announced today by Reichsleader Hitler.

The step was taken, Hitler announced, in memory of the late President von Hindenburg.

Many of those who will be released have been in concentration camps since the Nazi drive against political foes was launched months ago.

The amnesty decree was issued in the form of a law liberating "almost all groups in memory of Field Marshal von Hindenburg." The phraseology employed was taken to indicate that certain groups of Communists will not be released.

Among the Communists still interned is Dr. Ernst Thaelmann, who polled several million votes as a presidential candidate, and who was arrested in connection with the Reichstag fire.

The principal groups affected, it is believed, will be Nazis, of whom 6,000 are still detained in connection with the Storm Troopers' conspiracy led by Capt. Roehm on June 30.

12 Hitler Critics Jailed for Sedition

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Twelve persons were sentenced to a total of 15 years in prison today on charges of making malicious remarks about the Hitler government.

YOU'LL enjoy this pleasing "Energizing Effect"
—now newly explained by Science

When you've used up your energy at work or play—smoke a Camel and notice how soon you feel your flow of natural energy snap back.

This experience, long known to Camel smokers, has now been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory. Camel smokers enjoy a positive "energizing effect"...a healthful and delightful release of natural, vibrant energy. Millions have found this to be true. A typical Camel experience is this, Ellsworth Vines, Jr. speaking—

"Championship tennis is one of the fastest of modern sports. After four or five sets, you sometimes feel that you just can't take another step. That's when a Camel tastes like a million dollars. Not only does the rich, mellow fragrance appeal to my taste, but Camels have a refreshing way of bringing my energy up to a higher level. And I can smoke all the Camels I want, for they don't interfere with my nerves."

So, whenever you want a "lift," just smoke a Camel. You can smoke them steadily. For the finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never get on your nerves.

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

● Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS —Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

GIRL PATIENT DEAD, 'DOCTOR' ARRESTED

ERIE, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Authorities today opened an investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Dorothy McClincy, 17-year-old East Brady (Pa.) girl, in the office of a self-styled "nerve specialist" here, February 8. The man, George T. Wilson, is under arrest on charges of practicing medicine without a license.

Charges were placed last night by County Detective Leroy Search and D. A. McClincy, the girl's father.

Dorothy died in Wilson's office, where she had boarded several days while undergoing treatment for what Wilson diagnosed as epileptic fits, Coroner W. G. Stroble said.

Realizing the girl's condition was serious, Wilson called in Stroble, who said he found her dying of double pneumonia. Stroble said he instructed Wilson to notify him in case of death, so a death certificate could be filled out, but he was not advised she had died until two days after her demise, when he heard of it from an undertaker, the coroner declared.

Wilson posted $1,000 bond for a hearing Monday.

Hatton Regains Bible He Lost 25 Years Ago

RAYMOND HATTON

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—Coincidence played another of its weird tricks today and Raymond Hatton recovered a Bible his mother gave him and which he lost more than 25 years ago.

The last time Hatton saw the Bible was when he was stranded in Canada, and had to leave his trunk as security. Later he sent money for the bill, but his letter was returned unopened. Imagine Hatton's amazement, then, when Monte Blue came up to him today and put the Bible into his hands.

Charles Gunn, another actor, purchased the trunk from the hotel a couple of years after Hatton's stay there. The Bible was in his effects when he died here some time ago.

The other day his widow noticed the inscription to Hatton.

50 PLAY AREAS BEING PUSHED FOR CHILDREN

Parents as well as college and high school graduates have joined the throng today in helping to get 50 play areas, sponsored by the Relief Works Division, in condition for children to use. The RWD funds pay for the instructors, and the people in the community buy the equipment and clean up the grounds.

In one week the playgrounds handled 40,000 children. The number of children using the playgrounds being too much for the paid instructors, young men and women volunteered their services to the community.

These play areas are not only intended for the youngsters, Miss Dora M. Ehnert, county recreation director of Recreation County Community Councils, said, but also for adults.

Men from a mill in Braddock, during their lunch hour, use one of the play areas to pitch horseshoes.

An outstanding activity of the playgrounds is that of singing classes. After the children sing in chorus, individuals are given a chance to show their ability.

News Behind the News

Snell Also Boomed Even Though Few Know It

Mr. Mallon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—A foremost financial advisory service told its clients confidentially a few days ago that present events indicate Senator Borah will be the Republican presidential candidate in 1936.

That would not mean much to you unless you happened to know that, on the inside, the prediction really came from a topmost insider in the Hoover administration who still is close to Hoover.

How much it means, after you know that, also may not be clear. The natural suspicion will be that Hoover's ex-right-hand-man reflects the unspoken thoughts of the sphinx of Palo Alto. If true, that would be interesting, particularly in view of the incompatibility of Borah and Hoover during the latter days of the Hoover administration.

OPPOSITION

Shortly after the backstage Borah boom was launched, Congressman Culkin, of New York, arose at a Republican county meeting there and said:

"Bertrand Snell, minority leader of the House, looms as the Republican party candidate for president."

Mr Culkin might as well have launched his boom confidentially because all the notice he got was three paragraphs on page 15 of the New York Times.

But that makes two Republican candidates who have been pushed out on the stage now, whether anyone knows about it or not.

BACKGROUND

Snell is one of the few Republicans still holding a high official position. Everyone has expected for some time that he would be put forward seriously by his friends.

But the mention of Borah has a more interesting origin and background. Even some of his enemies in the Republican party have been thinking for a long time that Borah is the strongest man who could be nominated in the existing situation.

The Republicans want the farm states back, and Borah is the logical man to get them. He is leading much of the most serious opposition to the New Deal.

Yet those who know Borah most intimately are convinced he will not consent to be drafted. Inwardly, he is more angry about the Republican setup than he is about the New Deal. A rather widespread organization of young Republicans has clustered around him out through the Middle West.

He would like to fan them into flames, but whether he would care to undertake a presidential campaign in his seventy-first year (he is 69 now) is another question. He certainly would not consent to be a stalking horse.

CRITICISM

There has been more inside than outside criticism about Mr. Roosevelt going off to Hawaii for such a length of time while a more-than-seasonal summer slump was in progress.

For this reason, the President will spend less time at Hyde Park and Warm Springs than had been planned for the next four months. However, similar criticism cannot legitimately be made regarding excursions to those two places, as he usually take the capital with him when he goes.

PRICE

The price-fixing features of NRA will be restricted measurably after Mr. Roosevelt returns. That angle of the NRA will be gradually abandoned, eliminating such criticism as Senator Borah has been making lately.

This action will be stimulated by a report due shortly from Mr. Roosevelt's secret cabinet committee, appointed to go into the legality and advisability of federal price-fixing measures. The report will advise against price-fixing.

KIT CARSON, DANGEROUS DAN McGREW, DEADEYE DICK, AND JESSE JAMES WERE ALL FAST ON THE DRAW, BUT THEY WOULDN'T HAVE A CHANCE WITH GOVERNOR MURRAY, OF OKLAHOMA. THE WAY HE CALLS OUT THE MILITIA IS SOMETHING.

IF YOU ARE AN UNRULY OIL WELL, OR A PUNK BASEBALL SCORE, OR AN UNBALANCED BUDGET IN OKLAHOMA, THE FIRST THING YOU KNOW YOU ARE FACE TO FACE WITH "ALFALFA BILL" AND HE'S GOT THE DROP ON YOU.

WHAT LOUISIANA NEEDS IS A GOVERNOR LIKE "ALFALFA BILL." NO SENATOR WOULD BE CALLING OUT HIS MILITIA—NOT EVEN "THE KINGFISH," HIMSELF IN PERSON.

M'ADOO 'SLUR' BRINGS SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Judge Frank C. Collier, who criticized Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo's attorney for obtaining her a divorce in 42 minutes from Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, was named defendant today in a $35,000 damage suit.

The lawyer, Henry Grivi, charged he was defamed.

He filed the suit through William H. Neblett, law partner of Senator McAdoo.

Grivi charged Judge Collier's remarks regarding his work in representing Mrs. McAdoo has "irreparably damaged his reputation and his position as an attorney." Judge Collier had said Grivi's rushing of the divorce was "contemptible if not contumacious" and his remarks were made a part of the record.

Neblett today filed notice of appeal in the ruling of Judge Stanley Murray last Monday that Judge Collier's statements should stand in the records of the McAdoo divorce.

MOONEY PARDON AGAIN SOUGHT

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Leo Gallagher, attorney for Tom Mooney, announced here today a new application will be presented to Acting Governor Frank F. Merriam Saturday for a pardon for the man who was convicted of murder following the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco. Ten persons were killed and forty injured in the blast.

The application will be based on the fact that since Mooney's last application for pardon he has been tried and acquitted on a murder charge also connected with the bombing.

The attorney added, however, Mooney has little hope that the Governor will act favorably on the application.

WEDDING PLAN SAVES BIG TAX

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Marriage plans, not tax evasion, have been accepted by the United States District Court of Appeals as the motive of the late Walter Lippincott, millionaire clothman and publisher, in transferring $1,000,000 in property to his chauffeur shortly before his death in 1926.

In a ruling yesterday, the court upheld the Lippincott estate's contention that the millionaire, 77, when he died, made the transfer because his prospective bride, whom he never married, would not agree to forego claim to the property in event of his death.

The decision frees the estate of liability for $78,310 in transfer taxes.

3 WOMEN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Three women were injured when a truck, out of control, struck two automobiles in Fifth avenue, McKeesport, and halted after damaging a store front and the corner of St. Pius' Church building late yesterday.

The victims, taken to McKeesport Hospital, were Mrs. Mary Butler, 35, the driver, and Mrs. Catherine Nau, 72, both of 22 Earl street, Duquesne, and Mary Jura, 49, of 609 Kahler street, Duquesne.

The driver, Charles McHenry, of 7122 Schoyer street, Swissvale, lost control of the truck when the drive shaft broke, police said.

FOOD REFUSED BY M'CORMICK CHAUFFEUR

NICE, France, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A hunger strike which he began August 1 so weakened Emile Ammann, who says he was once a chauffeur for the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, of Chicago, that he was sent today to a Monaco hospital. Doctors are considering feeding him forcibly.

Ammann, a Swiss, aged 50, said he was hunger-striking to attract attention to his allegations that he was held unjustly in a psychopathic ward in Chicago after he left the employ of Mrs. McCormick, concerning whom he published a book in Paris in 1930.

The case was reported to the Swiss consul in Monaco and to the police at Beau Scleti, where Ammann ha sbeen living.

Seeks Reduction In Assessment

E. M. Milligan manager for the United Presbyterian Board of Publications Building at 209 Ninth street, has on file today an appeal from the assessment of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes. Milligan charges that H. C. Workmaster, chief assessor, has assessed the property for $228,400, which Milligan declares is excessive, and asks Common Pleas Court to reduce it.

SLIT SKIRTS REVEAL KNEE DIMPLES

By JEAN EADS

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Slits in skirts are getting higher and higher, and the fancy petticoat is having a chance to show itself after all these years. Not only petticoats but brightly colored taffeta ruffled panties are visible through the more daring slits.

How About Using Them for Holes In Socks?

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—If the wife won't sew on buttons, the new braces and zipper fastenings for hubby ought to help a lot.

The braces are narrow, very elastic, and on the four ends of each is a metal clasp. It clamps into trouser tops wherever it seems best, throwing eight buttons out of a job.

Zippers that used to be seen only on the necks of golf jackets have put in appearance now in shorts and sports trousers. They don't appear very frequently, however, because manufacturers say the genus homo is a cowardly conservative when it comes to clothes.

In many cases, however, nothing can be seen except a pair of silken legs through which knee dimples shimmer.

At Worth's collection many afternoon and evening gowns were daringly slashed half way up the thigh, and even a number of tweed sports suits were slit to above the knee. Such petticoats as were worn, however, were of the most gossamer of chiffons, so that the effect was practically the same, if not more so.

One velvet evening gown was slashed every three inches around the hem, forming mere strips to the knee, while underneath was a finely pleated chiffon skirt through which two pretty legs were visible.

A white wool jersey ankle-length gown was split on both sides to the knees, revealing a ruffled tulle petticoat. A black gown slit in back was worn with a wicked shadow lace petticoat. Another had a bright red underskirt, while still another of white corded silk slit in front to ur inches above the knee showed an underskirt of ostrich plumes.

A wool tweed suit shown by Dilkusha had a matching tweed underskirt reaching to the knee, revealed by the slit, which reached a few inches higher.

Winka De Nagarnoff follows a different tangent with a wrap-around golf skirt opening in front, which can be hooked neatly back at the waist on either side to reveal loud plaid golf knickers.

Other designs are creating fancy panties in knicker style, to be worn with the slit skirts which promise to occupy a place of growing importance in the fall fashion picture.

Just press a button and powderpuff, rouge, lipstick and purse are revealed as the side folds down in the Heim muffs, made to match the dress and fur-trimmed.

CROSSES LETHE AMID MASTER HARMONIES

GRUENDELSEE, Austria, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Knowing that death was approaching, Herbert Adams Gibbons, American author who died here yesterday at the age of 54, requested his daughter to play his favorite melody: Debussy's Quartet in G.

Death came peacefully a few minutes later as a result of a heart attack.

Gibbons had lived a full life. He was ordained for the Presbyterian ministry in 1908 but served as a foreign correspondent for the New York Herald from that year until 1918, in Turkey, Egypt, the Balkans and France. He was a correspondent for Century and Harper's Magazines throughout the World War and was made an Officer of the Legion of Honor by France after his services with the 308th Ammunition Train of the Thirty-second Division of the A. E. F.

He was a member of numerous associations and clubs and engaged in many activities besides his writings. He managed Byrd's trans-Atlantic flight. He collaborated with William G. McAdoo in the work, "Lithuania Recognition." Two years ago his "Contemporary World History" appeared.

MAJOR'S TRIAL TO AGAIN AIR TRYSTS

International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 9.—Details of the clandestine love affair of Maj. Charles A. Shepard with Grace Brandon, willowy blonde stenographer of San Antonio, again will be bared when the retired Army medical officer is retried in Federal Court here October 8 for the poison death of his second wife, Mrs. Zenana Shepard.

Maj. Shepard's first trial resulted in his conviction and sentence to life imprisonment in December of 1930. The Supreme Court, however, set aside the conviction and sentence and ordered a new trial, ruling that trial Judge Richard J. Hopkins erred in sustaining hearsay testimony as evidence.

The case gained national attention at the time of the first trial, the government charging that Maj. Shepard caused his wife's death so that he would be free to marry Miss Brandon, and offered in evidence more than 50 letters, all couched in endearing terms, written by the defendant to the blonde typist.

RUM CHARGED

In defense Maj. Shepard contended that his wife was a habitual drunkard, frequently discussed suicide and used a mouth wash of high poison content which may have caused her death. She died at the Fort Riley, Kan., Army post in June, 1929, and was buried and nothing more thought of it until relatives demanded that her body be disinterred and an autopsy performed.

Maj. Shepard vigorously opposed the autopsy. It was performed, however, and a quantity of poison found in the woman's viscera. It was then that government agents began their laborious task of gathering evidence to sustain the prosecution charge of murder.

A San Antonio florist was placed on the witness stand and testified that the defendant frequently telegraphed flowers to Miss Brandon. An automobile salesman told of a gift by the major to the blond of a moderate priced car. The letters told a story of their own, one thanking the officer for a "cobweb" night gown and assuring him that he would be the first to see her in it.

Following his conviction Maj. Shepard received numerous letters offering him financial assistance in effecting an appeal. Several thousand dollars was raised here and contributed to the officer's defense fund. He returned to Fitzsimmons hospital, Denver, where he was stationed as a tuberculosis expert and was retired last year.

WED TO WIDOW

Following the Supreme Court ruling granting him a new trial he announced his marriage to a Denver widow.

At the time of his courtship of Miss Brandon, Maj. Shepard was 60 years old and the girl 23. They met at Brooks Field, San Antonio, while he was taking a flight surgeon's course there, and he allegedly proposed marriage contingent on the possibility of his divorcing his wife. The courtship, the government alleged, was carried on before, during and immediately after the wife's fatal illness.

Due to the fact that Mrs. Shepard died on a government reservation the prosecution can request the death penalty, although the state of Kansas does not countenance capital punishment.

9 DAYS OF Wonder Values

Believe it or Not

Even Ripley himself would get a thrill if he were here to see the way we've shaved profits and cut prices for these Nine Days of WONDER VALUES . . . Right at the beginning of the Fall season when all stores are anxious to benefit by a normal seasonal markup, we're offering a storefull of fresh, new, wanted merchandise at prices that in many cases will seem incredible. Only a few of the hundreds of extraordinary WONDER VALUES can find space here . . . You'll find countless others in every department of the store, from basement to roof.

- See the "Believe It or Not" Windows Monster enlargements of Robert L. Ripley's famous BELIEVE IT OR NOT drawings are on exhibit in our Fifth Avenue, Smithfield and Diamond Street windows. Come down and see them.
- Visit the "Believe It or Not Gallery" . . . on the Second Floor . . . scores of reproductions of Mr. Ripley's most famous drawings, depicting the "strange" and "unusual" from all parts of the world. Be sure to visit this unique display when you're in the store.
- Look for "Believe It or Not" Signs Every WONDER VALUE is marked by a special red and white BELIEVE IT OR NOT sign. Look for these markers throughout the store. They point the way to out-of-the-ordinary savings.

"Song Bag" Melodies On WCAE Today

At 5:30, WCAE opens the Song Bag, bringing the favorite melodies of old with the latest hit tunes.

At 6:45, Howard Price, tenor, is presented as soloist in his regular Thursday evening hour, and at 7 o'clock, WCAE starts the Manhattan Merry-Go-Round.

At 6:30 and at 11 the baseball summaries are given.

Globe Trotter

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

In spite of all the excitement that must be part of a boy's first trip abroad, Frank De Tommaso, of Pittsburgh, has not forgotten the Globetrotters back home.

I received a card from him today, postmarked Rome where he, with other honor high school students of the U. S. A., is a guest of Il Duce. You remember before he went on the trip he spoke on the radio telling about what he was going to do and see.

The card says that he will soon be back and will have a good story to tell. This ought to interest all the boys and girls.

William Sieth, Elizabeth, Pa.—The government loans are granted through Home Owners Loan Corporation. Their offices are in the Benedum Trees Building in Pittsburgh. Things have been slow down there but the new manager, Ewing LaPorte, says that from now on "efficiency" will be the watchword.

* * *

Another lovelorn lady is writing anonymously about information in regard to marriage licenses.

Her especial question is this:

Is a marriage legal when the parties do not give their right ages to the clerk granting the license?

From that question, I perceive that the young lady in question isn't sure whether consent to her marriage can be had from her parents or that she wants to keep the wedding a secret. I am not going to answer her question, but instead I am going to ask the East Pittsburgh miss contemplating the step to take some one older than she is, and someone of more mature mind into her confidence and discuss the question with that person before she does anything.

George Seibert—Your letter referred to the Sun-Telegraph Pathfinder. You'll hear from him. I hope you enjoy the trip.

FROCK THAT LOOKS LIKE A FROCK AND JACKET
Pattern 1939
Sun-Telegraph 15c Pattern

A frock which looks like a frock and jacket represents a saving of the most valuable thing any of us possess—time!

Did you ever think of it?—once you have spent your time, you can never, never get it back again, or replenish your supply!

That being that, this design that gives you the effect of a jacket, without the necessity of making one, is not to be looked at lightly.

The graceful jabots that fall on each side and make a woman look so slim is the secret of the model's success—but there are many other nice features to it, front and back, all equally slimming in effect.

Good for cotton or silk fabrics. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Pattern 1939 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 3¾ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

And while you are writing, why not include an order for a fascinating book, crammed from cover to cover with stunning illustrations and captivating descriptions of new fashions, fabrics and other things that make a woman chic . . . . THE SUMMER ISSUE OF THE PATTERN BOOK. PRICE 15 CENTS; BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS.

Address orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

'Your Lover' Thrills the Spinsters

By AIRCASTER

Recently Frank Luther, hardy composer of such rollicking ballads as "Barnacle Bill," forsook his usually robust artistry to assume the guise of the soft, suave and saccharine character known as "Your Lover," which has become more than an ordinary feature at WEAF—without a network.

When Frank essayed this role, albeit he did so while still hiding his identity, his friends and the commentators snickered. It was (and is) a silly sort of program wherein the soft-voiced tenor coos directly and intimately to women listeners.

Between ballads, he murmurs sweet nothings to bleak-hearted lady listeners and you'd be surprised at what his 1,500 letters a week contain!

Nevertheless, 1,500 letters a week from such a sure-fire group of listeners are nothing to be sneezed at sponsorially. And so "Your Lover," shortly and alack, is destined to be spread out over a full web of stations, including WCAE.

ALL IN A NAME

Those who yearn for refinements in the radio sphere may not be able to understand why such an inane invention as "Your Lover" draws a hundred letters where a full symphony series or a concert by the Compinskys draws one.

This sorry condition is interpreted as a sad commentary on the crudities of radio. But it seems to me that this is an unfair analysis. One must not overlook the difficulties of fan-letter writing. It is an easy chore, for instance, for Mrs. Hank Jones, of Yaphank Hollow, to address a letter to "Your Lover." It is quite another task to address one to Mr. Gabrilovitz of the Detroit Symphony.

One cannot ignore the fact that a great many people write to "Tony Once" and "Comrade Teaball" instead of Tony Wons and Conrad Thibeault.

Unquestionably the time has come when there must develop a system of simplification of the names of radio celebrities.

Ed Wynn foresaw the necessity of this long ago and changed from Mr. Leopold to Mr. Wynn.

Al Jolson modified his family tag in the interest of simplification. Where would Ben Bernie be today if he had remained Mr. Ancelowitz?

The owners of jaw-breaking or letter-defying names might even go a step farther than simplification. They might even Americanize their tags.

It is a safe bet, for instance, that Leopold Stokowski would inflate the bulk of his mail if he became plain Leo Stock.

Andre Kostelanetz admits that his family name is the equivalent of two strikes. If he could, without offending his family, he would become Mr. Andy Kost. Neither Arturo Toscanini nor Nino Martini would suffer intrinsically by the deletion of the "ninis," I'm certain.

Vallee Guest

Cornelia Otis Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, is starred on Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour on WCAE tonight at 8.

Joan Warren Gets Commercial Spot

Joan Warren, who came out second-best in the Dick Powell radio contest at a downtown theater the other evening, has won a commercial spot on the air, while the girl who was adjudged the winner of the local audition still has a long way to go before she attains success.

Miss Warren was auditioned at KDKA the day after the contest, and immediately signed up for the Pittsburgh Varieties Program. She makes her debut next Tuesday evening at 7:15.

A sick child at night—what a comfort to have a telephone!

When fire breaks out or thieves break in a telephone is priceless.

No need to shop in the rain. Let the telephone bring the stores to you.

You're never lonely with a telephone—it brings your friends to you.

LET'S TALK PRICE

For as little as $2.50 a month (for even less in the suburbs) you can have a telephone in your home. It figures out at less than a dime a day.

Is it worth it?

Ask the mother whose baby was ill last night! Thanks to her telephone, the doctor arrived in time.

Ask the man whose house caught on fire. Thanks to his telephone, the damage was slight.

Ask the old folks whose family is scattered. Their telephone keeps them in touch with their children.

Ask a practical housewife—ask the youngsters—they'll all agree that nothing adds more to your safety, convenience and pleasure than a telephone. Nothing does so much for so little!

Call the Business Office and say "I want a telephone." It's a free call from any telephone.

Service Connection Charge for residences is $3.00 in Pittsburgh; $2.50 in suburbs. Where there is an instrument already installed and no change is desired, the charge is $1.50.

FLAMES SWEEP NORTH SIDE FACTORY

in the heat of the flames, were finally rescued by fellow workers.

In his bare feet, John Hatherly, 50, ran from his nearby home to the fire-alarm box at the corner and smashed his fist into the glass to ring the alarm. He recounted:

"I was sleeping. I heard the lightning, then there was a crash. I jumped out of bed and saw the smoke on the roof."

THIRD FIRE IN PLANT

This was the third fire in the plant in three days.

The flames broke out on the roof after a terrific blast of thunder and lightning.

Downward they ate through the building, sweeping through the elevator shaft. A section of the roof collapsed down through the shaft as four firemen dropped their hose and scurried to safety.

Acting Fire Chief Nick Phelan led the first group of eight firemen to the fifth floor.

BLINDING SMOKE

There they appeared trapped until two reached the street down scaling ladders and other firemen led the six down the steps through blinding smoke.

Electric light service of many houses in the Spring Garden section was curtailed when firemen had to cut the wires to spread ladders and hose.

Firemen Paul R. Smith, of 858 North Canal street, was cut on the hand by flying glass.

Fireman Augustine Foley, of 19 Luckey avenue, was burned on the left arm.

Firemen seemed to have the flames under control on the third floor. Most damage was in the ticking department on the fifth floor and to the cotton stock on the fourth floor.

FIRST AID AT SCENE

Acting Police Superintendent Jacob Dorsey arrived to take charge of the police detail. The bomb and arson squad, which answers all fires of two or more alarms, turned out.

City Surgeon Daniel E. Sable took over the home of George Siebert, at 1219 Madison avenue, to treat the injured. Some of the company's 35 employes saved records on the first floor by passing them through windows.

On Tuesday there were two fires in the factory's fourth floor, breaking out in the cotton stocks within a few hours. Damage then was estimated at $2,000.

GETS 2 YEARS TO RUE BIGAMY

Albert Smith, of Freeport road, Springdale, was sentenced to spend two years in the county workhouse on a bigamy charge today.

Mrs. Smith No. 1, represented in court by Attorney Martin A. Flanagan, charged that Smith married Bridget Kyne, of 102 East Seventh street, Aspinwall, June 14, 1933, although he was still married.

Mrs. Smith did not appear in court.

COURT QUIZZES DETECTIVE

Harry Fink, Hill district private detective and friend of Alderman John J. Verona, got his private detective's license renewed today but he had to explain certain things to Judge James H. Gray.

When Fink asked for the renewal, the Judge asked:

"You've been in a good bit of trouble, haven't you?"

Fink explained that he had been indicted along with Verona by the federal government for vote fraud this year, but had won a directed verdict of not guilty.

SCAN TROLLEYS AS SANITY RISK

To what extent motormen of the Pittsburgh Railways Company are being "driven insane" by the strain of high speed schedules was disclosed in a secret session of representatives of the company and union leaders yesterday. Testimony was given by Dr. George K. Wright, mental expert.

The testimony was a part of the hearing of an arbitration board trying to settle a dispute between the men and the company over hours and wages. It followed an open hearing, which was featured by clashes between Dr. Leslie Vickers, New York economist, and Dr. Joseph W. Madden, of the University of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board, after Dr. Vickers had criticized the NRA.

Cases of 38 street car operators were said to have been discussed at the secret session. Dr. Wright was said to have testified as to what extent the work of the men was responsible.

Speaking of the NRA, Dr. Vickers said that the hours of the men were shortened in compliance with the law, as an effort to spread employment, but that it was "greatly overdone." He declared that ruin to many lines of industry must follow any prolonged continuation of such a program. Some industries, he said, can pass on the increased costs, but the transit industry cannot.

BOY CONFESSES SLAYING MAN OVER FOX

International News Service.

TIONESTA, Pa., Aug. 9.—Orvel H. Cussins, 19-year-old son of a prosperous Forest County farmer, who allegedly confessed to the murder of Lawrence A. Smith, was brought here today for arraignment on murder charges.

After long hours of grilling, state police at the Kane sub-station announced the youth confessed early today to fatally shooting Smith, a Forest County backwoodsman, when he was surprised in the act of stealing a pet red fox.

Thinking Smith was at work on a state highway job, Cussins walked a mile and a quarter through the woods to the victim's shack, according to state police. Smith appeared when the youth tried to steal the fox, police said, and then Cussins discharged his 30-30 caliber "woodchuck" gun, the bullet piercing the victim's heart, police said the youth admitted.

'CENSOR PROOF' MAE'S NEW AIM

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mae West again plans to write the scenario for her next film and will make it censorproof, it was announced at the studio today.

Her most recent picture, which has been revised both as to title and in the film itself, has now been approved by the Will Hays censor board. It will be shown as "The Belle of the Nineties."

Miss West said her new production would be modern, in contrast to the Gay Nineties offering.

COMBING THE FAR PLACES FOR FIRESIDE DELICACIES

By PRUDENCE PENNY

The third of the $1 prize winning recipes today, "Filipino Specially," submitted by Sadie Harris, of 314 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon, who says the recipe was brought to Pittsburgh from the Philippine Islands, gives me an idea.

Summer time is vacation time. Vacation time means new places, new places, new dishes, new cuisines. What a splendid opportunity to cosmopolitan-ize the home town recipe outlook by bringing back from all points on the compass new and delightful recipes secured from cooks ad hostesses in all parts of the land.

For example, if by any chance you have the temerity to brave summer climes in this hot weather don't forget to get some of those delicious Southern recipes. If you go northward bring home a prize dish of French-Canadian origin.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. A. J. OBERMEIER,
Apt. 3, 4810 Liberty ave.
PEACH SURPRISE

Cut 10 peaches in halves, removing stones, or use as many canned half peaches. Make a batter of:
Two eggs.
Two cups pastry flour.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One-half cup milk.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons sugar.
Dip peaches in batter then roll in ground bread crumbs and fry in deep fat until peaches are tender. Test with toothpick. Serve dusted with powdered sugar.

Five $1 Prize Winners

MRS. ELIZABETH CAMPBELL,
Lash.
CORN-PICKLE

Two quarts cut corn.
Two quarts chopped cabbage.
One quart green beans.
One quart chopped cucumbers.
One pint chopped celery.
Three red peppers (hot).
Three green peppers (sweet).
Two quarts white vinegar.
One cup sugar.
Three tablespoons mustard.
Cook at simmering temperature for 30 minutes, then bring rapidly to boil and when it reaches the boiling point, pour at once into hot jars. Seal.

MARY CATHERINE McGOVERN,
314 Bingham street,
RICHMOND CORN

Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons minced onion.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
Two cups rich milk.
Three-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-sixth to teaspoon pepper.
Two cups cooked corn.
Six slices bacon.
One-half cup grated cheese.
Melt the butter, add onion and cook two or three minutes. Add flour and mix to a smooth paste. Mix in milk slowly, season with salt and pepper and cook until smooth as thick. Add corn and let simmer, stirring frequently. Make rind of the bread and place on a heat-proof platter. Cover with the corn mixture and sprinkle the cheese on top. Put under the flaming broiler until a golden brown. Cut bacon serving surround with open bacon.

SADIE HARRIS,
314 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon.
FILIPINO SPECIALTY

One pound pork chops, separated. Cut in cubes and saute until brown.
Two cups rich milk.
Three-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-sixth to teaspoon pepper.
Two cups cooked corn.
Six slices bacon.
Two cups cooked rice.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons minced onion.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
Two cups rich milk.
One-half cup grated cheese.
Cook bacon until crisp, remove from pan, crumble and add to corn. Add onion and saute until brown. Add flour and mix to a smooth paste. Mix in milk slowly, season with salt and pepper and cook until smooth as thick. Add corn and let simmer, stirring frequently. Make rind of the bread and place on a heat-proof platter. Cover with the corn mixture and sprinkle the cheese on top. Put under the flaming broiler until a golden brown. Cut bacon serving surround with open bacon.

MRS. ARTHUR COURNOYER,
Third Street, West Newton.
CHOCOLATE PRUNE CAKE

Two cups cooked prunes.
Two-thirds cup shortening.
One and one-half cups granulated sugar.
Two squares bitter chocolate.
Two eggs, well beaten.
Two and three-quarters cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One cup chopped nuts.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon soda.
One cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Cut prunes into small pieces. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Melt chocolate over hot water and add to creamed mixture. Mix well. Add beaten egg and mix again with the milk, a small amount at a time, and prunes and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Pour into three greased layer cake tins and bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Put layers together and cover top and sides with chocolate butter frosting. Serves 12.

MRS. EUGENE SAUPE,
132 Avenue F, Forest Hills.
BAVARIN.

Dissolve one cake yeast in one-half cup boiled, cooled milk, add one-half cup flour and two tablespoons sugar and beat well. Cover and set aside in warm place free from draft for 15 minutes. Then add one and one-half cups sifted flour and one cup mashed potatoes that have been cooled. Add two tablespoons melted fat, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup sugar and three-quarter cup potato water. Knead 10 minutes on floured board, roll out and put in pan to raise again until double in bulk. Bake 45 minutes in moderate oven. Top with whipped cream and serve with rum sauce.

RUM SAUCE

Boil to a syrup one cup sugar and one-half cup water about four minutes. Then add two tablespoons rum flavoring.

JAILED IN LONG ESTATE FIGHT

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Climaxing a long series of legal actions and counteractions, O. Otto Donley, businessman of Morgantown, W. Va., is in the Greene County jail on a charge of embezzling $80,000 worth of Liberty bonds from an uncle's estate.

The uncle, James F. Donley, a school teacher in Dunkard Township, Greene County, died four years ago, and the Morgantown man was named executor of the estate.

Donley was indicted two years ago by a Greene County jury, but efforts to extradite him failed.

He was brought into Pennsylvania yesterday after Gov. H. G. Kump, of West Virginia, signed extradition papers prepared on charges that Donley was unable to account for $13,884 worth of other personal property which was part of the estate.

The charges against Donley were filed by other heirs of the uncle.

STATE WARS ON 'CHARTERED CLUB RACKET' HERE

NEW U. S. HOME LOAN OFFICE SET HERE

Application for Local Association Among First Six Filed

First actual advance here in the President's move to encourage new home building became known today with the announcement the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pittsburgh will open within a few days at 323 Fourth avenue.

Application for the local institution was among the first six filed with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Simultaneous with the setting up of the new lending association, it was learned in Washington that rules governing participation of national and industrial banks, finance companies and state banks and trust companies in the federal home modernization program were in the mails.

Instructions were being sent to 18,000 lending institutions. Lending companies in Pennsylvania complying with the regulations may join in the drive and become eligible for government insurance of their modernization loans up to 20 per cent.

INSURED BY U. S.

Headed by Robert Jones, for 10 years identified with home financing institutions in Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh association is prepared to lend up to 75 per cent of the appraised value to home purchasers and home builders within 50 miles of Pittsburgh. The maximum of any individual loan is $20,000.

This new type of lending setup resembles a building and loan association, except that it is sponsored and supervised by the government.

It was also required to become a member of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, under the new national housing act. This provision insures the accounts of members up to $5,000.

Besides receiving funds from its members who subscribe for shares, the association has two other possible avenues of expending its capital, according to Jones.

SUBSCRIBE FOR SHARES

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to subscribe for shares in such associations up to 75 per cent of the paid capital. Also, the association is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, which serves as a central bank to rediscount mortgages and release more cash.

Assuming that John Smith wants to build a house, which, with the lot, will cost $5,000, he must have at least $1,250, or 25 per cent of that amount in cash before he can obtain aid from the Federal Savings and Loan Association.

John Smith could then be given 16 years in which to pay off his loan from the savings association, with 6 per cent interest. To do this would require approximately $8 for every thousand dollars borrowed.

TO BOSS CONSTRUCTION

But John Smith will not receive his loan in cash. His own $1,250 in cash and the amount of his mortgage will be paid by the association direct to the contractor and material people, after inspection and approval of the work by the association's engineer.

The association will supervise the construction from start to finish to protect Smith's interests.

The association also will pay John Smith's property tax and include it in his monthly payments, President Jones explained.

Other officers of the association include Joseph J. Vigneau, associated with the printing and publishing business, vice president; Edward M. Seibert, a banker, secretary and treasurer, and Samuel M. Jackson, attorney.

The board of directors includes, besides the officers, E. A. Bowles, president of the Iron City Sash and Door Company; William H. Burchfield, vice president, the Joseph Horne Company; F. J. Chesterman, vice president and general manager, Bell Telephone Company; B. W. Kerr, president of the Railway and Industrial Engineering Company, Greensburg, Pa., and J. Lloyd Mahony, director of the Downtown Division, University of Pittsburgh.

2 Revolts Add To Thrills of Girl's Trip

MISS ELINOR KUTCHKA

Finds Berlin Gay, but Austria Dejected And Restless

A Wilkinsburg girl who was "on the spot" in Germany and Austria, when Hitler crushed the Storm Troop revolt and a Nazi uprising brought death to Chancellor Dollfuss, returned home to find that her friends knew more about these stirring events than she, she said today.

She is Elinor Kutchka, of 609 Whitney avenue. For the past two months, she and her father, K. G. Kutchka, have visited relatives in Europe. She explains that German and Austrian newspapers had little news concerning any of these happenings.

Berlin and Germany she found seemingly contented and gay. But Austria, she says, appears to be a country beaten to its knees. It was her impression there that the people are anxious for a change of government. Many display the Nazi swastika secretly in their homes, she says, and avow their desire to join Germany.

A performance of the famous Oberammergau Passion Play was the highlight of her tour. Expecting an amateur production, she was surprised when she saw polished and accomplished acting.

CIVIL SERVICE CURBS POLICE HEADS

Power to Demote Men Restricted After Block's Plea

Suspension of Former Police Inspector Anthony Block, demoted to a sergeant in the general police shakeup last week, today was followed by an order from the Civil Service Commission ruling that hereafter the Public Safety Director and Police Superintendent cannot reduce the rank of police officers unless charges are preferred before the Police Trial Board.

This drastic order strips the heads of the police department of the power to demote policemen as was done in the shakeup of last week in which scores of police were reduced and transferred without action by the trial board.

ACTION APPEAL

The new order was disclosed by Acting Superintendent Jacob Dorsey following a conference he and Block had with Fred W. Miner and Walter O. Byer, members of the commission.

The two policemen appealed to the commission after it had announced Block's suspension from the department on grounds he was not eligible to be a sergeant because he had not taken a sergeant's examination.

Dorsey suggested that the commission then permit the appointment of Block as a patrolman after which he would be raised to a detective.

WEIGHS PROPOSAL

The commission said it would take this proposal under advisement until Monday, but meanwhile Block was to remain under suspension.

Under the new order promulgated by the commission, the heads of the police department may continue to make promotions and transfers, but will not be allowed to make demotions without formal charges against the officers involved.

Split Seconds Count in This Auto Trap

Constables of Mercer County, using a stop-watch to clock motorists over an eighth of a mile in Sheakleyville, have a "speed trap" in the heart of the town, the Pittsburgh Motor Club reported today.

The trap is on U. S. Route 19, which runs through Sheakleyville, and is the only "trap" reported to the club where a stop watch is being used.

With heavy traffic during vacation season causing a sharp upturn in the number of arrests, state highway patrolmen and local police at other points were enforcing observation of "stop" signs and speed limits on a dozen points on main highways in Western Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Chapin, Sewickley Socialite, Flies to Hollywood to Write Script

MRS. NEWTON CHAPIN . . . HOLLYWOOD-BOUND POST HASTE

Mrs. Chapin, the Sewickley society playwright, arriving in Hollywood today after a transcontinental flight from her vacation at Skowhegan, Me., at the urgent call of film studios. She's to dash out a scenario for a picture for Comedienne Mary Boland.

Quits Vacation to Pen Scenario for Mary Boland

Interrupting her vacation in Maine for a hasty flight across the continent, Mrs. Newton Chapin, Sewickley playwright and society leader, was to arrive in Hollywood today to begin writing a scenario for the Paramount Studios.

The well-known Pittsburgh woman was engaged by Paramount to write a play for Mary Boland, popular film star, whose comedy roles have made her one of the best-known actresses of the day.

Miss Boland

In an interview before beginning her journey, Mrs. Chapin, the former Anne Morrison, said:

"I don't know just what kind of a story they want me to prepare. I shall have to wait until I get to the coast before I learn whether it's to be a feature length or a short comedy."

Mrs. Chapin and her husband, a well-known Pittsburgh steel derrick manufacturer, were spending a vacation at Skowhegan, Me., when the "movies called." Leaving her husband in Maine, Mrs. Chapin went to New York and from there took a plane yesterday afternoon. She was to arrive on the coast today.

SCRIPT FOR NAGEL

Mrs. Chapin is the author of several plays and is not entirely new to writing for the screen. Last year she wrote an adaptation of "Dangerous Corners," a story by J. B. Priestly, English novelist. This adaption was for RKO studios and is now being produced. It will feature Conrad Nagel, Melvyn Douglas and Erin O'Brien Moore.

Mrs. Chapin hopes to be back in Sewickley by October 28, the date of the annual play of the Sewickley Cot Club. The production this year will be "Jonsey," a comedy adaptation by Mrs. Chapin of a series of stories by John P. Toowey in the Pictorial Review. The play enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway in 1929.

Born in Indiana, Mrs. Chapin spent most of her life in New York. She received her dramatic education at Sargent's, now the American Academy. Her first professional appearance was made opposite Warren William in a play given by a stock company connected with Sargent's. Later Selwyn's bought the play and produced it on Broadway. Mrs. Chapin had a minor part in the production, but when the leading lady became ill she played the star's role, both on Broadway and on the road.

IN BARRIE PLAY

Mrs. Chapin also played with Annette Goodman in "Why Marry," opposite William Gillette in Sir James Barrie's "Dear Brutus" and spent nearly three years in Mary Roberts Rinehart's "The Bat."

Her first Broadway-produced play was "The Wild Westcotts," in 1924, and the following year she produced "Pigs." In 1929 came "Jonesey," and last year she had produced "No Questions Asked."

Last winter Mrs. Chapin's play "Love Flies In the Window" was produced by RKO as "This Man Is Mine," starring Irene Dunne and Ralph Bellamy.

Mrs. Chapin was married in 1927 and has lived in Sewickley ever since. She has been active in Cot Club work and still goes to New York frequently. She has a son, "Jimmy," and two stepsons, Newton Jr. and John A. B. Chapin.

MOVES TO BAN LIQUOR SALES IN 14 PLACES

Court Asked to Revoke Licenses; Hearings Next Month

The state made its first definite move today against the "chartered club racket," when it filed revocation proceedings against 14 individuals and clubs, asking the court to revoke the liquor licenses.

Deputy Attorney General John M. Walker filed the actions in Quarter Sessions Court today before Judge Joseph R. Richardson and hearings will be held next month.

Deputy Walker said that he is asking for revocation of the liquor license because of alleged violations of the liquor law in each of the named establishments. He said that in addition to asking revocation of the license, he would ask forfeiture of each of the $2,000 bonds posted for each license. If the license is revoked and the bond forfeited, those named as holding the license can not apply for another license for five years.

CLUBS NAMED

Among the clubs named in the proceedings were the Tube City Athletic Club and the Order of Otters, both of McKeesport; the Lithuanian Citizens' Beneficial Association, 418 Penn avenue, downtown; the Cardinals Club, 2102 Broadway, Beechview; the Native Sons of Pennsylvania, 17 Steuben street, West End; the St. Nicholas Greek Catholic Society, 2903 Preble avenue; the Modern Benevolent Association, 2325 Arlington avenue, and the Modern Benevolent Association, 1301 Carson street.

Attorney Walker was unable to state whether there is any connection between the last two clubs, although they have the same name.

In addition to the clubs mentioned, Deputy Attorney Walker also asked that the liquor licenses be taken away from the Jerome Hotel, McKeesport; from Frank LaCante, operator of the Elm Restaurant, Elm street; the Round Corner Hotel, 3718 Butler street; the Oakview Hotel, North Versailles Township; Kate Bernardo, operator of a restaurant in Clairton, and from Joseph Van Gysel, operator of the Golden Villa on Noblestown road.

VIOLATIONS CHARGED

The cause for the revocation, Deputy Walker said, is because alleged violations of the liquor laws have occurred in each establishment.

Walker declared that most of the clubs named have charters. He stated a check would be made of the charters to determine how they were obtained and whether they are legitimate. He declared that many clubs in the county are operating on copies of charters and that more than one drinking establishment may have copies of the same charter hanging over the bar.

The revocation proceedings were filed for either one of three reasons, Walker said. They are: Charter obtained by fraud; sale of illegal liquor, and selling liquor to non-members.

Judge Richardson set September 10 for hearings on the Native Sons of Pennsylvania, the Cardinals Club, the Order of Otters, the Lithuanian Citizens' Beneficial Association, the two Modern Beneficial Associations and the Golden Villa. The others will have hearings on September 24.

Overbrook Socialists To Hear Lecturer

Mrs. Mary B. Lehner, Socialist candidate for Legislature, will preside at a meeting sponsored by the Overbrook Socialist Club in the German Club, Underwood street, at 8:30 p. m. today. Lena Morrow Lewis, who is making a nation-wide lecture tour, will be the principal speaker.

Firemen Don Masks To Battle $2,000 Fire

North Side firemen were forced to use smoke masks to extinguish a fire in the May-Stern Company warehouse, Hope and East Lacock streets, late yesterday. Traffic in the neighborhood was halted more than an hour. Battalion Chief Alexander Reed estimated the damage at $2,000.

WAITS VERDICT ON SHOOTING

Nobody knew whose move it was today in the case against Patrolman Marion Chapman, of the South Side Police Station, accused of shooting Edward Bosmowsky, 19, of 2100 Jane street, last July 9.

Claiming he was attacked by a gang of street loafers, Officer Chapman appeared against Bosmowsky in Central Police Court two weeks ago. Testimony to show the officer was not attacked and that he had shot the youth without cause led Magistrate J. W. McGowan to reserve his decision pending the outcome of charges preferred against the officer before Alderman A. M. Maloney.

Munro, Celebrated Historian, Dies

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Wilfred Harold Munro, 84, professor emeritus at Brown University and a distinguished historian of national standing, died today.

PISTOL 'BALKS,' OFFICER SAVED

Off duty and unarmed, Patrolman Francis Loughran, of the Braddock Police Department, today faced a youth armed with a revolver and stood by helpless while the youth attempted three times to shoot him.

After the third attempt had failed to discharge the revolver, the youth fled but was arrested later, police say, a half-mile away from where Loughran had first encountered him. The suspect said he was John McGuire, 22, of 200 Versailles avenue, East Pittsburgh.

Patrolman Loughran said he noticed McGuire talking to several children and that McGuire had invited several of the small girls to accompany him for a walk. Loughran approached and attempted to arrest McGuire, who then, police say, drew a revolver and backed away, snapping the trigger three times.

Police say they arrested McGuire in North Braddock, but he did not have a revolver. Police say McGuire admitted he had thrown the gun away, but later changed his story to say he had given it to a boy.

Jurors Summoned For Federal Court

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker signed an order yesterday summoning 23 grand jurors and 125 petit jurors for the September term of the United States District Court at Erie. The court will convene September 17.

Parks Butt of Politics, Declares Johnston

Charging that a political system is responsible for the bad condition of the city parks, playgrounds and the Highland Park Zoo, Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston has predicted improved conditions under the McNair administration.

Director Johnston in a radio address last night described the parks as desecrated and defiled places unsafe for women in broad daylight. The playgrounds, he said, are bare and dirty and stripped of much equipment by vandals. He said:

"Our zoo is a morgue, and a joke to every intelligent citizen."

And the cause of it all, according to Johnston is the political system the taxpayers threw out last November.

He lauded Mayor McNair as the man who is making a program of improvement possible.

'Kid' Dugan Wants to Box Cop Who Jailed Him

Kid Dugan, prize fighter, recently freed by Mayor McNair after he was arrested on charge of violating a city ordinance for selling goods which he should not sell, wants to boost the police pension fund by putting on a bout with the cop who arrested him.

Pouring out a flood of gratitude in a letter to the Mayor, Kid Dugan describes the spectacle which will ensue if he and the arresting officer, one Edward Sullivan, ever get in the ring together.

Says the Kid:

"I just thought of a swell idea. That cop—who thought it was a great accomplishment by bringing in the notorious Kid Dugan to the hoosegow to spend the evening with intoxicated gentlemen as environment, would please me to have him stand in front of me for about three minutes, because that is all he would last.

"The boxing lesson I will give him will do him good on his beat—that is if my good work will penetrate through his ever so thick cranium. I will donote my end of the purse of winner take all to the policemen's fund. And I'll scrap either with leather or bare knuckles, which ever he prefers to be knocked around with."

As yet, the Mayor and Officer Sullivan are unaware of Kid Dugan's challenge, and the money-making possibilities of this battle may be lost forever should the letter continue to lie on a secretary's desk where it was last seen.

NEW Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The summer season has proved the continental idea of dining al fresco has taken firm root. The sidewalk cafe is here to stay. More than 15 years ago, uptown Bustanoby's, the place of the moment, tried out pavement tables and a ladies' bar. They expired with a quick gurgle.

Other sporadic efforts died a-borning. A lone exception was the terrasse of the Cafe Royal on the Ghetto's Champs Elysees, Second avenue, running for 18 years. The mid-town pathfinder for the present plethora was Chatham Walk. The St. Moritz opened its replica of the Cafe de la Paix. Another burgeoned at the Park Lane.

Now they are everywhere. The last blocks of Fifth avenue running into Washington Arch is an awninged fling transplanted from Montparnasse. The Brevoort, No. 1, Fifth avenue, the Fifth Avenue Hotel, a corner drug store and several other buildings are open for pavement patrons. Each table is city taxed $10 a year.

Up on Broadway, near the Winter Garden, Bennie Ueberall has torn out several building fronts to start the White Way fever. The town has taken to leisurely sipping under candy-striped umbrellas with a bang. A bugaboo is a sudden dinner hour shower with surprised waiters holding unpaid checks.

"Prince" Mike Romanoff, pitchforked out of the Ghetto to the uptown roar, was one of the most conspicuous sidewalk sitters until accepting a master of ceremony post at a rowdy-dowdy. He moved from cafe to cafe knowing that along the line he would be called to a table or so to deliver his amusing Oxonian rigamarole and enjoy a few free libations. The "Prince" sports his sham with bantering bravado. Nothing deflates him and he submits to the easy scoffing with rare grace so long as he is not handed a check.

Among Broadway cadgers of early New York days was Pop Corn Bill, a sort of cartoon Dinty Moore with checkered vest and bowler derby come to life. He was a free lunch snaffler and death to bowls of popcorn that frescoed bars, hence the moniker. It was a serene boast he had never purchased a drink. But, so amiable and joyous his trigger repartee, he was welcome everywhere. Paul Armstrong regarded his as a jester second only to Wilson Mizner.

In that era the fumaroles of the sports were bars of the Martinique, Doyle's, Marlborough and Considine's. They gathered at 4 in the afternoon and it was genial touch and go until the evening lamps came on. The great story tellers of the era were Mizner Irvin Cobb, Bozeman Bulger, Rennold Wolfe, Kyrle Bellew and Scamp Montgomery.

Cobb and Bulger always placed Dave Montgomery's brother, Scamp, at the top of the list of fastworking wits of the period. He had, like Frisco, the more modern funster, a slight impediment and his blurts were mostly ribald but every now and then one is revived and Broadway passes it along as something brand new. It was Scamp who coined the phrases, "He can't take it!", and "So what?" Yet in the usual Broadway fashion they are claimed by the phoneys as of recent vintage.

The fact is, nearly all slang is revival. There are few smart sayings that will not be found variants of something George Ade turned out in his immortal fables 30 years ago. Eustace, one of his small town mandolin players, had the "jitters." Another character was "sittin' pritty" and so on to the Custom Place drug clerk who drawled a lazy "O, yeah!" W. E. Kountze, Jr., under the nom de fantasie, Billy Baxter, also spawned slang 25 years ago that was in a sophisticated revue of the current year.

Thingumabobs: Tommy Manville never keeps a new automobile more than two months . . . Frazier Hunt is Helen Keller's favorite story seller . . . Joseph V. McKee is a push-over for circuses . . . Jose Iturbe's young daughter always accompanies him on concert tours . . . San Sebastian now has an Ernest Hemingway Cafe . . . The late Victor Herbert liked French mustard with his breakfast eggs . . . When George M. Cohan goes to the play, he sits in the last row.

* * *

From a Broadway column: "O. O. McIntyre, sporting an oxblood shirt with collar to match and a white four in hand, arrived at the Dempsey party very late but seemingly unruffled.

Don't be silly! They shot at me twice on the way.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Girl Protests Rival's Telephone Calls

Imagine a girl CALLING a fellow by telephone for a DATE. That is the vociferous complaint brought to me by True Blue Blonde.

Imagine her doing such a thing, and as her only means whereby she can get him to her home and fireside.

I can imagine the situation easily, True Blue Blonde. In fact day in and day out and far into the eventide, is such practice common . . . Many a goodly HE-MAN is caught thereby. And all because some girl suffered from TELEPHONITIS . . . And especially did she use a humble and pleading voice . . .

Miss Brunot

So remember, sister, no matter how attractive and how well dressed you are, and although you may now be ace high in the young man's heart, the day may come when the other girl will get her man . . .

There can be such a thing as carrying your DESIRES too plainly on your SLEEVE. But again there can be too much reserve brought about by being too proud . . . This may prove to be excellent grist for the OTHER GIRL'S MILL.

TOO MUCH FOR GRANTED

This fellow keeps telling you, you are the one for whom he cares, and you are all elated at his assertions . . . You take too much for granted, maybe . . . He says that when the other girl calls him up he even is rude to her. But that she pleads so violently that to get rid of her he goes around and spends the evening with her . . . Queer argument, sister!

Also you hear from your friends who know her as well as you, that when he and she are at a party together, she RAZZES him OPENLY about you . . . And don't please, let any GRASS GROW UNDER YOUR FEET before you stop this. If a man is of a vacillating nature, nothing gets him so riled as being RAZZED and PUBLICLY. He'll quit DEAD before he will endure it.

And on that day, your rival will have WON OUT.

DANCE INVITATION

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have known a young man and admired him for over a year, but have never had a date with him . . . Very soon there is to be a dance and as I always run around with my sister and her boy friend, they will be at it. Would it be all right for me to take this fellow with me, and for me to ask him. Or should I have my sister's boy friend extend the invitation?

PUZZLED.

Have your sister's boy friend invite him . . . that will work out beautifully, no doubt . . .

TELLTALE POSTSCRIPT

"I am sure I have never done anything unbecoming to a girl of my age," writes Toots, and in her P. S. It is funny how a postscript always hits the nail on the head . . . Toots is a sister who isn't going to make mistakes easily . . . no-sir-ee . .

She says she has a boy friend whom she likes very much. He has been calling on her since last November . . . They have gone out together and have had very good times. Lately, however, he has taken to BOASTING. He revels in telling TOOTS of his other girls and how they run after him. And this hasn't made the impression on TOOTS he has anticipated.

Instead, she is all up in arms, and doesn't admire him at all for his promiscuous goings-around . . . You are right, TOOTS. A man who tells about one girl will tell about another. A man, who like the proverbial sailor, has a girl in every port, isn't much pickings.

However, sister, maybe some of this talk of your boy friend's has been exaggeration . . . Maybe he has not won you and wants to prove to you he is some fine man . . . He may be a timid soul, at heart . . . and only boasts to boost himself . . . Find out for sure, before you chuck him.

To 'GIRL SHY'

Dear Miss Brunot:

Recently I have read a letter in your Speak Up Sisters column, and feel sure I am the girl meant . . . The fellow said he wasn't at all GIRL SHY, as I had accused him of being. But that he was just a FLIRT. I am still doubtful of that. He said our parting was SILLY. I can't agree. He signed himself, Still Hopeful.

And I sign myself, Doubtful.

He may have been right about the parting, sister. Many partings are silly. But we don't see that they are until much later on. No man is going to admit himself girl-shy . . . And maybe this fellow hides in a flirtatious mask in order to keep his real self hidden.

He may be seen as he is more plainly by you, than by himself . . . The fact that he is STILL HOPEFUL puts some real color in the situation for you . . . Chances are, if he's the one suspected, he'll be trotting around to your Mission Swing before autumn . . . Maybe after all you are on the wrong scent. Many similar circumstances confronts me in this department . . .

DIFFERENT RELIGION

Dear Miss Brunot:

Just another girl of 17. Have been going with a fellow 21, and my trouble is, he is of a different religion. My mother is constantly reminding me of this and saying he and I can never be happy together. He is nicer than the boy mother has for me. He says he cares for me. Do you think religion makes a difference, Miss Brunot? MAE

My dear Mae, it all depends how seriously you take your religion. If religion stands to you for one creed, and one only, then marrying someone of another faith, especially if he is stubborn and will not change to your beliefs, means nothing but trouble . . .

Our spiritual hopes are deeply rooted within us . . . They are something that not even a genuine earthly love can alter . . . When one is a person with such a background, then it never is wise to go against one's faith, even for anything so vital as marriage . . . Wait a while before doing anything you may regret Mae.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

TIME WILL PUNISH THOSE WHO FLAUNT WIFE'S LOVE, SAYS FAY KING

By FAY KING.

Not long ago we were all greatly shocked to read of a poor, heart-broken woman who grasped her two children in her arms and leaped from a high window.

Recently divorced, her husband had remarried. That was more than this poor young mother could endure.

But if she had only struggled on, life could have held much happiness for her still. The lives and devotion of her dear children would have rewarded her courage and patience.

Fortunately few wives have taken a like sorrow so hopelessly Also the victims of selfish, fickle husbands and ruthless husband snatchers, they have lived—lived to see the unfailing law of compensation punish more surely and severely than legal justice which is often too lenient with the guilty.

SHEER NIGHTGOWNS IN GAY COLORS

By PRUNELLA WOOD.

TRICK nightgowns that seem to make hot nights a bit cooler are easy to find in the shops these days, and there is many a girl who sees to it that she has one for the week-end overnight bag or just for Sunday morning paper reading and lazing at home. Grand colors, all flower-like and refreshing, abound in these models which are made of chiffon, onion, or georgette sheer. They require expert laundering, but the secret of that is care in choosing the soap, and more care in ironing, which should be done when the gown is still damp. It is also important never to roll up a colored trimmed gown while it is damp, for the colors may run.

This is the time of year to go giddy in small matters, just to relax a bit. So you can find such luscious shades as rose and fuchsia combined in lingerie, or floral prints of exotic contrast making whole sets of underwear, or sheer black sets appliqued with shadow lace and threaded with silly pink and blue ribbons. It's fun, and not expensive, as a shopping adventure.

PERIOD INFLUENCES style nightgowns as well as our other apparel; we are enjoying a revival of the Empire days in the gowns of the moment, with the difference that we are covering up the shoulders a bit with graceful berthas, capelets and even puffed sleeves.

But the main lines of the newest gowns show a high waistline beneath the bust, and a V neckline back and front. Long ribbon sashes, often in some brilliant color, decorate many of the models and there is a lot of fine ruffling detailing bodices and skirt hems. Little rows of net ruching in pastel tints provide the fluffy ruffle decor in some of the prettiest gowns; colored fagoting or inserted lace supplies a similar touch to more tailored gowns.

Colored gowns are awfully pretty additions to trousseaux, and the September brides are finding many which come ensembled with jaunty, beruffled little bed jackets, just the thing for morning coffee.

Contract Bridge :: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Highway Robbery

Nowadays there seems to be a premium on normality, but the definition of normality seems to have changed. To be normal, which used to mean simply to be like almost everybody else—a member of the majority—now apparently means to be different, for it seems that according to the definition of some of our modern psychologists virtually nobody is normal. Normal behavior is the behavior that best fits the situation.

Mrs. Culbertson

If this interpretation is correct, I am all for normality in Bridge—that is, for fitting the play to the actual situation rather than to a preconceived and superficial idea of what to do when you have certain cards in the two hands you can see. To take a finesse merely because you have a tenace is not only abnormal according to the best modern standards—it is also stupid. Any other play which offers a chance of making the contract is preferable, however unusual. One of the most unusual I have seen recently was made in the following hand:

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ K 10 6 3 ♡ Q J ◇ A 6 5 ♣ A Q 5 3
♠ 5 ♡ A 7 6 3 ◇ J 9 7 4 2 ♣ 7 6 4	North West East South	♠ A 4 ♡ 10 9 8 4 ◇ K Q 10 ♣ K 10 9 2
	♠ Q J 9 8 7 2 ♡ K 5 2 ◇ 8 3 ♣ J 8

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 NT	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding needs no comment except that perhaps North should have raised the spades to four and not placed too much of the bidding burden on the South player. After his partner's notrump bid, West decided he could not lose anything by opening the heart Ace. When East played a low card—a negative signal—West made his best shift, the four of diamonds. South went up with the Ace in Dummy and now stopped to size up the situation. He knew he had to lose a diamond trick and of course the Ace of trumps was still out.

From East's notrump bid, he also knew that the club finesse was pretty hopeless. He saw a ray of hope, however. He returned to his own hand by overtaking Dummy's heart Queen with his own King and then led his Eight of clubs, going up with the Ace in Dummy, and promptly returned a low card in that suit. East of course was completely on the spot.

He was aware of the possibility that South might be making a tricky play, but he could not be certain that South did not have a singleton club and was not trying to set up a discard by ruffing out the King.

He was aware of the possibility that if he went up with the club King and South trumped, South could re-enter the Dummy by trumping a low heart and get a discard for his losing diamond before losing a trick to the spade Ace.

With no absolutely sure way of telling, East decided to duck the club and play his partner for the Jack. South, of course, triumphantly won the trick with the Jack in his own hand and was then able to claim four-odd, merely conceding the top trump to the opponents.

I must admit that the opportunity to make the type of play which South got away with arises very infrequently and even though the opportunity is there, good analysis by the defense will doom the play to failure at least half the time. But at any rate it worked this time.

TOMORROW'S HAND

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A J 9 ♡ A Q 9 8 7 6 ◇ 10 9 ♣ 1 4
♠ 5 4 3 2 ♡ 5 ◇ J 3 2 ♣ K 8 7 6 5	North West East South	♠ Q 8 7 ♡ K J 10 4 ◇ Q 8 7 ♣ Q 3 2
	♠ K 10 6 ♡ 3 2 ◇ A K 6 5 4 ♣ A 10 9

This hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Given in Marriage -:- A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Troopers Find Bound Chinese

There was something so primitive, so sincere in Otto's defense of his master's property, that I think for the first time the state troopers began to entertain a tiny doubt of the premise upon which they were basing their conduct—the hypothesis that we were rum runners, and that the Veritzen limousine was fitted up with secret compartments.

But, of course, they would not admit it. Only the expression of their eyes told me that they were not as sure of their ground as they had been. And if I were not possessed of exceptionally good hearing I would not have caught a fragment from a question Jimmy asked his colleague.

"Sure — the right dope?" he asked. I did not catch the answer, although I strained my ears to the utmost in the effort to find out if the other trooper, too, were weakening in his opinion.

TURN TOWARD CAR

The next second they turned toward the car again with an air of determination, and I glanced covertly at Otto, for fear he might "go berserk" if they laid careless, irreverent hands upon the gleaming mechanism the care of which was almost a religion to him.

But Otto had shot his bolt in that one wild anathema. Patently the fear of constituted authority, ingrained into his very flesh and bone from infancy, had triumphed over his wrath.

Queerly enough, the officers took no notice of his tirade, as they had of Ronald's defiance.

The next instant, as they swung wide the car door, they looked at each other in patent amazement.

"Holy mackerel and all the other sea food!" Jimmy exclaimed. "Did you ever see such a pile of suitcases and traps in your life?"

"Say!" the other contributed. "These must have been in the car when we passed it, while the old dodo was gathering the autumn leaves for sister, here. Say, sister, where did you park your feet? Suppose one of these had dropped over on your toes!"

Jimmy reached in and lifted one of the larger suitcases, putting so much effort into what he evidently thought would be an arduous task that he almost overbalanced.

"For the love of hamburger mit," he adjured his colleague, "what do you know about this? The thing's empty!"

"Try the others," the taller man said laconically, obeying his own suggestion, and lifting another empty suitcase from the tonneau.

"This is getting interesting," Jimmy commented, diving into the tonneau after the other cases. I found myself breathing rapidly as they reached the blankets and pillows. One jerk at these, and they would discover the Chinese beneath the blankets. And I had no idea what catastrophe might result from such a discovery.

DISCOVERY A RELIEF

But, like many other anticipated evils, I found its actual elimination a relief, because of the cessation of suspense. And when Jimmy, blanket in hand, stood as if petrified for an instant, and then called out, "Look at this if you want to see something that beats the hot place," I actually gave a little sigh of relief that the suspense was over and the discovery we had so dreaded was made.

But to the troopers the discovery was palpably of much more moment than the discovery of a thousand bottles of liquor would have been. They looked at each other and then, as with one accord, laid hold upon the gagged and bound Chinese and tried to pull them from the car.

But they reckoned without the thorough job of lashing to the car which the boys had done, and after a couple of efforts they desisted, and one of them took out a clasp knife.

"We'll just cut 'em loose, take out the gags and see what they have to say," he said.

"No, no!" I cried involuntarily. "You don't know what you're doing."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Church Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married next month—I hope with a church ceremony. Some of my friends say that it is not correct for me to have a formal church wedding inasmuch as my mother and father will not be present, as they live abroad, and it will be impossible for them to be here. My sister and her husband will be giving the reception and my oldest brother will be "giving me away," and I cannot see that I would be in the wrong. However, as so many seem to think it is wrong. I will be grateful for your advice.

M.

Of course, it isn't incorrect for you to have a church wedding. The fact that your parents live abroad and will not be able to come to your wedding does not mean that you cannot or should not have a church wedding. By all means do plan to have your wedding in church.

Selecting the Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if it is improper for a girl to pick out her own engagement ring, or have her boy friend pick it out?

Some say it is bad luck if a girl chooses her own engagement ring. Is that so? V.

There isn't any question of good or bad luck about this choosing of an engagement ring . . . that is an absurd point of view . . . but there IS a question of common sense. It is such a sensible thing for the fiance and the fiancee to go together to choose the engagement ring that this is wisely, just what is usually done nowadays.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Keeping finger nails in apple pie order isn't enough; hands must be satin smooth. That condition results from daily care. Though hands are seldom rough in the silly season — perspiration keeps them from taking on the nutmeg grater surface—they need the soothing lotion once a day and an occasional oily massage at night.

It seems too bad to destroy a perfectly good finger wave, but it is a fact that hair should be shampooed every two weeks. Especially in the summer season when perspiration deposits offensive debris upon the scalp. After swimming in salt water, don't fail to rinse the hair with fresh water. Salt eats into the delicate shafts.

Twice a day the eyes should be laved first with warm water, then with cold. In the morning to remove the secretions that have collected during sleep at night to wash dust from the lids. Use the washcloth lightly. Pressure upon the eyeball even with a cloth can — like rubbing — injure the delicate optical mechanism.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

A real separation is effected between cigarets and makeup by a new case. The cigaret case is on one side, and a mirror with a lock makes a partition for the other side of the case, which holds powder, rouge and lipstick.

A set custom that should be popular this autumn is the fur cape with matching hat. Such a set is done in black Persian lamb with the cape closing to one side high on the neck, with a jeweled button. The hat is on the Cossack cap design.

Right into trunk goes one of the smart little suits of gingham that are so useful. A nice model is in black and white check gingham with patch pockets and front buttons of white. Nice worn with a white linen blouse and a white hat with a black belting band.

In Mayfair

There'll be a wedding in the James Edward Lewis family of Fox Chapel, next month.

Barbara McDonnell, whose parents, the Henry E. McDonnells, of Steubenville, O., recently announced her engagement to James Edward Lewis, Jr., son of the James Edward Lewises, has named her wedding date.

The marriage is to take place Tuesday, September 11, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the home of the bride's parents. Only members of the two families and a few friends will attend.

MRS. WALLACE H. JOHNSTON

Mrs. Johnston, the former Miss Mary Priscilla Burnett, daughter of the L. H. Burnetts of King Edward apartments, pictured in her wedding gown after her wedding at the family's Sea Girt (N. J.) summer, seaside home. This is a Kurkjian picture.

Mrs. Samuel Y. Ramage III, of Oil City, at whose wedding Barbara was a bridesmaid, will be her matron of honor and only attendant.

Jack Currier Lewis will be his brother's best man.

Southampton Horse Show Will Attract Many

With nine-tenths of the fashionable population out of town—or at least nine-tenths of the women — it's no wonder that most of the news of the day is about what's going on at resorts.

A resort event which will attract many nearby resorters Saturday will be the sixth annual horse show of the Southampton Riding and Hunt Club Saturday on the club grounds.

Byron C. Foy is chairman of the program committee. And he and Mrs. Foy will be hosts at their villa to Pittsburgher Richard K. Mellon for the week-end. Mr. Mellon will be a judge of hunters and jumpers at the show.

Also judging hunters and jumpers at the show will be Thomas W. Durant, who, with Mrs. Durant, will be guests of the John F. Murrays at their seaside estate, Lighthouse farm.

Harry Darlington III Entertains Friends at Watch Hill, R. I.

The 80-foot yacht Ardea, owned by the late Harry Darlington, Jr., of Sewickley, according to our correspondent, is in Little Narragansett Bay with its new owners, the William Harknesses, of New York.

Young Harry Darlington III, son of Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., who with her family is summering at Watch Hill, R. I., entertained a group of his young friends at dinner at the resort recently.

His guests were May Stillwell, of Chicago, who's visiting Mrs. Louis D. Koven Phelps, of Chicago; Hubbard Phelps, Charles Lamb, of Weekapaugh; John Robinson, of Hartford, and Louise Atwood and Sylvia Conant, both of Providence, and Louise Myers, of Washington.

Parents Announce Engagement of Miss Jean Swan Hill

From the East comes news of the betrothal of the daughter of former Pittsburghers.

The E. Rowland Hills, of East Orange, N. J., formerly of Pittsburgh, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jean Swan Hill, to Ernest Clayton Johnson, Jr., son of Mrs. Ernest C. Johnson, also of East Orange, and of the late Mr. Johnson.

Jean was graduated from Cornell University and her fiance from the University of Illinois and the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale. He's a member of Phi Delta Theta and Theta Tau fraternities. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

MISS BOYD, DAUGHTER OF THE MARCUS BOYDS OF CORAOPOLIS HEIGHTS, AT HIGHLAND COUNTRY CLUB . . . CHOOSING SCHOOL TO DEBUTANTEHOOD

Edna A. Fallert, W. J. Mangan Married

St. Wendelin's Church, Carrick, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding this morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Edna A. Fallert became the bride of William J. Mangan.

Pink and yellow roses and pink and yellow gladioli with ferns decorated the altar, lighted by many Cathedral tapers. The Rev. Julius Utecht was the officiant.

The bride, who is a daughter of Mrs. H. C. Salzman, of Carrick, appeared in a shell pink lace gown and shell pink crepe brimless hat with a shell pink veil reaching to the waistline. She carried Johanna Hill roses.

Her sister, Naoma Fallert, as her only attendant, wore yellow silk net with a yellow organdie picture hat and yellow organdie gloves. She carried Talisman roses.

John Welsh was best man.

A reception and wedding breakfast in the South Hills Country Club followed. After a fortnight honeymoon in Atlantic City, Mr. Mangan and his bride will be at home in the Berg apartments, Carrick.

Mr. Mangan is a brother of Mrs. J. P. Lally, of Mt. Lebanon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Affelder and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Davis and Ralph Davis, Jr., have arrived at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Dougal Visit New York

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Dougal and Mrs. Jean M. McDowell have been at the Waldorf-Atoria, New York.

Miss Edna Ling, J. A. Adams Married

A French teacher of the Carnegie High School, Miss Edna May Ling, and the athletic director and coach of the same school, J. Arthur Adams, were married Tuesday evening in the home of the Rev. E. Wilson Kelley, Berkshire avenue, Brookline.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Anderson, of Baum boulevard, East End. She holds a master of arts degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

She belongs to three fraternities —Alpha X Delta, Sigma Kappa Phi and Pi Lambda Theta.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ursinus College and also holds a master of arts degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

After a motor trip, Mr. Adams and his bride will be at home in Carnegie.

Order of Amaranth Party on Monday

Mrs. Hannah Adams is royal matron of Schenley Court No. 24, Order of the Amaranth, and will be hostess with the past and present royal patrons at the card and bridge party to be given Monday evening, August 13. It will take place in Serbian Hall, Fifth avenue, Oakland.

DeMolay Alumni Dance August 17

The DeMolay Alumni will have a night at the Pines, Perry Highway, August 17. This dance is the third and last of the summer series.

In charge will be C. S. Selby, Neal Anderson, Tom Kinser, Bill Ross and Jack Dill.

Miss McMurray to Wed Elmer Kidney

When Miss Charlotte McMurray and Elmer Kidney return from their brief wedding trip after their marriage August 30, they will go to their house—a duplex in 8906 Upland Terrace, Eastwood Farms, which is already furnished and ready for housekeeping.

Miss McMurray is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McMurray, of Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, and Mr. Kidney is the son of Mrs. Ella Kidney, of Amberson avenue.

Their marriage will take place at 8:30 o'clock the evening of August 30 in the Second United Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Dr. Harold McConnell as officiant.

Because of the wide acquaintance of the members of the families, no invitations will be issued. But friends are expected to come.

The bride-to-be has asked her sister, Mrs. Wallace J. Baker, of Cleveland, O., to be matron of honor and Miss Esther Wilt to be maid of honor. Miss Thelma and Miss Ruth Kidney, sisters of the bridegroom-elect, will be bridesmaids.

There'll be a flower girl—Frances Baker, little daughter of the matron of honor.

William Bonesteel will be best man and Ebbert Nowry, Harvey Salt and Wallace J. Baker will be ushers.

A small reception in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel will follow. The bride and bridegroom expect to be at home after September 6 following a short motor trip.

Both are graduates of the University of Pittsburgh; the former is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority; the latter of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

To play the organ music for the wedding, Miss Eleanor Rodgers will return from a summer in Europe. James Holland, who was a member of Cap and Gown during his University of Pittsburgh college days, will sing.

Lena M. Lewis Guild Speaker

Lena Morrow Lewis, of San Francisco, Cal., will discuss "The New Deal of the Democratic Party vs. the New Deal in the Socialist Party" when she speaks before the Progressive Women's Guild on Tuesday evening in the Mayfair Hotel.

Garden Group To Meet on Tuesday

The Shannopin Country Club has been chosen as the meeting place for the Neighborhood Garden Club, a branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, on Tuesday. Mrs. William Snyder and Mrs. Albert Smith are to be hostesses at luncheon and afterward the club members will visit the Ben Avon Heights gardens.

Wednesday, September 5, is the date set for the club's annual garden show, which is to be held in All Saints Episcopal Church parish house, McClure avenue.

Sewickley Programs Listed

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Opening October 29, the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club will hear many things worth while—music, lectures and drama—this season. William Beebe, the explorer, is to be one of the speakers and John Mason Browne, New York dramatic critic, another.

Miss Constance Rourke, former Vassar professor and author of "Trumpeters of the Gold Coast," who spoke last year before the Twentieth Century Club on "Old American Theatricals" is also listed, as is Dr. Christian Gauss, Princeton dean, Dr. Cyril Alington, headmaster at Eton College, and Ralph Griswold, superintendent of the Bureau of Parks, Pittsburgh, are other speakers.

Mrs. Newton Chapin will direct the annual play to be put on by club members and the children of members will have their special day, as usual, with an exhibition of magic by Tarbell. Three days will be devoted to music, on one day a program of chamber music being given; another, a soprano recital, and the third, a recital by Joseph McPherson, Metropolitan Opera Company baritone.

An art exhibit, a garden day and days in charge of the departments of education, home, philanthropy and literature will make a varied and exceptionally interesting season. Meetings will be held, as is customary, in the Edgeworth Club.

Brownie Pack At Scout Camp

The Allegheny County Girl Scout day camp at Forest Hills, which has been given the picturesque Indian name "Adahi," is the only one of the 10 day camps which has a Brownie pack. Twenty-five of these younger scouts have their own site on the hill above Cherry Valley where there's an average attendance of 80 older girls each Tuesday. Besides the Indian dramatics which are carrying out Adahi's chosen theme, the girls there are engaging in the usual camp activities—handcraft, archery, pioneering and signalling. They are doing some particularly interesting work in mask-making and wood chipping.

Mrs. E. C. Bothwell is chairman of the local committee and Mrs. Porter Brace is director of the camp.

O. E. S. Group To Have Bridge

Centennial Chapter, No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star, Carnegie, will have a dessert bridge on Saturday afternoon. It's to take place in Mrs. Bertha Galbraith's home, Charles street, at 2 o'clock.

Through the Spyglass

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

Zephyr knit sweaters for when the fall zephyrs begin to blow! Lightweight, soft spongy ones that snug around lithe little forms like nothing else! Some that button up be-front in shirtwaist manner . . . some that have pullover crew necks and football shoulders the better to accentuate feminine fine points! These are sweater classics that are going to be worn by the "right" people this fall . . . only $2.98 in spite of this 'n' everything. In leaf gold, caballero red, yacht blue, and cherry red. Sizes for misses.

The horn of the hunter is about to be heard in the field . . . and the horn of plenty is already sitting in the middle of smart dinner tables (Now don't mistake us! Don't mistake us!) For one of the stores has brought out a capacious looking horn of "plenty" . . . of cream colored pottery . . . the kind that was just made to spill real or imitation fruit out of its low flat end at $1.95 . . . and you can get candlesticks to match (little "horns") at $1 each.

Items to note when in the vicinity of a certain china department:

The sale of teacups that has sprung up—10c a pair (cup and saucer) on up to $1.00. Chintzy patterns . . . lusterware . . . banded pieces . . . flowered china —and all of them reduced to this price. A buy!

A set of 16 pieces . . . to serve a hungry foursome! Simple white china with the gay freshness of jonquils nodding at one another from their cluster at the side. $1.79 for this set—never before heard of at such a price, we're assured!

Ummm clever . . . these Chinese! Especially when they carve up a set of brasses like these and then apparently lose interest as the price is mentioned. Annyhoo! You little lovers of brass, can now buy your little selves a nice set—cigaret box, ash tray, match box with cigaret rests, and large tray to set them on—all for the whistling sum of 50c! CARVED brass, too! Never before heard about such a set less than $1.00, did you?

* * *

If your erstwhile garden or flower pot has gone the way of all flesh . . . leaving you with the "la-aast rose of sum-mmer" and nothing more . . . then the news that you can get a beautiful armful of cut flowers for 50c should not be amiss! Especially since you may want to do something for your dinner table . . . the bridge party . . . or just the plainness of the porch. Snapdragon, babies breath, zinnias, liatris, spirea. An armful of garden for a coin in your palm!

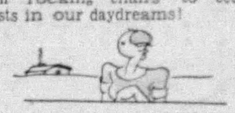
Then . . . as usual . . . everyone goes furniture-minded right about now. In fact, so much so, that we practically see groves of trees in our sleep and everything from rocking chairs to cedar chests in our daydreams!



The most important thing of the moment being, however, the four-piece bedroom suite that we have heard about! A suite of furniture that we wouldn't have believed possible short of some Ali Baba's tale. A dresser with a mirror, a chest, a bed, a dressing table and mirror—and, behold! your whole room is furnished! In the popular early American design, too, that ladies are literally crying for (mostly because it's too expensive!) Not the extreme type . . . but more modernized. And the price? Only $58.50!

The Private Papers of a Reporter

I got a chuckle out of the following billing in front of a movie house: Now Playing: Eddie Cantor in Person—Next Week: "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" . . . It may be told—now that she is gone . . . Marie Dressler, they said out on the Coast, was underpaid—that she got only $2,000 per week . . . While less worthy stars on the same lot got much more . . . Quiteso, quiteso . . . But Miss Dressler was satisfied with the 2 Gs every week—which she was to get for the rest of her life! . . . Hers was a life contract—which she asked for (when they discussed a long term agreement) . . . Jim Tully, we said some weeks ago, had a rendezvous with Dillinger—for an exclusive interview . . . The item was laughed at by some laugher-atters . . . Comes this letter from Tully: "Poor Dillinger died like a rat; though I can't be convinced that he was one. I interviewed two of his gang in Ohio, where they are waiting the chair. Makley, one of them, is from my shanty Irish town in Ohio. He used to feed me when I had no place to eat or sleep—'Who can tell, to what red hell, his sightless soul may stray' . . . His sister does house work for a living. A lawyer took her life savings of $300 for doing nothing. The faith of women" . . . Now is it clear why Tully nearly interviewed Dillinger?

There's an undertaker in Los Angeles who has for a slogan: "Aged in the wood," and his radio broadcasting theme song is: "We're Heading for the Last Round Up" . . . Just a clown, just a great big boy . . . Ted Wilde suggests this translation of a Hungarian epigram be recorded again, to-wit: "Never owe money to a poor man, or kiss a homely girl, because they both go around bragging about it . . . Add similes: As wrong as a hot pastrami sandwich made with white bread!

The manager of a joy spot in the Bronx in New York advertised that he was "Bringing Broadway to the Bronx" when he opened the place last month . . . He felt, however, that he needed a publicity man to put it over . . . So he hired a guy, who said he could fix it so that a detective pal would arrest the fan dancer in the show—and in that way land on all the front pages . . . But something went wrong . . . The friendly detective brought a comrade, also a dick, who considered the dancer lewd and naughty . . . He locked her up—and he wasn't foolin' . . . She was held in $500 bail, as was the manager—for Special Sessions on the testimony of the unfriendly detective . . . A few days later the manager of the place was notified that his license had been revoked for running an indecent show . . . Later he received permission to reopen pending the court's decision . . . In fewer words, the man has lost approximately $10,000 on the closing—and this and that—all because he thought his place needed "a little publicity."

Add Thumb-Nail Descriptions: George Raft: Little boy black and blue . . . Durante: A perfumer's delight . . . Clark Gable: A sail boat without a breeze . . . George Jean Nathan, Ned Sparks at a typewriter . . . Garbo: Just about to take her in your arms when the damb alarm clock goes off . . . Harry Richman: A shoe salesman on vacation . . . Ronald Colman: A ham's conception of himself . . . Heywood Broun: The big tent half erected . . . "Prince" Mike Romanoff: A very tired monkey still cutting capers for the peasants in front of his cage . . . Eddie Canton: The auctioneer's shill . . . Percy Hammond: A police captain in mufti . . . J. Brooks Atkinson: An absent-minded professor wearing his little nephew's hat . . . Primo Carnera: A Mack truck in a junk yard . . . Tom Howard: The guy to whom they finally sold the Brooklyn Bridge . . . Hitler: A tomboy with a machine gun . . . Mae West: The girl all the boys took for auto rides . . . Zasu Pitts: A wet bathing suit . . . Gracie Allen: The aftermath of a welsh-rarebit . . . Victor Moore: Baby Leroy—fifty years later.

Lloyd Film An Early Booking

By KARL KRUG

Notes From a Frayed Cuff: The Alvin gets the Harold Lloyd picture plum . . . "The Cat's Paw," first film made by the bespectacled comedian in over two years, will follow Shirley Temple's "Baby Take a Bow" in the Sixth street house . . . Incidentally, Bill Zieler, newly-appointed Alvin house manager, picked his staff from nearly 1,500 applicants in Duquesne Garden yesterday . . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will give its latest "special," Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in "Treasure Island," one of the first showings anywhere in Pittsburgh . . . The film will open here August 17 . . . While Dick Powell's "Dames" is tentatively set for local exhibition week of August 31 . . . Al Jolson believes in keeping things in the family . . . He's after the Warners to give a contract to Marcy Keeler, sister of Ruby, Al's missus . . . A belated three cheers for the performance of Asta, the terrier, in that very extraordinary melodrama, "The Thin Man," which you can still find in the neighborhood houses . . . If and when stage shows get under way in the Alvin, a chorus of local girls likely will be used . . .

VISITOR PLAYS BIT

Maybelle Jennings, drama editor of the Washington Herald, a Hearst newspaper, stopped in Pittsburgh yesterday to visit her sister, Mrs. Mike Cullen, wife of the manager of the Penn . . . Miss Jennings was en route back to Washington from Hollywood by plane, and she gave glowing accounts of the hospitality of the movie moguls . . . She will, by the way, be seen in a bit role in Joe E. Brown's coming feature, "Six-Day Bike Race" . . . Gloria Swanson, slowly beating her way back, is to appear with Clark Gable in a screen tale of the New Orleans waterfront . . . The Conrad Nagels' divorce washes up another of those "perfect marriage" myths . . . While the local Variety Club has a gavel made from the flooring of Pittsburgh stages, the Washington branch of the organization has one fashioned from wood from the roof of the old White House . . . C. J. Latta, local Warner executive, and his family are home from the West Coast . . . Mae Robson attended Marie Dressler's funeral the day following her fiftieth birthday . . . Ann Forrest, former Pitt stock favorite, is now the wife of a Philadelphia millionaire, who made her give up the stage.

JEAN LIKES BILL

A returning traveler from Hollywood tells me the Jean Harlow-William Powell romance is at white heat, despite the denials . . . And Pauline Lord has a pedigreed Peke registered under the name of "Garbage" . . . The Warners have just bought two stories as starring vehicles for Pittsburgh's Aline MacMahon . . . They are "While the Patient Sleeps" and "The Patient in Room 13" . . . Is there a "Patient cycle" in the offing? . . . Very touching is that M-G-M trade paper ad, which shows Leo the Lion, with bowed head and a wreath in his paw, standing in silent dejection before a portrait of Marie Dressler . . . If you go to New York after August 16 you won't be able to see a stage show in the Paramount Theater . . . The big Broadway house will go on a straight film policy on that date, opening with DeMille's "Cleopatra" . . . The reason you never hear anything about the private life of DeMille is because he's been married to the same wife more than 30 years

President On Screen In News

First pictures of President Roosevelt in Hawaii, and of his return home, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, with the Globe Trotter describing the events. A tremendous reception is accorded the nation's leader in Honolulu. He is bedecked with the native leis and then, at Schofield Barracks, he reviews 15,000 troops and delivers a cheery speech. Another tremendous reception is given him as he arrives at Portland, Ore.

New Orleans is having a little war of its own between Senator Huey Long and Mayor Walmsley. The city streets bristle with various kinds of armed forces.

A loss estimated at $1,500,000 was caused by a cloudburst at Bridgeton, N. J.

Pictures of the Davis Cup matches show Sidney Wood, United States star, vainly batting Fred Perry, England's top player at Wimbledon.

They've been having a heat wave at Wrangell, Alaska. To cool off the girls and boys dive into the icy water and frolic near icebergs.

Impressive and solemn scenes come from Vienna at the funeral of Austria's slain Chancellor Dollfuss.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Latorras and their brood of 19 children attend the World's Fair in Chicago.

Motorboats at Lake George race for the gold cup and George Reis, last year's winner, drives his 13-year-old craft to victory again.

At Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., Mayor LaGuardia starts off the world's first airmail sky train, consisting of a plane towing three gliders, that are being unhooked from the air "locomotive" at Philadelphia and Washington.

Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs in time schedules it is possible some subjects of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

:: Hot From Hollywood ::

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—Hello! While wandering around the various film factories the other day, it suddenly occurred to me (I get flashes—hot and cold—like that) that perhaps you might have at some time or other wondered "just what does a studio manager do?"

Miss Stanwyck

Supposing, then, we take William Koenig, studio manager at the massive Warner plant in Burbank, as an example.

For instance, Koenig has the answer to such problems as the following:

If Barbara Stanwyck doesn't want to wear a certain hat in a scene, Koenig either changes it or tells her to wear it.

If Kay Francis is late to work, Koenig delivers the scolding.

If a lion bites Joe E. Brown—no, dearie, Koenig doesn't bite the lion back, he just orders a toothless one and the scene retaken.

If Edward G. Robinson's lunch is cold, Koenig speaks to the studio chef—and hires another.

Because he received so many phone calls for Dudley Digges, the famous character actor, Richard Digges, still climbing to fame, named his dog Dudley.

One day the phone jingled and a lovely feminine voice asked for Dudley.

"He can't come just now," replied Richard. "He's drinking at the fish pond!"

Charles Sabin's praise agent claims the late June Mathis not only "discovered" Sabin, but Valentino as well—and for that reason, Charley has a chance to repeat Rudy's success. For the Boswells' information, Miss Mathis did not "discover" the screen's greatest lover. Now, where does that put Sabin?

Franz Schulz, noted European writer, was twice assigned to adapt "The Lottery Lover" for two London film companies, but casting difficulties prevented actual production.

In Germany, several months later, Franz suggested the same yarn, and was given the task of writing the script for a Berlin film firm. Unsettled conditions in Germany finally canceled the picture.

Franz came to Hollywood to work for Fox. His first assignment was "The Lottery Lover." The film is being made—so that ends the story!

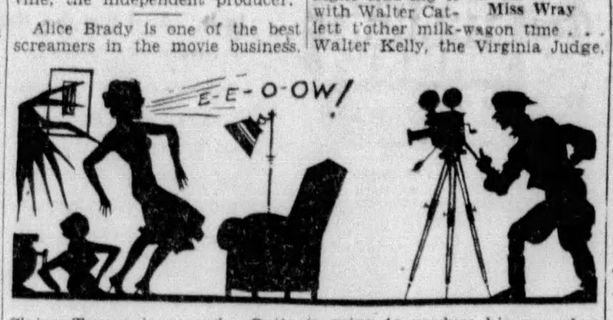
Bill Haines has another deal on to do one of his typical smart-Alec characterizations for Nat Levine, the independent producer.

Alice Brady is one of the best screamers in the movie business. Claire Trevor is second. Quite often Claire lets go a couple of yells recorded on film to be used at some time as "jolts" in mystery films.

Russ Columbo has a neat way of refusing to entertain at parties. He's incorporated—and Columbo, Inc., doesn't permit Columbo, Esq., to give free auditions!

Fay Wray must hold some sort of a record—12 pictures in as many months! . . . Now we have to contend with large megaphoned directors! Mark Sandkrich has a tapered-tube eight feet in length. His assistant holds the other end for him. That's what you call carrying things a trifle too far . . . Mary Hay, the ex-Mrs. Richard Barthelmess, was out night club-ing it with Walter Catlett t'other milk-wagon time . . . Walter Kelly, the Virginia Judge, is going to produce his own play in a couple of months. No movie stars will be in the cast. Kelly says he is going to employ actors and actresses!

Miss Wray



As the result of a playful romp with a young Sumatra tiger on "The Return of Chandu" set, Clara Kimball Young has to throw away a new white coat, and Maria Alba won't be able to wear a chiffon blue dress any more.

Sabin Fame Expected

Rudolph Valentino—and now Charles Sabin . . . Success as a parallel in the lives of both players with the late June Mathis as discoverer of them for the screen was revealed with the news that Columbia Studios had taken up Sabin's option on a long term contract.

Valentino's spectacular career, undertaken at the insistence of Miss Mathis, is history. Sabin's beginning on the screen bids fair to bring him a high degree of fame. Coming to Hollywood some months ago on contract he played the juvenile lead in "Girl in Danger," and is at present doing a like role in "That's Gratitude."

Although Sabin's association with June Mathis, and her prediction as to his screen possibilities is far in the past, it is interesting to recall that she suggested him as a comer and the ideal person to enact the role of the boy Christ in "Ben-Hur" when Charles was 14 years old. Only because the producers decided to eliminate the character was his screen career postponed.

Star Likes Support

Judith Anderson, rehearsing the new play, "The Female of the Species," surrounded by the strong cast that the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse has assembled for her guest-starring appearance next week, has learned something of the spirit which these players put into their work, and is immensely satisfied with their talent and ambition. Several, impressed by her rich voice, commented on her fine work.

"I'm always terrible in rehearsals, but when the curtain rises Monday night, I will be all right," she said.

She added that the script will be in her hands every moment until she walks through the stage door for the first performance.

June Given Orchids

JUNE KNIGHT

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—Blonde June Knight is humanly curious about the mysterious admirer who sends her an orchid every day. So is Paul Ames, rich New Yorker, who lunches regularly with the singing star and who, admittedly, is No. 1 man in June's heart these days.

The orchid-sender is rapidly reaching a Hollywood record for patience. Some time ago June called the florist, who delivers the exotic blooms, and told him to make it roses instead and to send them to the hospitals in the film capital.

Everything went all right for a while, but the other day another orchid was delivered. The following note from the florist was attached:

"Dear Miss Knight: You don't have to think about who sent this, but the fellow paid $5 for it, and it's such a beautiful orchid I couldn't resist sending it."

Jimmy Walker May Turn Producer

Former Mayor of New York James Walker and Carl Brisson, screen star, may team up in producing a musical show for which Brisson has paid $5,000, it has been learned in Hollywood.

98 OUT OF 100 WOMEN REPORT BENEFIT

JUST ASK YOUR NEIGHBORS

Right in your neighborhood there must be a woman who has been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Let her tell you how good this medicine is before and after childbirth, at the Change, or whenever a woman is nervous, weak and rundown.

MRS. RUTH GUTH
2541 Wilson Avenue
Chicago, Illinois

"After my little girl was born I was weak and nervous and all rundown in weight. My mother heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me my first bottle. It did wonders for me and I am glad to recommend it to anyone." — Mrs. Bessie Felten, 323 7th Ave., Altoona, Pennsylvania.

For Jumpy Nerves

"Before my second baby came your Vegetable Compound made me strong. It relieves headache, backache and irritability. My nerves were jumpy but now I can do all my work and feel happy. I recommend your medicine to all women, especially at pregnancy." — Mrs. Milton Stevens, Route 3, Goodwater, Alabama.

MRS. WILLIAM McDONALD
612½ South Huron Street
Ypsilanti, Michigan

"I had an operation two years ago and since then I have not been strong. At my period I had awful pains in my sides and through the abdomen. I had headaches, felt tired and sick and had to stay in bed most of the day. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets from my friends and now I do not suffer so. I have lots of faith in the Pinkham medicines and I tell my friends about them." — Mrs. William McDonald.

TABLETS, TOO

Many women like the convenience of Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They relieve and prevent periodic pain and discomfort. Persistent use brings permanent relief. New purse size package—50¢ at all drug stores.

TRY THEM YOURSELF

Helped at the Change

"My back was so bad I had to lie down most of the time. I was weak and dizzy and had frequent headaches and hot flushes. Three bottles of the Vegetable Compound has helped me a great deal. My nerves are steadier and I feel better in all ways." — Mrs. Jennie Stoyakovich, 2441 North 16th St., Terre Haute, Ind.

A medicine which helps so many women must be good. Give it a chance to help you, too.

Odds and Ends

THIS IS one of those cruel tales that you will find difficult to believe. Yet it took place in the City of New York last week, and I can assure you that the details are true in every respect.

Several years ago, a man was in love with a woman. To simplify matters, he will be John and she will be Mabel. In his early youth, John had encountered two rough breaks and he had landed in jail each time. They weren't long stretches as the man outside figures a sentence. But to the man on the inside, any stretch is long.

After his second term, John struck scrupulously to the straight and narrow. Luckier than most ex-convicts, he obtained a job that earned him a fairly decent salary each week. All of which was fine—until he met Mabel.

It was the old, old story. He was nuts about the gil—but she had plenty of larceny in her. He should have remained a million miles from her, and he knew it. She was on the clip, and it was only a question of time until she'd get both of them into trouble. But what could the poor guy do? He was in love. And them's sad words, partner.

The inevitable came to pass. Mabel was accused of participation in a shady deal. John was automatically accused with her, although he was as innocent of the crime as you are. And to protect this girl, he confessed that he was the guilty party. The girl said nothing—and she was released.

The man was in love, you see—and the judge gave him five years to think it over . . .

About three months ago, John was freed. But he was free with an ax over his head. He had been to jail three times. One more conviction of any kind, and he'd be sentenced to life under the Baumes law. Tough, but that's the way things go.

John found a job at a meager wage. If it was humanly possible, he was going to keep out of trouble. He did not attempt to see Mabel although he still loved the woman. He roomed with some old friends in an East Side apartment and he paid $10 a month as rent. His friends didn't want the $10, but he insisted. He said it made him feel better.

Last week, in the early afternoon of his day off, John gave a $20 bill to his friend in order to pay the month's rent. The man had no change, so he sent the bill around to the bank in order to have it broken. Ten minutes later there was trouble. The bill was a counterfeit.

His friends covered John. They had to. If the police nailed John with a counterfeit bill, he was doomed. His record would convict him immediately. And he'd sit behind bars for the rest of his life just because he had the bill in his pocket.

John, you may be certain, didn't know the bill was a phony. After his friends had cleared up matters at the bank, John told them what had happened. And it's as strange a thing as ever you heard.

That morning, for the first time in five years, he had met Mabel. The meeting was accidental and they chatted amiably for a few moments. He had confessed that he was none too prosperous and, before they parted, she had pressed a bill into his hand.

And that was the bill that almost sent him back to jail for life! . . .

IT is supposed to have happened in one of the New York Civil Service schools for policemen. The lecturer stepped before the pupils and explained to the future cops the nature of the various crimes.

He spoke at length about robbery, petty larceny and the like. At the conclusion of his speech, he went to the end of the room for a glass of water.

When he returned to the desk, he raised a terrific squawk. The watch he had placed in front of him to time his speech, had been stolen! . . .

THERE'S a kid in town who—although no more than 20—is rappidly hitting the chutes because of his fondness for the bottle. He knows his weakness, but he can't help himself. And the habit grips him more strongly each and every day.

He sat in a restaurant the other night, and the table talk turned to weights. The young chap said that a certain man weighed too much for his years.

"Oh, sure," said his girl, "you know everything. That fellow is 20 years older than you. How much do you think you'll weigh 20 years from now?"

The kid shrugged his shoulders.

"You mean," was his grim reply, "with or without the box?" . . .

AMONG the contributed stuff of the day is the story of the two actors who went up state for a vacation and decided to go hunting for the first time.

They borrowed two guns and a few dogs from a farmer and set out for adventure. After being out an hour or so, they returned to the farm.

"What's the matter?" asked the farmer. "You want more shot?"

"No," replied the actors. "We want more dogs!" . . .

Face Got Red After Tagging Chief's Auto

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Without fear or favor, Traffic Officer Albert McLaughlin enforces the parking ordinances. But his face got red when he found he had tagged a police department car. It got redder when he discovered Chief of Police John J. O'Connell was the occupant.

M'NAIR DROPS FINLEY APPEAL

Mayor McNair has withdrawn the petition which he presented to Judge Joseph A. Richardson, seeking a modification of an injunction order preventing him from interfering with Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board.

He announced he will present it again August 15.

Attorney J. M. Shane, of the office of C. Elmer Bown, representing Finley, called at Judge Richardson's chambers and said he desired information concerning the petition presented by the Mayor, he not having received notice that such a petition would be offered. During the hearing yesterday morning, Judge Richardson asked Mayor McNair if he had served notice on "the other side" and he said he had not.

When Shane called, Judge Richardson got in touch with the Mayor, who then decided to withdraw the petition. As matters stand now, there is nothing before the court, so far as the modification move is concerned.

M'NAIR VIEWS WATER SOURCE

Mayor McNair and a group of city public works and health officials today were inspecting water conditions in the Clarion River, where stream pollution affecting Pittsburgh's water supply is reported.

The Mayor thus expressed a desire to witness for himself the effect of the dumping of wastes by a paper company on the upper waters of the stream, a tributary of the Allegheny River.

Mrs. McNair was to make the trip with the Mayor.

Among others city officials in the party are Public Works Director Leslie M. Jamieson, Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert, Water Bureau Engineer Chester F. Drake, Health Director Ray P. Moyer and Sanitation Supt. George W. Schmader.

At the present low stage of the Allegheny River, acid conditions are costing the city large sums of money for correction by the soda ash process.

FREE PORT, LOW FARES SOUGHT

A mass meeting to promote a five-cent street car fare and a free port for Pittsburgh will be held tonight at Leslie Park, Forty-sixth and Butler streets, with Mayor McNair the principal speaker. Theodore L. Morita, his secretary, will also speak.

The meeting has been arranged by James R. Lancia, Moritz backer in the Second Ward, and also for some years a follower of P. J. O'Malley.

Moritz has been grooming Lancia as a sort of assistant at the Mayor's office, using him for various odd jobs of sorting correspondence and running errands about the building. Several others whom Moritz has favored in a like manner are now the possessors of paid positions.

Taxpayers' League Heads Plan Meet

A meeting of the executive committee of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League will be held tonight at league headquarters, 339 Fifth avenue. I. Leonard Aronson, president, will discuss progress made in the drive by the league to have candidates pledge themselves to the league's legislative platform.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Gifts totaling $160,495 from various organizations and individuals, reported last night at the sixtieth anniversary celebration, today has assured the continuance of the Chautauqua Institution which this year has conducted its program and summer schools under a receivership.

HESS SLAYER TO HEAR FATE

International News Service.

READING, Pa., Aug. 9.—Denied a new trial by the Berks County Court, Miss Frances Sepse, 27, convicted slayer of Dr. Paul R. Hess, will be brought before the court for sentencing Monday.

In refusing the woman a new trial, Judge Strasnaman asserted that the crime was "willful and premeditated murder."

Miss Sepse, now in the Berks County Jail, killed the socially-prominent physician as he was about to enter his home last January 8. She fired at him from ambush and he died within a few hours.

After a four-day trial, at which her attorneys offered a defense of unrequited love, the young woman was convicted on March 7 by a jury which recommended life imprisonment.

Dr. Hess had been treating the woman for a nervous disorder and defense witnesses testified she was insane at the time of the murder.

TRAYNOR ON VERGE OF TRADING SEVERAL PIRATES

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Grimes Best Job-Getter
Spirit Example to Bucs
Dizzy Dean Hard Worker
Ott's Homers Scattered
Death of Uncle Robbie
Line Layden's Problem

You've got to hand it to Burleigh Grimes for being the champion job-getter of the big baseball leagues and for a never-give-up spirit comparable to that of Rabbit Maranville. Several farewells to the spitball have been written since Grimes started to draw a series of releases, but he came back and got a new job each time to show that the goodbys to the damp fling had been a little premature. Club owners and managers appear to share the grizzled veteran's confidence that he has something left, for no sooner does one let him go than another picks him up. This is his third time with the Pirates, and besides three engagements with the Cardinals he has been on the rosters of the Tigers, Dodgers, Giants, Braves, Cubs and Yankees. In 19 years under the big top he has won 269 victories against 210 defeats while pitching in more than 600 games.

Burleigh Grimes

A chance to give Grimes a warm welcome was about the only opportunity 12,000 fans had to applaud during yesterday's dismal exhibitions in which the Bucs took two trouncings from the Cubs. The veteran, who will be 41 on August 18, may pitch better ball when his control improves with work, but even if he doesn't, the fans like him for his fighting spirit. If Burleigh could only arouse some of the other Pirates by his hustling example he would be worth having around for that alone. As far as spirit is concerned, the Pittsburgh club could use a whole lot more just like him.

DIZZY IN FOUR GAMES WITHIN SIX DAYS

Speaking of spirit, the lack of it on the Corsair crew was evident in another direction yesterday. When it appeared that a change of pitchers would be necessary in the latter part of the second game, none of the several hurlers seated comfortably in the Pirate bullpen volunteered to warm up.

Consider Dizzy Dean, by way of contrast. Dizzy is the leading pitcher of the majors in games won, but his star ranking doesn't keep him from being willing and eager at all times to help his club. When he won his twenty-first victory yesterday in a relief role at Cincinnati, it marked the fourth game in which he had pitched in a space of only six days.

MOST OF OTT'S HOMERS MADE ON ROAD

The popular impression that Mel Ott owes his position as the leader of the National League's home run hitters to the advantage he has in playing half of the season's schedule at the Polo Grounds in New York, where the right field stand is within easy range, is not borne out by the records. The Giant bomber is a real hitter who can sock homers on anybody's field. As a matter of fact, the majority of his four-base slams this season have been delivered away from home. Of the 29 round-trippers with which he now leads the league, Mel has made only 11 in 53 games at the Polo Grounds, whereas he has connected for 18 homers in 53 contests on the road.

Mel Ott

However, another short right field, the one in Philadelphia, has been of no little assistance to Ott in the fattening of his total. He has whacked eight homers in nine games there, almost as many as he has made in 53 games in New York. The only parks in which Mel has not hit for the circuit so far are those in Pittsburgh and Brooklyn. He has made four homers in Boston, four in Chicago, one in Cincinnati and one in St. Louis. While credited with no boundary belts at Forbes Field up to date, Ott has done plenty of damage here otherwise. In the Giants' six games at the Pirate park he made eight hits in 23 times up, a mark of .341.

Another of the famous old Orioles flew West last night when the death of Wilbert Robinson at 74 sent that widely-known baseball figure on to join John McGraw, Hughey Jennings, Willie Keeler, Kid Gleason, Dan Brouthers and other departed members of the renowned Baltimore National League champions of 1894-95-96, one of the greatest clubs of all time.

Robinson's fame was not confined to his connection with Ned Hanlon's sensational pennant winners. In his playing days, chiefly while he was with the Baltimore Nationals and Americans and the St. Louis Nationals, he was one of the greatest catchers the game has known, and he went on long afterward, as coach of the Giants and for 18 years manager of the Dodgers, then called the Robins in his honor, to become one of baseball's most famous and enduring figures. Affectionately called "Uncle Robbie," he was one of the best-liked men in the sport among fans, players and writers.

Robinson won two National League pennants in 1916 and 1920 as manager of Brooklyn, though losing to the Red Sox and Indians in the world series. As a player he held one record never equaled. He was the only man ever to make seven basehits in a single major league game. For the Orioles against St. Louis in the first game of a double-header on June 10, 1892, Robbie made six singles and a double in seven times at bat.

LINE WORRIES LAYDEN AT NOTRE DAME

It may be traditional for a football coach to be singing the blues at this time of year, but Elmer Layden insists that he has a real source of worry in the Notre Dame line. Finding satisfactory replacements for lost forwards is the chief concern of the former Duquesne University mentor now coaching the Irish. He failed to find them in spring practice and doubts that he will be any more successful in the fall. The ends are all that could be desired, but the line proper is a big question mark.

Elmer Layden

To fill the shoes of Tom Roach and Ed Krause at the tackles, Notre Dame has only Ken Stilley and John Michuta. If Layden plugs those gaps, he will still have to worry about finding two guards and a center. The guards were vulnerable spots in last year's team. Tom Gorman, center in 1933, has been lost and is now a coach, and it is not certain that Jack Robinson, out last year because of an eye operation, will be able to play. Pojmann is the next best prospect for the snapperback post. The death of Johnny Young, speedy six-footer, in Texas several weeks ago, was a loss to the backfield, and there is no certainty about the future of George Melinkovich, who is going to Europe for mineral baths in an effort to throw off the effects of his long illness, but there are plenty of other backs in Elser, Pilney, Mike Layden, Fred Carideo, Bonar, Shakespeare, Joe Robinson and Fromhart.

Burleigh Picks Tough Spot to Break in for Bucs

VETERAN PITCHER FIELDING BOB O'FARRELL'S BUNT IN FIFTH INNING OF SECOND GAME WITH CUBS AT FORBES FIELD

Burleigh Grimes, the only spitball pitcher left in the major leagues, joined the Pirates a third time yesterday to finish out the season with them, and he wasn't long seeing action. He was injected into the second game of the doubleheader with the Cubs after Swift had been batted out, and despite heavy canonading on the part of the Cubs stuck until the last. The Pirates lost both games of the bargain bill, 7-4 and 14-3. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

P. T. A. TO AIM FOR NATIONAL TOURNEY

Pittsburgh Tennis Association leaders will meet today with the purpose of determining definitely the attitude of the local net governing body toward renewing its attempt of last year to bring the national public parks tennis championships to this city.

The P. T. A. felt that the 1934 nation-wide municipal event was in the bag for this district when the United States Lawn Tennis Association convened here last February. It was found at that time, however, that arrangements for staging the conclave in Minneapolis virtually had been settled at the annual powwow of the park group in New York last August.

This time the Pittsburghers aim not to be caught napping. Paul G. Sullivan, secretary of the P. T. A., will attend the Minneapolis classic as Pittsburgh representative in charge of the destinies of Harry Wald and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, winners of the recent Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh parks championships. Wald and Mrs. Artzberger are being sent by the Sun-Telegraph to battle as official Pittsburgh entrants in the Minnesota affair. In the course of the week, Sullivan will sit in at all seances of the parks moguls, and today's P. T. A. executive committee gathering is to outline the Pittsburgher's plan of action.

It is known that Frick Park authorities here distinctly are in favor of getting the national championships for the 10 fine clay courts out Braddock avenue way. South Park, too, would like to top off its highly successful national public links golf melee, just concluded, with the 1935 racquet get-together.

LOCALS SCORE AT DUBOIS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

DUBOIS, Pa., Aug. 9.—Five Pittsburgh racqueters are aligned in the quarter final round of the fourth annual Dubois Country Club invitation tennis tournament here today. In the upper sector of the draw, Frank Broida, recent West Penn runner-up and favorite to cop the local event, meets Abe Cohen, Erie Parks premier, while Joe Madden, Pitt ace, engages Kenneth Rowles, of Clearfield.

The lower half finds John Brown, of Mt. Lebanon, battling Junior Blanchard. Another Clearfield contender calls for a tilt between Gard Slocum, Regent Square youth, and the writer.

The Steel City contingent fared handsomely yesterday, only two of the delegation of seven falling by the wayside—and one of these, Pete Barber, of Penn State, was eliminated by a fellow-townsman, Slocum, in a stiff tussle, 6-0, 7-5. A. McCabe was the other Pittsburgh casualty, losing 6-1, 6-2, to Blanchard. The summary:

Second round—John R. Brown defeated Tom Ralston, 6-3, 6-0; Paul G. Sullivan defeated Henry Van Valzah, 6-0, 6-1.

Third round—Frank Broida defeated Harry Tenebaum, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0; Abe Cohen defeated Fritz Weber, 6-1, 6-4; Kenneth Rowles defeated Walter Vollmer, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4; Joe Madden defeated James Schonbium, 6-1, 6-2; Junior Blanchard defeated Alfred D. McCabe, Jr., 6-1, 6-2; John R. Brown defeated Samuel Wilhelm, 6-2, 8-6; Gard Slocum defeated Pete Barber, 6-0, 7-5; Paul G. Sullivan defeated Ernie Reed, 6-4, 6-4.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MAROONED MAN—Karlsson, of Moskeno Island, one of the Lofoten group off the coast of Norway, was hunting for seals in May, 1909, when, rowing out to a distant cliff in the Arctic, he forgot to make his rowboat fast to the rock. The boat drifted away, leaving Karlsson stranded on the barren cliff. When the rowboat was found drifting by fellow fishermen they believed the lost man had perished and his property in due course was distributed among his next of kin. On August 15, a boat accidentally approached Karlsson's cliff and discovered the unfortunate castaway, who, without a word, fell to devouring the food offered him. Karlsson was terribly emaciated and barely able to stand erect. Before he fell into a prolonged fever, he told his rescuer he had subsisted on nothing but moss and snow which he found in the crevices of the rock. He recovered and survived his harrowing experience by about 20 years. A CHARMED LIFE—A little more than two years ago, Pedro Correa, of Big Springs, Tex., was attacked by a Texas bad man, Ysidoro Cruz, and was shot through the head with a 32 automatic. The bullet entered his forehead above and between the eyebrow, coursing straight through his head and coming out in the back of his skull just above the neck. Yet he was not even knocked down and suffered no ill effects whatever. The facts of the case are verified by the records of the Big Springs District Court, where Cruz was tried for attempt to murder, and the medical facts are supported by the testimony of Doctors Hall and Bennet of the same city. TOMORROW: A TORNADO FREAK.

FINAL BATTLE WITH BRUINS RAINED OUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

With the final game of the Pirates-Cubs series scheduled at Forbes Field today postponed because of rain and wet grounds, Pie Traynor, pilot of the Bucs, had plenty of time to muse over the apparent shortcomings of some of his athletes. The Bruins left for St. Louis at 10:30 this morning.

Today's postponed game with Chicago will be played as part of a double-header on Saturday, September 22. The Cincinnati Reds are to open a series here tomorrow.

Although he was reluctant to discuss the matter, Manager Traynor is known to be near the disgust stage concerning the illness excuses and alibis which have come to him from certain of his players in the last few weeks.

The Buccos lost two games to the Cubs yesterday. The second game had passed out of the doubtful stage while Burleigh Grimes was toiling in the late innings. Burleigh asked Pie for permission to remain on the slab; inasmuch as the game was "gone" Grimes, wanted the benefit of a long workout, but the lack of action in the Pirate bullpen was noted by many in the 12,000 crowd.

SPIRIT LACKING

Several members of the Pittsburgh flinging corps are reported ill, yet it would have reflected good on the spirit of the staff had one or two of the youngsters dashed into the bullpen, without waiting for a sign from Traynor, when the Cubs began to lambast Burleigh.

The entire situation is known to Traynor and Pie may be getting ready to trade a flock of his athletes. Traynor's intimates hint that Pie realizes that fines should be meted out to certain of his men, but his diplomacy tells him that punishment of this kind and at this time would take something away from the athletes' trading value, so the pilot is erring on the side of patience.

Getting back to Grimes, Burleigh really had a lot to show the Cubs yesterday, but he was off on his control and a couple of handle hits set the stage for the avalanche of runs charged against him. After he had dressed, Grimes said:

"That was the first time I did any real pitching since May and I wanted to get a good workout so that I would be on edge for my next assignment. I really had something, but my control was off far enough to

Devormer Wants Pay For Entire Season

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Springfield had the prospect today of boasting one baseball team, the Pirates of the Mid-Atlantic League, and two managers, for a while at least.

Raymond (Rube) Bressler, former star first sacker with the Cincinnati Reds, was signed Tuesday as manager to succeed Al Devormer.

Devormer wired here from Wheeling yesterday he had no intention of stepping out in favor of Bressler unless Springfield pays up his contract for the rest of the year.

In yesterday's league tussles, Beckley downed Huntington, 9 to 8; Zanesville made it nine in a row, topping Charleston, 11 to 7; Johnstown nosed out Dayton, 9 to 8, and Springfield whipped Wheeling, 10 to 6.

JUDD RELEASED

Oval Horses Score Straight Heat Wins

Four straight heat victories featured the tenth regular weekly program of the Schenley Matinee Club at Schenley Oval yesterday afternoon.

Alan Jr., John Drew, Fruity McGreagor and Little Abbie were the victors.

ESCOBAR BEATS HUAT

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Sixto Escobar, slugging Puerto Rican bantamweight who is recognized here as world bantamweight champion, outpointed Eugene Huat, of France, in a 15-round bout at the Forum last night to retain his title claims.

Horse Sets World Mark on Circuit

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Calumet DuBuque, 2:02, the bay gelding owned by John C. Thompson, of New York, was driven to a new world one mile and sixteenth record by Harry Thomas in winning the first dash in the 2:10 pace at the Grand Circuit meet here yesterday.

The great son of Peter the Brewer, 2:02½, and Gertie Guy won by a nose in a four horse driving finish from Alan Wilson's Logan Scott in the fast time of 2:15 2-5, slicing almost two seconds from the former world figures held by King Grattan.

STUHLEY BIDS FOR YAROSZ BOUT IN TEST HERE TONIGHT

CHICAGO STAR VICTOR OVER CHAMPION

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tommy Stuhley vs. Anson Green, 10 rounds, Jimmy Belmont vs. Joey Bazzone, 6 rounds, and Sonny Jim Silver vs. Ross Rosales and Bill Eley vs. Charley Blozevich, 4 rounds each, Greenlee Field.

Vince Dundee vs. Tommy Moss (Nashville), 10 rounds, Lafayette, Pa.

Red Barry vs. Buck Everett, 10 rounds, Chicago.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

He started out in life as Hayden Stuhlsatz, and if it hadn't been for an uncle who was a fighter he might not be in the ring today and certainly he wouldn't be fighting as Young Stuhley.

Jimmy Belmont

The young man in question is Hayden (Young) Stuhley, of Chicago, an upstanding lad of German descent, as his family name implies, and he boxes Anson Green, Homestead's Negro middleweight puncher, in the 10-round main bout at Greenlee Field tonight.

Almost 20 years ago there was an Al Stuhley fighting out of Chicago. He boxed Ever Hammer, Goats Doig, Mel Stevenson and other good lightweights. He was managed by his brother, who was the father of this Hayden Stuhley, who now is a threat in the middleweight division, being the only fighter who has beaten Vince Dundee since the latter became the middleweight champion of the world. That victory was achieved just recently in a non-title bout in Chicago.

STARTED OUT YOUNG

Stuhley began boxing when he was 8 years old. Along with a brother, Paul, he gave one-minute-round exhibitions throughout the West. Some seven years ago he entered the amateur ranks in Chicago and out of 101 bouts lost only one, to a national champion. He turned professional four years ago and his climb has been steady. He has beaten Solly Dukelsky twice, and Solly only the other night trounced Frankie Battaglia in Chicago. He's also beaten Kid Leonard and Bud Saltis twice each. Then there's that win over Dundee.

This brother with whom Hayden boxed when they were kids also drifted into the amateur ranks, but he didn't stay. He got himself a job in an office and now is well placed. Hayden isn't jealous of him, but he says that some day, just for a "rib," if he makes enough money out of the ring, he's going to walk in and buy the place where Paul works and fire him. Some fun, eh boss?

WANTS YAROSZ BOUT

Stuhley regards tonight's fight with Anson Green as a good opportunity to break into virgin territory. He wants to win decisively to press a demand for a fight with Yarosz and some big money. He saw Teddy fight Tait Littman in Chicago recently, and, even allowing for the possibility that Teddy was affected by the heat and had an off night then, believes he can beat him.

His manager, Eddie Stanton, a former boxer, who was fighting in Paris when Frank Klaus was there, more than 20 years ago, is sold on the idea of Stuhley being the next champion, and Stuhley himself, as a guest speaker with the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE last night, said he hopes Yarosz wins the title from Dundee in their bout here next month so he can come back and fight him for it. James (Red) Mason, former dean of local boxing managers, now residing in Chicago, has sent on word recommending Stuhley to the fans, and his judgment in boxing matters is highly valued here.

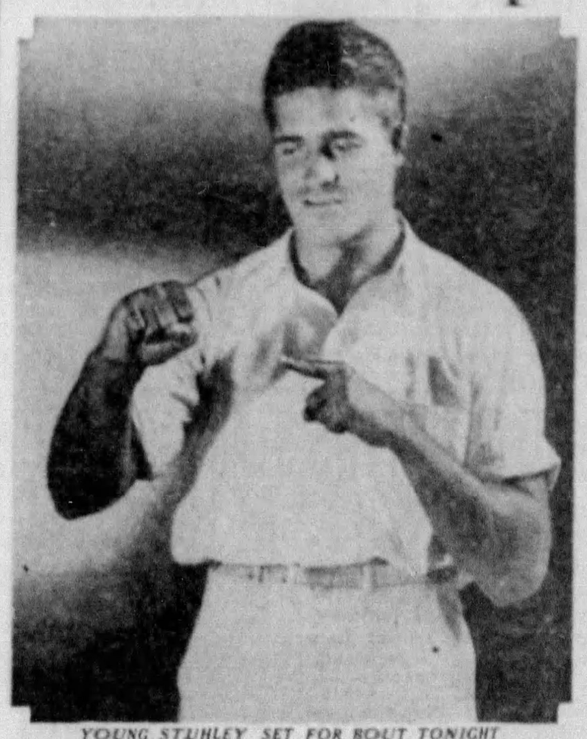
BELMONT VS. BAZZONE

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, tries to "get hunk" with Joey Bazzone, of McKeesport, in the eight-round semi-final tonight for a technical knockout victory the latter scored over him at the Moose Temple last winter, when a cut eye halted the bout, and this may be the most sultry battle of the program. Rosy Rosales, veteran heavyweight of Cleveland, comes in to box our Sunny Jim McVey, Negro thumper, in the second six-rounder, and Bill Eley, the Negro lightweight prospect just out of the amateur ranks, engages Charley Blozevich, of St. Michaels, in the opener at 8:30.

Young Firpo, of Pennsgrove, N. J., has been signed by Promoter Lew Raymond to box Frittie Zivic, of Lawrenceville, in the 10-round main bout of the Eighteenth Division Veterans' show at Conneaut Lake, Pa., Saturday of next week. Ted Yarosz will appear in an exhibition and there will be two eight-round and one six-round preliminaries.

Eddie Zivic meets Frankie Marchese, of New York, at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night.

'There's the Wallop'



YOUNG STUHLEY SET FOR BOUT TONIGHT

UNCLE ROBBIE DIES AFTER STROKE

International News Service.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The baseball world mourned another of its Old Guard today.

Wilbert Robinson, 72, known familiarly as "Uncle Robby," veteran former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and lately president and general manager of the Atlanta Crackers, of the Southern Association, died last night in Piedmont Hospital here.

Robby was stricken at his home with a cerebral hemmorhage and was rushed to the hospital shortly after 8 o'clock. It was thought that he had merely broken his arm when he collapsed and he was at first treated for this. It was not until some time later that it was discovered he had suffered a stroke. He died about two hours after entering the institution.

Robinson's wife, known throughout the big leagues as Ma Robinson, was at his bedside when the end came.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The death of Wilbert Robinson, Uncle Robbie to almost everyone in Flatbush, deprived baseball of one of its best-beloved leaders.

For more than 50 years Robinson had been connected with the game as player, manager and club president, assuming the latter role in Atlanta after he had been supplanted as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers by Max Carey in 1931. He became manager of the Dodgers in 1914 and won pennants in 1916 and 1920.

Although he always will be remembered as the first catcher who crouched close behind the batter all of the time instead of moving up first for the third strike, and as the holder of a major league record which never has been beaten—that of making seven hits in one game—it was as the genial, portly manager of the Dodgers that he achieved his greatest fame.

NOTED FOR KINDLINESS

During his latter years as Brooklyn manager, the club was known as the "Robins" in his honor. Sports writers, who liked nothing better than to visit him at his Dover Hall plantation, wrote reams about him and his colorful methods of getting the best performances out of his players. He was kind and encouraging or occasionally caustic with them, but never employed harsh discipline.

One of his great difficulties in his last few years with the Dodgers was remembering the names of his players and such odd substitutes as "Lumbago" for Ernie Lombardi and "Saute" for Joe Shaute cropped up frequently. His girth also provided a good many openings for witticisms, especially when contrasted with his speed during his playing days, and one of the favorite tales was how players were assigned to do "road work" by running twice around Uncle Robbie.

In death he follows those other great stars of the Baltimore Orioles, the best team of their time—Hughey Jennings, Willie Keeler and John McGraw.

HACK WILSON DROPPED BY DODGERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The major league career of one of baseball's spectacular veterans came to an end with the Brooklyn club's announcement of the unconditional release of Lewis (Hack) Wilson.

The "Whacker," as he was known in Flatbush, has been a member of the Dodgers since the spring of 1932, but his more sensational exploits were recorded while he was with the Chicago Cubs from 1926 through 1931.

The 1930 campaign was the most successful of his career. He set the National League home run record with 56, and created a world record for driving runs over the plate, a total of 190.

He had trouble with the Chicago management in 1931, and was traded that fall to the St. Louis Cardinals for Burleigh Grimes. The Cardinals in turn sold him to the Dodgers for $42,000.

Secretary John Gorman, of the Dodgers, announced yesterday that Jimmy Jordan, the "missing" infielder, has been suspended without pay until he reports back to Manager Stengel and satisfactorily explains his absence.

TITLE SQUASH HEADS NAMED

The Pittsburgh Squash Racquets Association today named Frank T. McClintock, James Ebbert, C. A. Fagan, Jr., Adolph Schmidt and W. C. Robinson as members of a committee to handle the national amateur squash racquets championship tournament to be staged at the Pittsburgh Golf Club and the Keystone Athletic Club here next February 22, 23 and 24. Fagan is to serve as chairman of the committee.

The national professional championships also will be staged at the Keystone Club either late in December or early in January. The awarding of the tournaments was announced here the National Squash Racquets Association late yesterday.

TUBERS LOSE LOOP LEAD

The Washington Generals assisted materially in elevating the Greensburg Cardinals to first place in the Penn State Association yesterday as they defeated McKeesport, 5 to 1, knocking the Tubers out of the lead. Washington won, 5 to 1, at Washington.

Greensburg helped its own cause by trouncing Jeannette, 6 to 1, McLean hurling a fine six-hit game.

Charleroi nosed out Monessen in the third game, 7 to 6.

Fight Results

At Oakland, Cal.—Maxie Rosenbloom defeated Pietro Georgi, 10 rounds.
At Montreal—Sixto Escobar defeated Eugene Huat, 15 rounds.
At London—Eddie Peatre defeated Del Fontaine, 12 rounds.

LOCAL PRINTERS MEET DEFEAT

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Washington's slugging team remained undefeated in the Union Printers' International baseball tournament, while the New York entry was eliminated from further competition through its second defeat.

Washington recorded its fourth successive triumph yesterday at the expense of another previously unbeaten team, Pittsburgh, 12 to 0. With Webb pitching five-hit ball, the capital players had little trouble, putting the game away in the second inning with a six-run rally. Pittsburgh has won two games against the one loss.

Cincinnati, defeated once, gave New York its second straight setback, 15 to 4, to put the losers out of the tournament. The scores by innings:

										R.	H.	E.
New York	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	0	1—	4	7	5
Cincinnati	0	6	0	7	0	1	0	1	*—15	14	3

Batteries—Poiret, McElwreath, Thomasulto, Sterlinger and Teichuck; Schwierjohn and Eten.

										R.	H.	E.

Batteries—Webb and McPherson; Gould, Wingbart and Gall.

The golf tournament in connection with the baseball play is being completed today when the final 18 holes of the 72-hole medal play competition is being disposed of. G. F. Stringer, of Washington, is leading with a total of 238 for 54 holes. Pittsburghers' scores:

Class A—Al Donges, 263; Ernie Riedel, 275.
Class C—Ray Steinhilper, 320; Chick Watson, 331; George Brenner, 337.
Class D—W. Faulhaber, 350; Walter Yohn, 388.

COCHRANE PROVES SUCCESS IN PILOTING TIGERS TO TOP

BENGALS BOOST LEAD OVER YANKEES

Associated Press.

Mickey Cochrane not only has turned out to be a fine inspirational leader who has piloted the Detroit Tigers into the American League lead, but if the occasion demands it, he can do a lot of the actual work of winning ball games.

Cochrane demonstrated that yesterday when he struck the blow that defeated the Browns, 7 to 6, in a 10-inning struggle and gave the Tigers one of the longest leads they have enjoyed this season, 2½ games over the second-place Yankees.

YANKS LOSE AGAIN

The Yankees suffered their second straight setback at the hands of Joe Cronin and his Washington club, 9 to 2. A six-run spurt against Charley Ruffing in the first settled the dispute in short order.

Jimmy Foxx smashed his thirty-fifth four-bagger for the Athletics in the course of their 11-9 defeat at the hands of the Red Sox. The blow, which came with the bases full, left Foxx only one behind Gehrig.

The Indians completed a day of hefty hitting in the American League by downing Chicago, 11 to 4.

While the gap in the American League widened to 2½ games, it narrowed to the same margin in the National when the league-leading Giants took a 2-to-0 shellacking from Brooklyn and the second-place Cubs swept a double-header with Pittsburgh.

CUBS WIN PAIR

A six-run rally in the third, featured by Manager Charley Grimm's home run with two aboard, won the opener for Chicago, 7 to 4, while the combination of seven-hit flinging by Guy Bush and a 16-hit assault on Bill Swift and Burleigh Grimes brought an easy 14-to-3 decision in the afterpiece.

The third-place Cardinals cut loose suddenly in the twelfth inning to score six runs and beat the Reds, 10 to 4. Dizzy Dean, who went to work in the tenth, was credited with his second victory in two days and his twenty-first of the season.

The Braves and Phillies waged one of the day's keenest battles, Boston winning out, 3-2.

Three City League Games on Card

Three games are carded in the City League this evening. The J. J. Vaughans will travel to Olympia Park to meet the Book nine. Homewood goes to the West Penn playgrounds to clash with Immaculate Heart, and Dormont appears at Mt. Oliver.

The Pittsburgh Crawfords return home this week-end for a series of games. Saturday afternoon the Crawfords meet the Cleveland Red Sox at Greenlee Field in a doubleheader. An innovation will be tried at midnight on Sunday when the Crawfords meet the Birmingham Barons, the game starting at 12:01 o'clock.

Pounding the offerings of three pitchers for 21 hits, the Parmelee nine defeated the J. J. Vaughans, 20-8, at Frick Park last night. Homewood-Brushton, limited to two hits by Steve Roscoe, lost to Dormont, 2-1, at Dormont.

Anthony Appointed W. Va. Line Coach

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Frank Anthony, former University of Southern California tackle, today was named line coach of the West Virginia University football team by Head Coach Charles C. Tallman. The choice is yet to be approved by the board of governors, but affirmative action is considered certain.

Here's First Team to Reach Final Round in Sun-Telegraph's Softball Tournament

Peter Morasca M. Miller Felix Golinsky Harold Sally Albert Pantuso G. Miller Frank Carilli Fabio Iacona Edward Zeicheck Vic Maska, Mascot Alex Curran John Piatek

The Pioneers, of Carnegie, who have the honor of being the first team to reach the final round in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament. Finishing in second place in Bracket II for the Juniors during the round robin series, it defeated the Bracket I champion team, Calvary, in the playoff to qualify for the finals. Sam Carilli is the manager of the Pioneers. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

By PHIL GRABOWSKI

Anthony (Bullet) Oskin pitched brilliantly as he registered his second straight shutout in the playoff series as the Campbell Shamrocks defeated Adams Bottles, of New Kensington, 10 to 0, yesterday at Washington Park in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament. This victory put the Shamrocks in the semi-final round of the eliminations.

While the Shamrocks were trouncing Adams Bottles, the Weise Newsies, of Bridgeville, advanced to the quarter-final round by blanking the F. J. Broads, another New Kensington entry, 6-0, on the Peabody High School diamond. Frank Maderic's fine hurling that featured the Weise's victory.

While Oskin was chalking up his second straight triumph in the playoff series for the Campbells he set up a record in his bracket that may stand for a long time. The speed ball king scored three successive shutouts and ran his string of scoreless innings up to 35.

The S. A. O'Toole Club eliminated the E. J. Noftzs, of Lawrenceville, 10-3, on the Schenley High School field. Although Tom McKenna, of the O'Tooles, walked seven batters, he allowed only two hits. Vince O'Toole played a bangup game at third base for the winners and hit safely three times to lead the batters. This win put the O'Tooles in the semi-finals, James Shugar's home run with two on accounted for the Noftz' runs.

Two quarter final games are carded for tomorrow. The Commercial Garage softballers, champions of Bracket V, will oppose Glenfield A. A., winners of the Section II honors, on the Schenley High School field, while the Weise Newsies, titlists of Bracket VII, clash with Fort Black Community on the Peabody High School diamond.

Traynor on Verge of Trading Stars To Shake Pirates Out of Slump

keep me in trouble. I feel great now and expect to be able to help out."

GRIMES HAS STUFF

The Chicago and Pittsburgh players reaffirmed what Grimes said regarding his stuff, in fact, his speed was noticeable.

And Burleigh, by the way, was tendered one of the greatest ovations in the many years of Forbes Field baseball when he went to the mound to relieve Bill Swift in the fifth inning. As he walked in from the bullpen he was cheered to the echo and when he came to the plate to hit he was given thunderous applause.

The Pirates gave the Bruins a real battle in the first game of the doubleheader; and actually outhit the Bruins as they shelled Altoona Pat Malone off the slab in the ninth, but the Bears had one big inning at the expense of Ed Holley and Ralph Birkofer.

Manager Grimm practically won the game with his three-run homer into the rightfield stands in the third round. The finale score was 7 to 4.

Lon Warneke went to the rescue of Malone in the ninth and Lon got the Pirates out in a hurry.

CHAGNON HURLS WELL

The one bright spot of the day from the Pirate side of the picture was seen in the brilliant pitching of Leon Chagnon, who blanked the Bears on one little hit through six hot rounds.

Bill Swift swapped slab punches with Guy Bush for four innings of the second game. Bill weakened in the fifth and Grimes was hurried to the scene. The score of the second fight was 14 to 3.

MADDEN WINS AT CULVER

CULVER, IND., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Leading juniors kept pace with Gene Mako during yesterday's heavy play in the national junior and boys' tennis championships at Culver Military Academy.

Mako, already in the third round, confined his efforts to the opening of the doubles. Ramsey Potts, of Memphis; Gilbert Hunt, of Washington; John Shostrom, of Chicago, and Don Leavens, of Milwaukee, all seeded players, had little trouble entering the third round of the junior singles.

Of the Pittsburgh contingent, Bob Madden eliminated Mace Gwyer, of Pelham Manor, N. Y., 6-0, 7-5; Ralph Bald bowed to Edgar Weller, of Austin, Tex., 6-1, 6-1, and Bob Merchant lost to Bernard Freedman, of New York, 6-2, 6-0.

In the boys' division, Jerome Soisson, of Pittsburgh, was eliminated by David Early, of Chicago, 7-5, 6-3; Harry Zink, of Steubenville, O., put out Emmett Steele, of South Dakota, 6-2, 6-2, and in the doubles, William Fay, paired with Paul Graebner, of Cleveland, lost to Jack Behr, of Bayside, L. I., and Gilbert Hunt, of Washington, 6-3, 6-2.

STAR DEFAULTS AT LONGWOOD

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Sickness and injury have blasted the quarter-finals round of the forty-second Longwood Bowl tournament.

The third seeded Frankie Parker, of Spring Lake, N. J., loaded down by grippe germs, suffered a spell of dizziness while playing against John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, yesterday, and was forced to default. Donald Budge, 18-year-old red-haired Californian right out of the junior ranks, twisted his ankle early in his first set play against Berkeley Bell, of New York, and limped along to 6-1, 6-0, 6-2 defeat.

As a result of Parker's default, Van Ryn moved into the second last round against the top-seeded Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., who defeated Robert (Lefty) Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., 9-7, 6-4, 6-2.

The other quarter-finals match gave the tourney its most surprising upset. The second seeded Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, of Atlanta, being defeated by Jack Tidball, of Hollywood, Cal.

CITY CHAMPION WINS AGAIN

By TOM BIRKS

Mrs. Margaret Curry, medalist and defending champion, is opposing Miss Evelyn Morouse and Mrs. Eddie Kunold is meeting Mrs. Harriet Masury in semi-final round matches in the annual women's city golf championship at the Schenley Park municipal course this afternoon.

Mrs. Curry, very much "on" her game, shot great golf to eliminate Miss Edith Clarke, regarded as one of her most dangerous title rivals, 5 and 3, in their quarter-final round duel this morning. Miss Morouse qualified as the champion's opponent by defeating Miss Suzanne Chismeric, 2 up. Mrs. Curry defeated Gertrude Morouse, South Park champion, in the first round of match play yesterday.

Mrs. Masury gained a place in the semi-finals by defeating Miss Jerry Graffelder, 6 and 5, and Mrs. Kunold won over Mrs. H. C. McClelland, 4 and 3.

The tournament final is to be staged tomorrow.

A mixed foursome tournament, to be followed by a dinner-dance, is carded at Stanton Heights today.

The Pittsburgh Printers, Supplymen and Craftsmen's Association engaged in a tourney at the St. Clair Country Club today.

The Williams Country Club, at Weirton, W. Va., is to stage its second annual men's invitation tournament a week from today.

By HONUS WAGNER,
Former Star, Now Coach of Pirates.

"To the Sports Editor:
Great little battle being staged in the American League these days. Those babies are scuffing up a lot of dust. Friend of mine who came up from the South on a train carrying the Tigers last said at the time he expected to find that team in front in October. He said those fellows really reminded you of Tigers, they were so alert and so filled with ginger. Getting Crowder from the Senators may help in the stretch. I think it will be a knock-down-drag-out fight clear down to the finish. Regards,

VON ELM LEADS HAGEN OPEN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Twenty rounds of golf which equalled or bettered par 71 for the East course at the Oak Hill golf club today had left the Rochester Centennial-Walter Hagen testimonial open golf tournament as a wide-open affair.

George Von Elm, Detroit, held the lead at the 36-hole mark with 71-67—138, but he was only one of three leaders who toured the course twice without going above par for a round.

A stroke behind Von Elm, whose 67 yesterday was only one stroke above the course record, came Ky Laffoon, of Denver, and Leo Diegel, of New York. Laffoon, who set the first-round pace Tuesday with a 68, slipped off to 71 yesterday. Diegel added a round of 69 on top of a 70.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, was tied for seventh place with 146, and Vincent Eldred, also of Pittsburgh, had 152.

MARY KUHN VICTOR

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 9.—Mary Kuhn, Pittsburgh Field Club star, led a field of more than 50 members of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania in a one-day medal play tournament over the Greensburg Country Club course yesterday, shooting an 83.

Mrs. J. R. Murphy, of St. Clair, and Mrs. William McCrady, of Edgewood, tied for second honors with 91.

Softball Slants

Entries for the Inter-State Softball Tournament close today. Teams wishing to enter may do so by writing Bert Dawson, 908 Florence street, East Liverpool, O.

Sugardales, of Canton; Trail Ends, of Alliance; Generals, of Akron, and the Favorites, of Cleveland, already have entered the Inter-State tourney.

The Snubs A. C. team, which has been making a fine showing against the strong softball teams in the city, will meet the Highviews this evening at Heth Field, East End. Joseph Grosney, of the Snubs, will probably face Danny Auslander on the mound.

The Pittsburgh Felts are open for a softball game away on Sunday with a first-class team using the 12-inch ball. Call Mundo at Court 6839.

The Elizabeth Produce team, which won the bracket IV championship in the Sun-Telegraph's softball tournament, will meet the Campbell Shamrocks in an exhibition softball game next Tuesday at Elizabeth.

Capt. Joe White's Harris Reds lost a 11-10 verdict in 10 innings to the Fort Black Community Club yesterday at Greenfield.

DIVING CHAMPS HERE

Harold (Dutch) Smith, Olympic and National fancy diving champion, and Fariad Simaiaka, Egyptian titleholder, also an Olympic star, are visitors here, and probably will appear in exhibitions at local pools next week. They recently concluded a 15 months tour of Europe, and are on their way to Los Angeles. They can be reached at A. A. U. headquarters, 35 Vandergrift building.

Personalities in Softball

George Schurr is the star first baseman of the Koppers Coal team, which finished in second place in Bracket I of the senior division of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's amateur softball tournament. He is a former baseball star. The Koppers got into the playoff series by virtue of their victory over the United States Engineers, first half champions of the Business Men's Softball League. Schurr has been playing a fine game at first base and is a fine hitter. Koppers finished third in the Business Men's League.

George Schurr

Little Joey DeBattista is one of the cleverest second basemen in softball. His fielding has been very spectacular for the Commercial Garage team, winners of the Bracket V crown. Joey attended Fifth Avenue High School, where he starred in football and baseball and was graduated in 1932. He is a mighty dangerous batsman. A victory for the Commercials tomorrow will put them in the thick of the race for the West Penn championship. They won their first elimination game by defeating the American Fruit Growers in the second round.

STOCKS RALLY ON SILVER DECREE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The stock market fell back, canceling yesterday's gains, only to recover again under leadership of the silver issues after news of the nationalization of silver today.

Losses of 1 to 2 points were numerous in the morning, but the list turned extremely dull as traders tried to digest President Roosevelt's Green Bay (Wis.) address and the silver nationalization order, just before mid-day. In the early afternoon, silver issues, after wavering uncertainly on the first appearance of the news, started upward, and most of the early losses in other divisions were canceled or reduced to small fractions. Grains and cotton encountered profit-taking and bonds were heavy.

United States Smelting, normally a wide mover, rose 3 points, and American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco advanced moderately. Gold stocks regained most of early losses.

Wall street's early efforts to interpret the silver nationalization were rather confused, but the action was not unexpected in view of the recent approach of the market price to 50 cents an ounce, the limit at which the Treasury could purchase domestic stocks other than newly mined metal. No immediate benefit for domestic silver producers were anticipated, inasmuch as they had been selling newly mined metal to the Treasury at 64½ cents an ounce since last December. The nationalization, however, some quarters felt, might clear the way for the Treasury to bid the world price up well above the 64½-cent level.

Wall street conservatives who had been expressing hopes that the President in his Green Bay address would announce specific plans as to the future of the recovery program, including relaxation of emergency regulatory measures, were disappointed. But with the President only just returning from several weeks absence from the capital, most quarters in Wall street had felt that his talk would necessarily be limited to generalities.

The silver nationalization was regarded by some as an indication that the government would try to answer the agitation for inflation by more vigorous pursuit of its silver purchase plan.

The day's business and corporate news was light, but included several more favorable earnings statements for the first half of the year. Wall street is now more interested in earnings prospects for the last half of the year, and takes it for granted that the current quarter will make a decidedly adverse showing in contrast to last year, inasmuch as a sharp seasonal lull has been experienced this summer, and must be compared with the abnormal flurry of activity last summer.

WHEAT VALUES PUSH AHEAD

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Grain prices averaged higher early today, influenced by official reports of continuing crop losses to wheat in Canada. With no drought relief in sight for the corn belt, corn values developed independent strength.

Opening unchanged to ½ higher, December new 1.11¾-1.12, wheat sagged somewhat and then rallied. Corn started ⅛ off to ⅛ up, and subsequently rose all around.

LAPORTE PLANS TO SPEED UP HOME LOANS

Less than one-seventh of the applications for loans have been granted by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Pittsburgh district office, during its first year, according to Ewing Laporte, recently appointed state manager. That is 3,330 of 24,051 applications have been allowed.

On the basis of an average loan of $3,000, this means that approximately $10,000,000 has been lent to Pittsburgh district home owners in need of $72,000,000.

This was revealed to the Sun-Telegraph by Laporte in a declaration that he is determined to speed up the making of loans, cut down the overhead and eliminate inefficient workers.

His latest move in this direction is the transfer of the HOLC offices from the Benedum-Trees Building to the old Federal Reserve Building, by which he claims to be saving half the rent previously paid.

He interprets the HOLC act to mean that the government is out to grant relief but is not giving charity, and that eventually the corporation should pay its own way.

REPLIES TO CRITICS

Replying to the criticism that many applications for loans are refused because the home owners are not in sufficient need or because they are in too serious need, Laporte cited Paragraph "L" in the HOLC act:

"No home mortgage or other obligation or lien shall be acquired by the corporation under subsection (d), and no cash advance shall be made under subsection (f), unless the applicant was in involuntary default on June 13, 1933, with respect to the indebtedness on his real estate and is unable to carry or refund his present mortgage indebtedness."

Hundreds of applications have been rejected throughout the state and national HOLC setup because there has not been enough value in the property to justify loans, Laporte explained.

APPLIES NEW METHODS

As proof that he is putting his new ideas into practice, Laporte said the state HOLC had closed more loans per week in July than were closed per month previously.

Despite admitted bungling and inefficiency in the personnel during the first year's operation, he said a total of $31,706,944 had been loaned on 10,618 applications in the state up to August 3.

This was out of a total of 91,970 applications filed.

Leveling additional criticism on past methods in vogue in the Pittsburgh district office, Laporte said he had discontinued the practice of handing out loan application blanks.

These applications, he said, should be and will be filled out by a staff member to save time, insure their eligibility and save the applicants many days of uncertainty.

If they are not eligible for loan consideration, the applicants will be told so before they leave the office, Laporte explained.

TREASURY BUYS HOLC BONDS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Results of the recent offering of short-term home owners loan corporation notes announced by the treasury showed the three and four year bonds had brought average prices under par.

Tenders for the three series of $50,000,000 each aggregated $233,126,000, of which $127,111,110 was accepted. In addition to the accepted bids, the treasury will purchase for the benefit of its investment funds $8,000,000 of the three year and $14,000,000 of the four year bonds.

The two year bonds bearing coupons of 1½ per cent were sold at an average price of 100.677. The three year bonds, with a coupon rate of 1¾ per cent, brought an average price of 99.931, and the four year issue sold at an average price of 99.962.

S. O. California Plans New Line

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—A $4,000,000 pipeline project consisting of 108 miles of 12-inch pipe to connect the oil fields of Kern County, Cal., with the company's marine terminal at Estero Bay, San Luis Obispo County, has been decided upon by the Standard Oil Company of California. The proposed new line will require approximately seven months to complete.

Text of U. S. Order Nationalizing Silver

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's proclamation nationalizing silver as made public by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today:

Whereas, by Paragraph 2 of Section 43, Title III, of the Act of Congress, approved May 12, 1933 (Public No. 10), as amended by the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, the President is authorized "by proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar in grains nine-tenths fine and also to fix the weight of the silver dollar in grains nine-tenths fine at a definite fixed ratio in relation to the gold dollar at such amounts as he finds necessary from his investigation to stabilize domestic prices or to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to provide for the unlimited coinage of such gold and silver at the ratio so fixed, . . ."; and "the President, in addition to the authority to provide for the unlimited coinage of silver at ratio so fixed, under such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, is further authorized to cause to be issued and delivered to the tenderer of silver for coinage, silver certificates in lieu of the standard silver dollars to which the tendered would be entitled and in an amount in dollars equal to the number of coined standard silver dollars that the tenderer of such silver for coinage would receive in standard silver dollars"; and "the President is further authorized to issue silver certificates in such denominations as he may prescribe against any silver bullion, silver or standard silver dollars in the Treasury not then held for redemption of any outstanding silver certificates, and to coin standard silver dollars or subsidiary currency for the redemption of such silver certificates"; and

Whereas, the silver purchase act of 1934, approved June 19, 1934, provides in Sections 2, 5 and 7, in part, as follows:

"Section 2—It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States that the proportion of silver to gold in the monetary stocks of the United States should be increased, with the ultimate objective of having and maintaining, one-fourth of the monetary value of such stocks in silver."

"Section 5—The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to issue silver certificates in such denominations as he may from time to time prescribe in a face amount not less than the cost of all silver purchased under the authority of Section 3, and such certificates shall be placed in actual circulation. There shall be maintained in the Treasury as security for all silver certificates heretofore or hereafter issued and at the time outstanding an amount of silver in bullion and standard silver dollars of a monetary value equal to the face amount of such silver certificates. All silver certificates heretofore or hereafter issued shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private, public charges, taxes, duties and dues, and shall be redeemable on demand at the Treasury of the United States in standard silver dollars; and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to coin standard silver dollars for such redemption."

MAY CLAIM SILVER

"Section 7—Whenever in the judgment of the President such action is necessary to effectuate the policy of this act, he may by Executive order require the delivery to the United States mints of any or all silver by whomever owned or possessed. The silver so delivered shall be coined into standard silver dollars or otherwise added to the monetary stocks of the United States as the President may determine; and there shall be returned therefor in standard silver dollars, or any other coin or currency of the United States, the monetary value of the silver so delivered less such deductions for seigniorage, brassage, coinage, and other mint charges as the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President shall have determined: Provided, that in no case shall the value of the amount returned therefore be less than the fair value at the time of such order of the silver required to be delivered as such value is determined by the market price over a reasonable period terminating at the time of such order . . ."

STABILIZATION NEEDED

Now, therefore, finding it necessary, in my judgment, to effectuate the policy of the Silver Purchase Act of 1934, to assist in increasing and stabilizing domestic prices, to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to promote the objectives of the proclamation of the 21st day of December, Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-Three, relating to the coinage of silver; by virtue of the power in me vested by the acts of Congress above cited, and other legislation designated for national recovery, and by virtue of all other authority in me vested;

I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do proclaim and direct that each United States mint shall receive for coinage or for addition to the monetary stocks of the United States, as hereinafter determined, any silver which such mint, subject to regulations prescribed hereunder by the Secretary of the Treasury, is satisfied was situated on the effective date hereof in the continental United States, including the Territory of Alaska.

COINAGE PROVIDED

The silver so delivered shall be added to the monetary stocks of the United States and shall be coined from time to time into standard silver dollars in such amounts as are required to carry out the provisions of this proclamation and to provide for the redemption of silver certificates; and there shall be returned therefor in standard silver dollars, silver certificates, or any other coin or currency of the United States, the monetary value of the silver so delivered (that is, $1.2929 a fine troy ounce), unless a deduction of 61 8-25 per cent thereof for seigniorage, brassage, coinage, and other mint charges, such deduction having been determined by the Secretary of the Treasury with my approval.

The provisions hereof are supplemental to the provisions of the proclamation of the 21st day of December, Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-Three, and the United States coinage mints shall continue to receive for coinage in accordance with the provisions of such proclamation silver which such mint, subject to regulations prescribed thereunder by the Secretary of the Treasury, is satisfied has been mined subsequently to the date of such proclamation, from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof;

OPTIONAL PAYMENT

Provided, however, that the director of the mint shall, at the option of the tenderer of such silver, deliver silver certificates in lieu of the standard silver dollar to which the tenderer of such silver for coinage would be entitled and in an amount in dollars equal to the coined standard silver dollars that the tenderer of such silver for coinage would receive in standard silver dollars.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to prescribe regulations to carry out the purposes of this proclamation.

Notice is hereby given that I reserve the right by virtue of the authority vested in me to revoke or modify this proclamation as the interest of the United States may seem to require.

This proclamation shall bear the date of, and becomes effective on, the day on which the Secretary or Acting Secretary of State countersigns the same, affixes thereto the seal of the United States, and deposits this proclamation so countersigned and sealed in the office of the Secretary of States, as a part of the archives of the nation.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

By the President; and countersigned and sealed with the seal of the United States, by direction of the President, this 9th day of August, in the Year of Our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-Four, and of the Independence of the United States of America the One Hundred and Fifty-Ninth.

CORDELL HULL
Secretary of State.

Memory Test

Answers to yesterday's Sports Memory Test questions follow:

1—Dazzy Vance was named the National League's most valuable player in 1924.

2—Don Gwinn was one of the smallest hammer throwers in college history.

3—Cy Young pitched the most games in the National League, 873 in 22 years, of which he won 511.

4—Bill White, of Cincinnati, pitched the most games in a single season in the National League, 75, in 1879.

5—Al Spalding was Boston's only pitcher in the National Association from 1871-1875. In 1875 he pitched 64 games, winning 57, losing four and tying three. Spalding pitched every game for his club, but the team did not play every day.

Cast Into Eden

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

CHAPTER XVIII.

Linda fell asleep. Jerome decided they were being shiftless and lazy in not making smoke signals from the high point of the island. After Papa Gorilla's first nocturnal visit they had not dared wander about and when they had established friendly relations a sort of sloth descended on them.

Then he began to wonder if it was entirely sloth. There was a fascination in their idleness, he told himself. But now, as he faced the situation frankly, this alibi did not ring true. It was something else. Another factor had become responsible for their acceptance of an isolation that alternated languor with such terrifying episodes as had just occurred.

They were beginning to like it. There was a poignant charm in their detachment from a world overcharged with vexations large and small. Not only had they both been sick and tired of the futile lives they had been leading, but more recently harassed at the state of their family and personal affairs. Here on this island nothing mattered, so far as the outer world was concerned.

But this was not enough to satisfy Jerome's natural candor with himself. He knew that he had been leaving out the real reason for their content with conditions that would be terrible to almost any other young man and woman of their class.

FALLING IN LOVE

They were falling in love with each other. Not in the usual more or less conventional way. Primitive impulses were growing in them . . . The isolation, return to absolute simplicity, sharing of danger that was terrifying and bizarre. Surmounting these dangers together had wrought a change in them. The civilized relationship was being laid aside and in its place was growing a sympathy that ignored social traditions . . .

That, Jerome told himself, was the danger here, and it must not occur. Sooner or later they must return to their former social lives, unless violently interrupted. Barring such violence, life here on the island was simple and natural. That of civilization had become like walking a slack wire—a constant effort at equilibrium.

The shadows began to deepen. Lindo slept on. Jerome went to the cook house to prepare supper. There was no lack of quantity and variety of their wholesome tropic fare and he reflected that if this thing kept on much longer they would put on weight. Linda had complained that she was doing so, even worse she could not gauge the Rubenesque process without scales or clothes to warn her.

One thing was certain, she was getting sweeter and lovelier. The petulance had gone from her face, and its look of hard intolerance. Her long grey eyes, with their double fringe of lashes that were much darker than her hair, had lost their scornful mockery, and a nose that nature had tilted provocatively remained that way without an added aggravating slant. The boyish chin was merely firm and not defiant, and a mouth unshaped for sneers had discarded them to become smiling and seductive.

STEALS ALL HER CLOTHES

As he visualized the improvement in these several traits and turned his omelet he was horrified to hear a piercing scream. He rushed out in time to see the bowed and neckless back of the Racketeer bounding across the cleared space under the trees, making for the jungle. The mischievous ape clutched in one paw a fluttering pennant of white, and in the other a smaller one of pink.

It looked back with a derisive chatter, and at the same moment Linda burst into Jerome's field of vision in hot pursuit. She was armed with the stump of the broken oar, and all that she had on was the one stocking and her stylish shoes. But she was too angry and too desperate to care anything about that. A trail of abuse streamed out behind her.

"You miserable, sneaking monkey..." she cried. "Drop it!..."

"Cha-cha . . . chikoo . . . yah" the Racketeer retorted.

Jerome grabbed up an empty bottle and hurled it, although the range was over long. Linda let drive with the oar-butt. Both missiles fell short of the target. The Racketeer gave his wild derisive yell and the jungle absorbed him.

Linda whirled behind a low bush. She raged at Jerome over the top: "You go in and smash those cursed chests one after the other. Never mind the clothes. I want a gun. There must be some."

"All right," he answered, and went into the house. He did not attack the chests, but with a fragment of bottle glass he cut out the soft old Spanish leather that upholstered two of the high backed prelate's chairs. Museum pieces that had served generations before perhaps as part of the chancel furniture of a cathedral.

LINDA WANTS GUN

Linda called through the verandah jalousies: "That filthy ape not only grabbed off the little left on me, but he pulled my hair. Get me a gun out of one of those moldy old crates. He's coming back pretty soon and then I'll fix him."

"Coming back...?"

"Of course. Now that he's got an edge on us he means to be our prime pest."

"How has he got an edge on us?" Jerome asked.

"He knew he had us scared before Papa ran him up a tree. When he started to puff out his chest and beat it you should have thrown a big rock at him."

"No rocks there . . ." Jerome had laid the pieces of fine, soft leather on the table and was cutting out the thongs with which to fasten them together.

Linda went on: "Something's got to be done about him. Each fresh trick he gets away with will make him bolder. It's all hooey that gorillas take no interest in females not of their species. He pulled my hair exactly like some fresh cub of a schoolboy, but harder. He'll be sneaking up and pinching me next."

Jerome tossed out the skirt he had extemporized. "Put that on. Yes, something's got to be done about the Racketeer. The old man has kept him squelched and now he's tickled to find somebody he thinks he can bully. But it's certain there are no firearms in those chests."

"Why so?" The old cordovan painted leather had faded, but was decorative.

"The Dueno wouldn't be fool enough to leave firearms where anybody who might see fit to visit the island in his absence could get them. There are some bad hombres floating up and down this coast. Criminals and refugees and political fugitives."

"Well, there may be tools so that we can build a dug-out or something. I tell you, Jerry, that ape is going from bad to worse."

"I might make a raft of bamboo to float us across to the mainland. The prevailing wind is on the coast."

"Then let's get busy."

"Tomorrow. It's getting dark." He spoke reluctantly.

PROCLAIM THEIR LOVE

"You don't seem so hot about it."

"I'm not. I have to expose you to the hardship and danger of shoving off on a flimsy raft and landing God knows where or in the midst of whom. We might run into something worse than this bad actor of a cub gorilla."

"Is that all?" Linda asked.

"No." He gave her a level look. "You know how I feel about all this . . . and you. I don't want you to leave this Eden as the First Woman left hers. It's still a pretty tough world out there."

She stepped closer and laid her hand on his shoulder. "You are a good egg, Jerry. A stouter fella than I am."

"I love you, Linda."

"I know you do. So do I love you. Does anything else greatly matter?"

"A tremendous lot, and for that very reason. If we weren't both broke it would be different. I simply can't let you go back into the world mated to a pauper and with nothing sure ahead. We don't know what might happen."

"I understand, dear . . ."

Synopsis

Jerome Crain, young naval architect, and a beautiful society girl, named Linda, land on a strange island in the Caribbean after having fled from a quarantined yacht. Their skiff is mysteriously set adrift and their clothes stolen, yet there is no other sign of a living human at first. Intermittently, however, blood-curdling cries come from the jungle. The mystery deepens with the finding of a well-kept though deserted plantation They take refuge in a small house there. That night, Linda's slip is torn off by some unseen creature and again the eerie scream is heard. The mystery of the prowlers clears with the appearance of a mother and father gorilla, their cub, and another hairy monster. Jerome recites poetry and feeds the animals sugar water to keep them from getting vicious. The dislike which Linda and Jerome had for one another changes to admiration for each other's courage. They discover a strange tree, full of luscious fruit. But a sign promises dire punisament to any who touch it. The gorilla chases them from it.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Better not try to mail any contest letters today, fellows!

Any letters that reach the Junior Patrol contest headquarters after midnight tonight won't be in this week's contest. Maybe if you live handy in Pittsburgh or nearby you could bring your letter right to the Sun-Telegraph Building, Telegraph square.

The winners, as usual, will be announced Saturday, and we expect they will be especially good letters. Watch for the winners' names and their letters!

A new contest is announced today in the Junior Patrol comic strip at the bottom of this page. Prizes and rules will be the same. Let's go, fellows, and write more and better letters than ever.

GOOD LETTER

Here is an especially good letter, written for last week's contest, that didn't win a prize, but was first honorable mention:

It's by Marion Swart, of 246 Park avenue, Washington, Pa., and several times she has written us some especially good letters, telling us about her Junior Patrol Club. Now here is her letter:

"I'd jump for joy if I had the chance of obtaining a cub bear for a pet. I'm sure every girl or boy would do the same.

"Although bears are lazy and slow, they are cute and cunning. In fact, they remind me of little babies. How I'd love to have the opportunity of holding a little bear in my arms and feeding it milk from a bottle. Wouldn't that be grand? Wouldn't it be fun to have a bear follow you from place to place just like a dog? I sure wish that opportunity would knock at my door."

We hope Marion writes more letters, and competes in other contests. She came very close to winning a prize in last week's contest.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.

Daily Short Short-Story

By LILLIAN E. HOMAN

Genial Slim Murphy stretched his long legs and arose from the depths of an easy chair. "Well, baby," he announced jauntily, thrusting the yellow sheet of paper into his pocket. "It's us for the big town again. When the boys wire their old pal to come back, they need him, what I mean."

The girl on the couch stirred, lifting her heavy lids, but she did not reply. Her transparent eyes contracted like those of a china cat on the lean, graceful figure of the man, recognized in the underworld as one of the cleverest "dips" in the game.

There was something slow and expansive about Mazie. She was almost bovine in her lazy, effortless movements; she never walked if she could ride; never sat up if she could lie down; she adored Slim, was proud of his shady success, although she assumed a bored expression when he sang his own praise, as he was given to doing.

"If they want a neat, particular job done—I'm the boy!" Slim was pacing about in his characteristic nervous fashion. "I claim nobody can beat me in a confidence game," and he held out his hands, flexing the long sensitive fingers, "when it comes to extracting 'pokes' well, I got technique all my own. You know that, kid."

Mazie merely nodded.

Slim became expansive. "Now, I never take chances, like some guys," he rambled on, rumpling his shock of sandy hair; "when I lift anything I'm pretty dead sure what I'm gettin'. I got a system they can't beat. It's my vocation—I was born that way, and," he added impressively, "I don't know what the inside of a jail looks like!"

"Yeah," Mazie yawned. "You're pretty slick, but I've noticed the wise guys are the biggest suckers. You know you can't win all the time, big boy."

Slim reached for his cap. "Oh, is that so!" he mocked. "Well, don't ever gamble on that, baby, 'cause I'm gonna keep right on hittin' the ball." He paused to light a cigaret, flicking the match into a far corner. "We ought to catch that late train for Chicago, tonight. The fair's on there and that's right up my alley."

"Listen, Slim," Mazie roused herself to remark as he reached the door, "I just gotta have a new suitcase—and I want a good one, too."

Slim raised his eyebrows questioningly. "Why, baby! Did I ever bring you anything that wasn't absolutely right?"

"So far, no. Now run on and get the reservations—be sure and get a drawing room. And hurry back—you gotta help with the packin'."

"Oh, sure, sure," Slim agreed genially, "you mean I gotta do all the packin'. And leave it to papa to get a bag that'll knock your eyes out."

It was more than an hour later when Slim turned from the ticket window in the busy Los Angeles terminal, carefully stowing away in an inner pocket his drawing room reservation. He suddenly remembered the suitcase Mazie had requested.

He glanced about the waiting room. Somewhere among all these travelers must be a good bag. Slim never bought anything he could pick up, thus saving a lot of money. So very carefully and casually he reconnoitered.

Finally he spied a well-dressed, prosperous - looking man, carrying a suitcase of medium size, obviously heavy. Slim followed the man, saw him set the bag down carefully, close beside the end of a bench, then without a backward glance, hurry away toward the information desk.

Slim sat down near the suitcase and surveyed it critically. Fashioned of black walrus hide, it was apparently new. But what decided him was the monogram—M. J.—Mazie's own—stamped in gold letters.

One glance toward the information desk where the owner seemed to be having some difficulty with the clerk, and Slim picked up the bag and nonchalantly walked away. Reach the street, he climbed into a waiting taxi. All very simple and disgustingly easy.

"Ha, baby! How's that for a bag? Ain't it a beauty?" Slim was boyishly eager, proud, rushing into the apartment clearing a place in the disordered table to deposit his loot.

Mazie, on the couch as usual, yawned and roused herself sufficiently to remark: "Yeah. It looks okeh."

"Okeh is right! That's the way I pick 'em. I got an eye for class and style. An look! Your initial already planted!" Slim was exultant. "Leave it to papa to bring home the old well-known bacon."

Mazie swung her feet to the floor and sat up, manifesting an indolent curiosity. "Where 'ja snatch it?" she inquired.

"Got that in the station after I bought the tickets."

"Seems to me you're taking a chance, pickin' up suitcases. Might be a bomb inside."

"Bomb nothin'! The guy that dropped that bag looked more like a prosperous bootlegger. It's kinda heavy—now wouldn't it be lucky if there was several quarts of good rye inside? Oh, boy! Let's have a look-see."

Confidently, Slim snapped the nickel catches, slipping back the two heavy straps that bound the bag. Releasing the catch in the lid, with a flourish he threw it open.

Instantly, with a hissing, rattlin sound, two big diamond-back snakes reared their ugly heads, tongues darting. "Sufferin' cats!" Slim, his eyes popping, sprang back and kept right on backing. The bag seemed full of writhing bodies.

Mazie snapped out of her lethargy, screamed and dashed for the nearest door, with Slim close on her heels. Together they plunged through, slamming the door behind them, just as a big five-foot snake detached itself from the suitcase and dropped to the floor.

The woman's china-cat eyes glared at Slim with a mixture of horror and indignation as he stood, back against the door, mopping his clammy brow with a shaking hand. "Well, if you ain't the prize jackass!" she snarled at him. "Whatd'ya mean, bringin' them things in here? Where's all the cunnin' you're always braggin' about?"

Slim shifted from one foot to the other, grinning inanely. "Aw, don't blame me, baby," he wheedled, "a guy can't win all the time—you said so yourself."

PARDON OUR LITTLE PUN, PROFESSOR

"Why is it," demands Professor David Waldo Fosdick, economist, "that women in America spend more for cosmetics than is spent for education throughout the entire nation?"

Professor Fosdick! Draw up a chair.
Don't be hysterical! There, there, there
Calm yourself. And now prepare
For what we deem fundamentals.

Women, by nature, constantly yearn
For a broad education. To learn
By trial and by error—they burn
For knowledge, Professor Fosdick.

So to the counters they constantly surge,
Buy rouge and lotions, make a great splurge;
Thus they obey the Cosmetic Urge!
(It's so silly, Professor Fosdick!)

No Cracked Ice For This Fever

You can now lose your money betting on horses in the afternoon and on the dogs at night.

It is fortunate for us the gamblers sleep late in the morning.

Looking over the national maps we find you can bet on turtle races in California, jumping frogs in Florida, trained beetles in Vermont and sauid fins in Virginia.

There are racing ostriches in Texas. There ain't anything that creeps or crawls that ain't in the money. We are training a stable of fast kitchen roaches to carry the writer's silks.

You can lose once a year on the Irish Sweepstakes, once every day on the Havana Number Lottery and twice a month on the Honduras Paddle Wheel. If the lodge wants to raise some money for the poor members, what do they do? They hold a raffle. And how did the poor members get poor? Betting on raffles.

There is a lure in gambling well known to the lads who fatten on human frailty. As a nation, the greatest gamblers are the Chinese. But as an individual, the American with money will bet his bottom dollar on the top card.

The game of contract bridge has killed off the tub workers and the slickers who operate on rattlers. That's because the skilled contest of poker has gone by the boards. Folks now play cards in their homes and a stranger has as much chance of crashing as a cross-eyed taxidermist has of stuffing a flea.

But contract bridge is played high and handsome. The writer has kibbitzed a game where the price was $10 a point. If you don't think that runs into golden gravy you are as crazy as a mouse making a nest out of fish heads and catnip.

In that game we saw one side get set for 1,200 points. Try and add that up without fainting. It ain't hay.

We have seen a gambler with 35 grand in an afternoon on the golf field. And he couldn't play well enough to make a Boy Scout sweat. The same night we watched him give it back at contract bridge. And a bit more.

We concede that we are a side-line coach in these contests. But even looking on makes your suspenders snap.

This is a gambling land. We ain't got the essential and necessary insides to bet like that. But we sure pile up a load of sneaking admiration for the boys who have.

The Price of Bread

The NRA Is Skating on Thin Ice in Undertaking to Raise the Cost of a Loaf

It looks as if Senator Borah's prompt movement to the defense of the Idaho baker who saw no reason to raise the price of bread, even if ordered by the National Recovery Administration, has thrown the recovery administration into confusion.

And well it may.

The BREAD of the people is a ticklish subject to fool with. It is not only the staff of life, but the symbol of sustenance.

The cost of it may be forced up by conditions beyond human control. This is bad enough and is always a sign of distress. It means a reduced scale of living and general hardship and privation.

But to jack up the cost of basic food to the consumer by bureaucratic fiat, against the judgment and despite the protests of a producer, content with his returns from his lower price, is to fly in the very face of reason and good conscience.

To an administration capable of pulling such a boner, the case takes on added seriousness, when it calls into action a critic so trenchant and powerful as Senator Borah, who promptly took occasion to assure the regimented baker that he was altogether justified in conducting his business as he had been accustomed, and in disregarding all instructions to raise the price of bread.

The Senator goes further, and promises to assist him in his defense, if prosecution is attempted, contending that the government's course is wrong in morals and economics, and without constitutional support.

The NRA, it seems, as a result of Senator Borah's intervention, has been seized with something bordering upon panic. Before this, it has felt the sting of his criticism. It knows his lash is cutting and leaves a welt. Knowledge and a firm grasp of American principles give weight and effect to his words. His courage never blanches. The New Dealers, planners, regimenters and pinch-beck intellectuals are no match for him.

Naturally they cower and run. No such order was given—they say. There was no authority to give it—if it was given. Anyway, it does not apply to non-competitive bakers, in towns of less than 2,500 population. And so on.

But this does not meet the situation at all!

If the arbitrary increase in the price of bread, decreed in obedience to a professor's theory, DOES APPLY to the larger towns and to our great urban communities, so much the worse!

Because—in the centers where the population is more dense, the struggle for existence is harder, and a needless increase in the cost of living is all the more devoid of justification.

Senator Borah calls attention to the reported advance of one cent a loaf in the price of bread, practically, throughout the United States.

"This," says the Senator, "means an increase of 12 per cent or more in the cost of the bread loaf in the American home. It means taking vast sums of money in the way of pennies out of the homes of the poorer people for one of the necessities of life."

There the case rests for the moment—not a very favorable exhibit, it would seem, for the New Deal, or the professor-bund, or the short-cut school of economics.

Mr. Scully's Resignation

Confidence in the Administration Will Be Further Impaired by His Departure

Public confidence in Mayor W. N. McNair's administration, already weakened by numerous weird official acts during the last seven months, will be further impaired by the forced resignation of Cornelius D. Scully as city solicitor.

Mr. Scully's good sense was reassuring. The citizens could feel that he would not let the Mayor go too far. He did not hesitate to say, if he thought so, that some official course of procedure proposed by Mr. McNair was illegal. His adverse opinion on the plan to tax "ground rents" is a case in point.

Now we are confronted with the danger that a "yes-man" will be given the job of city solicitor—a man who will servilely uphold the Mayor in his wild schemes. It is to be hoped, of course, that this will not be the case—that Mr. Scully's successor will be a man of sturdy independence.

But the indications are that we shall have to rely more than heretofore on City Council to keep the ship of state from taking too erratic a course.

Philadelphia's Method

Our Sister City Is Showing the "Numbers" Racketeers That They Are Engaged in Crime

Years ago Philadelphia was stigmatized as "corrupt and contented" by Lincoln Steffens in his revealing book on "The Shame of the Cities."

However justified or unjustified the characterization may have been, we have a different kind of Philadelphia now, as evidenced by the crusade recently launched for better law enforcement.

One of the evils that it is sought to eradicate is the "numbers" racket, and one of the results was the jailing last Friday of the two hundredth racketeer engaged in this contemptible game.

The "numbers" racket thrives in Pittsburgh. Almost every day the police round up offenders, but they are discharged or let off with light fines, or escape through legal technicalities.

Perhaps some of our prosecutors and local judges ought to visit Philadelphia on their vacations and find out how things are done there.

'The Safe Driver'

The Better Traffic Committee's New Publication Is Well Worth Study

To aid in preventing automobile accidents the Better Traffic Committee is distributing in Pittsburgh 100,000 copies of a folder entitled "The Safe Driver." It is notable for the diagrams and drawings showing how to drive properly. The artist was employed with Civil Works Administration funds.

Every motorist should study this pamphlet, and heed its teachings. Even veteran drivers will learn something from its perusal, we believe, and be better able as a result to avoid accidents.

"The Safe Driver" is a creditable piece of work and should prove useful.

Close Ear To Gossip

By Winifred Black

MRS. JOHN W. SOMETHING OR OTHER is worried? She's terribly worried.

Sometimes when her husband is busy down at the store on Saturday night, she just walks around the house and worries and worries.

I know she does because she wrote and told me all about it. And what do you think it is that worries her so?

Is her husband cruel to her? Does he neglect her and let all his friends know that he is crazy about the little blonde girl at the notion counter?

Not at all!

Husband seems to be a very decent sort of man.

Is there poverty, sickness, some uncurable ailment in the family?

Why the idea—it's nothing like that at all.

Mrs. John W. Something or Other is worried because somebody told her something perfectly awful about her dearest friend and Mrs. Something or Other doesn't know what to do about it.

"I love my friend," says Mrs. Something or Other. "She's such a generous, kind-hearted woman. She is always laughing and good natured and she is so pretty I just love to look at her. Her husband is a splendid fellow, too, my husband likes him almost as much as I like his wife.

"We had such good times together, the four of us, and we have been planning a nice little motor trip together this summer.

"At least we were going to—but now it's all spoiled.

"A woman came here visiting and she and I were talking one day and she told me she knew my friend before she was married and there was a lot of talk about her in the town where she lived.

"She and her husband went together a long time before they were married and people said—"

And Mrs. Something or Other could just cry her eyes out. She hates to give up the trip and yet how can she be seen going around with a woman who's been talked about, she wants to know what to do.

Well, now, Mrs. Something or Other, what should you do?

In the first place your friend is very pretty and very popular. How do you know that this woman isn't jealous of her, and is trying to get you not to go on that trip just because she would like to go herself?

What kind of a friend are you anyway to believe the first thing some stranger tells you about someone you are supposed to love?

And who are you to sit up and pass judgment on a kindly, good-hearted woman who's a good wife now—no matter what she has been, and a good friend to you, too?

What business is it of yours anyhow?

Do? I'd invite my friend to my house and have a cozy luncheon and plan what to wear on that trip and, who's going to get breakfast over the camp fire and just what to take along and what to leave behind.

And I wouldn't take any silly suspicions in my bag either.

And—whisper—wouldn't it be a joke if the woman who told you the things about your friend had told her the very same things about you?

LISTEN, WORLD!

Should We Have a 'Leisure Class' in America?

Gertrude Atherton is a brilliant and charming person. But with all due orchids and salaams, I do believe that the lady has made Bonehead Suggestion No. 7,425,689 when she remarks that America needs a "Larger Leisure Class."

"No country," says she, "can reach the highest stage of civilization without a leisure class, and the larger the country the more numerous should it be. The United States should have at least two million men, aside from college circles, who avowedly devote their lives to the steady development of the intellect and the aesthetic sense, varied, of course, by the lighter amusements and pleasures.

"With a young leisure class, then a mature leisure class, devoting themselves to the only things that give civilization a meaning, the awful problem of boredom would be solved for women, for they would have companions. Most of them are merely resigned to husbands who have nothing of interest to talk about when they come home at night."

And I'd like to know what our calloused Granddads would say to remarks like that! According to them, there were only two kinds of people in this country—Workers and Bums. Workers were all those who paid their own way by their own efforts—and included every man with a smitch of self respect. Bums were those who didn't. Bums might wear rags and whiskers and inhabit the jungle south of the railroad track. Or they might wear silk hats and pearl spats and reside in Riverside drive palaces. It mattered not—all Regular Guys worked at something. Those who didn't were tramps.

Any normal human being who had suddenly declared that he intended to belong to the Leisure Class—or had even expressed an admiration for their program—would have been hustled off to the hoosegow pronto by his horrified and humiliated family.

Within recent years, I regret to say, this attitude has altered. There has been a strange reaction toward work and workers. New slogans and ideals. "ONLY SAPS WORK." "EASY MONEY." An increasing conviction that work is a racket that smart guys should beat. And mushroom mobs of loafers demonstrating what a swell idea that is. Hotel lobbies filled with lounge lizards waiting for some woman to buy their cocktails. Gigolos at bargain prices.

Handy lads who do anything—provided it doesn't look like hard labor—in exchange for a home. Long-haired Litterati who—as far as mortal eye can discern—have never done anything since birth save litterat. As well as the regular varieties of moocher and gangster. And the usual moneyed morons who just hang around and fill in the chinks.

So I suppose America has at last achieved a Leisure Class. But why a smart woman like Mrs. Atherton should want two million more of 'em beats me. Whereupon she will doubtless protest—

"But these are not the people I have in mind. I referred to people of taste and intelligence—men and women who devote their lives to the pursuit of beauty and refinement—"

But that's just the point. People being what they are, it is utterly impossible to devote one's life to the pursuit of beauty and refinement, and continue to be worth a hoot as a human being. Millions have tried it—and look at them now. They have, it is true, covered all our better geography, surveyed countless objects of art, collected etchings, first editions, Mexican glass and funny dogs. But when it comes to sympathy, understanding, humor and horse sense, a good bowl of gruel has it all over them.

So, in spite of Mrs. Atherton, I'm afraid America isn't going to be very strong for a Leisure Class just yet. Except maybe for knick-knacks. You never can tell what people will collect. While as for these ladies who are so Frightfully Bored by husbands who can't talk about anything but Making Money—

Well, perhaps when I hear one of those dish-faced dolls refusing to take some of that money the making of which bores her so I'll begin to take her whining seriously. At present there's only one sight more disgusting to me than a male loafer—or one I'd rather use as a target for a nice, big, juicy custard pie—and that's a female one. So count me out, Mrs. Atherton, when you start assembling your Leisure Class. Or—I warn you—somebody will have to pick up a lot of de luxe remains.

WORDS OF THE WISE

Don't fear to swallow your anger; it will not cause indigestion.

Poverty may pinch an honest man, but it never destroys him.

The people who can lie with a straight face are apt to be crooked.

Money still talks, but some folks are not so interested in bank accounts as they used to be.

Sweet language will multiply friends, and a fair-speaking tongue will increase kind greetings.

Friendship which flows from the heart cannot be frozen by adversity, as the water that flows from the spring does not congeal in winter.

The sooner the better—delay is a fetter.

Half-hearted effort brings half-rounded success.

Life is the sum of our attainment, our experience, our character.

Take from man Hope and Sleep, and you make him the most wretched being on earth.

Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested.

Conversation is the music of the mind, an intellectual orchestra, where all the instruments should take a part, but where none should play together.

Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

Changed and Changeless

I never can go back to the old places
And find in every street and house some change,
And catch no glimpse of any kind, known faces.
But only meet eyes wary, glances strange,
Without a wonder that time's silent going
Can thus so alter all the world I knew,
And make of firmest substance but a flowing,
Elusive veil the wind might wander through.
I never can go back where waves are flinging
White spray, red sea-weed still upon the sand,
Where, as of old, the punctual tides are bringing
The ancient tribute of the sea to land,
But that I marvel things so changeful seeming
Endure unchanged, while all the rest was dreaming!

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

The value and importance of a compliment given in a sincere manner cannot be estimated.

The person struggling to get along, earnestly trying to meet requirements in his job, is greatly heartened by commendation from his superior.

It may seem a little thing to you, but deep in your heart you know you appreciate compliments from those you try to please.

Realizing this, you can understand what it means to the underling to whom you extend a word of praise.

You are ready enough to censor when displeased, but how often do you give evidence of satisfaction when something is done for you in the way you desire it?

As an employer you have a right to expect that those working for you will do their work properly.

It should be easy for you to give a pat on the back to the one who exceeds your demands and expectations.

Praise rarely reacts unfavorably on the person favored.

It almost invariably spurs the person to greater efforts.

Therefore commendation is a good thing for both employer and employe.

Conditions in Hawaii Are Fault of Congress

By James T. Williams, Jr.

UNLESS he can get the cooperation of the next Congress President Roosevelt will not be able to do much to better the administration of the territorial government of Hawaii.

Only Congress, which established the form of government under which Hawaii has become so largely an Asiatic community, can change conditions for the better.

The people of Hawaii are really not to blame for the exploitation which the islands have suffered at the hands of the ruling American families. Instead of developing Hawaii as an outpost of national defense in the Pacific, these ruling families have exploited it as a private commercial enterprise. As a result Hawaii, instead of being a source of strength, is rapidly becoming a source of weakness. It is impossible to make of what is fast becoming an Asiatic community the American Gibraltar that Hawaii should be.

If Congress had followed the advice which Theodore Roosevelt gave while he was President of the United States, Hawaii would not have been allowed to drift into its present plight.

In December, 1906, President Roosevelt, in a message to Congress, said:

"The administration of the affairs of Porto Rico, together with those of the Philippines, Hawaii and our other insular possessions, should be directed under one executive department."

Bill Introduced In House

IN the following January, after further study of the subject, the President had a bill introduced in the House of Representatives designating the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department as the federal office to exercise supervision over Hawaii. Because of the failure of Congress more than 25 years ago to follow the advice of a great American President the Hawaiian Islands are not serving today the purpose for which they were annexed—they are not the impregnable outpost in the Pacific which they were designed to be when they became American territory.

Another effort to obtain legislative remedy for the present conditions of affairs in Hawaii was made under the speakership of Mr. Garner during the last year of the Hoover administration. By the Democratic chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs — Congressman Quinn Williams, of Texas—a carefully drawn bill was introduced to reorganize the government of Hawaii.

By the terms of this progressive measure Congress would provide:

First—that the government of Hawaii should be under the supervision of the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, as are the Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal, in each of which the defense problem is paramount.

Second—that the chief executive of Hawaii should be a governor appointed by the President without reference to residence.

Third—that four executive departments should be created, each of which should be headed by a commissioner appointed by the President without reference to residence. These departments would be: Department of public instruction and health, department of agriculture and public works, department of finance, and department of justice.

Fourth—that the Governor and the four heads of departments, together with the commanding officers of the Army and Navy in Hawaii, should constitute the upper house of the Legislature. The lower house would be continued as at present. The Governor would be given general supervision over all executive offices of the United States in Hawaii.

Fifth—that there should be created a Hawaiian constabulary and provisions should be made for the detail of an officer of the Regular Army to command the constabulary and of three officers of the Army to be assistants to the chief of constabulary. The constabulary thus organized would be the exclusive police force of the islands, of the towns, city and counties.

May Become Outpost of National Defense

ENACTMENT of this proposed legislation would show that Congress fully recognizes the real reasons for the annexation of Hawaii and is prepared to offer every encouragement to the development of the people of the islands consistent with the needs of our national defense.

If President Roosevet will declare that the time has come to abandon once and for all the idea that the people of Hawaii should be less American than the people of continental United States, he will pave the way for legislation under which Hawaii will soon become the outpost of national defense in the Pacific which Congress intended it should be when that territory was annexed to the United States.

Interest in the Quest of the Holy Grail Is Revived With the Report of Its Discovery in France

By Edwin C. Hill

LEARNED men tell us that the age of reason has supplanted the age of faith, but the quest of the Holy Grail goes on through the centuries. Men still are moved by high romance, and Gawain and Galahad will live when Hitler and Stalin are forgotten. This time, it is Walter Rummel, the American composer, and Otto Rahn, German scientist, who think they have found the temple of the silver chalice of man's noblest hopes.

They supplement the work of Marcel Arnaud, French electrical engineer, who three years ago began excavations of the ruins of the Chateau de Montsegur, near Toulouse.

The chateau is on a mountain, 4,800 feet high, and said to be almost hollow, with vast halls, temples and galleries where the mediaeval sect of the Catharists took refuge from the armies of King Louis IX.

Among the great array of books on the Holy Grail, it is the Quete de San Grail, written by Robert de Borron, at the end of the twelfth century, which has guided modern archaeologists to the Chateau de Montsegur. It is this book, too, which is believed to have inspired the Arthurian legend, and to have projected this ancient quest into the world of today.

The Last 200 Burned in Fetters

THEREIN is told the story of the wanderings of the Catharists, guarding their treasure and taking their last stand at the site of the castle of Montsegur. They were overwhelmed by the King's armies. The last 200 of them were chained together and burned.

Is the hollow mountain the secred arcanum of this handwidth symbol of moral aspiration?

Old time newspapermen sometimes day-dream about the story of the ages. Which would it be: the story of the proven communication with Mars, or the soundly authenticated finding of the Holy Grail?

I suppose I would be shouted down, in this zenith of the age of reason, if I contended for the latter, but the Human Side of the News takes account of the human heart, rather than the mind, and somehow I can't believe that the photo-electric cell ever will become the enduring and inspiring symbol which is the Holy Grail—whether it is really in the world or not. And even in this world of science today, men are moved more by symbols than by syllogisms.

Montsegur may be debris and dust, but "the will to believe" does not perish. For nearly two decades, there reposed in a vault of the Chatham Phenix Bank at 107 Fifth avenue, New York, under the footfall of hurrying millions, an ancient vessel which several reputable archaeologists traced breathlessly near to Calvary. It was the Chalice of Antioch, uncovered by Arab workmen in 1910 in the ruins of a church built by the Emperor Constantine at Antioch, Syria.

It was brought here in 1914 by Fahim Kouchakji, antiquarian, from Paris. Uninsured, it threaded the submarine zone, a tragic antithesis of all it had stirred in the heart of man.

In 1924, Dr. Gustavus A. Eisen, distinguished archaeologist, suggested the strong possibility that it was the Holy Grail. In this, he was supported by the distinguished Arthur Bernard Cook, of Queen's College, Cambridge. C. Leonard Wooley, New York archaeologist, wrote a book, "Digging Into the Past," in which he dissented. He believed the workmanship to be of a period possibly 300 years after the crucifixion.

The chalice is of the golden age of Hellenic workmanship, seven by ten inches, and would contain two quarts of liquid.

There is a bas-relief of 11 figures, believed to represent Christ and 10 apostles. Some students have maintained that the workmanship shows the sculpture to have been executed at a period long after the original cup was made, thus sustaining the view that it was the Holy Grail, and account for Mr. Wooley's findings as to later workmanship.

It was sent to Paris to the Louvre, and then removed to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition. There in a sleazy booth, outside the Hall of Religions, one could see it, for a fee.

"Don't fail to see the Holy Grail—25 cents," chanted a shrill feminine voice. Grace was not free, here! Would the glooming Gawin unsheath his sword? Would Galahad come again? None seemed to expect them. The newspapers had no front page stories of deeds of high emprise.

Represents Mankind's Aspirations

THE Century of Progress was the apotheosis of power—dynamic lines of force made its temples and it had no shrine for a mystic chalice of infinite love. I seem to defeat my own contention as to the place of the Holy Grail in the heart of man. But I think of a gentle old man who paid his 25 cents and viewed the vessel of silver and gold with deep veneration. He said:

"It is the logos. It may or may not be the Holy Grail. I don't think anyone knows or ever will know. But that is not important. It is the chalice of all the aspirations of mankind. Even if I were an agnostic, I should revere it."

The story of Calvary, true or not, is man's noblest assertion of faith in the high destiny of the soul of man. Not to seem irreverent, it is man's greatest investment—it carries all his hopes. Sir Galahad seems to have left it in that mysterious city of Sarras, in the East. Who will find it? A scientist—a mystic—a poet?
